AN EXCITING MOMENT IN "CAPPY RICKS"

The New York Players, one of the biggest attractions on our Lyceum course will present "Cappy Ricks," a comedy-drama taken from Peter B. Kyne's famous stories in the Saturday Evening Post.

Nearly everyone has read this story of the sailor man, an officer in Cappy Ricks' fleet, who dared to follow his own conviction and as a result found himself fighting his former boss and the father of the girl he loves.

A big human battle, in which the younger man wins the fight, the woman he loves and the admiration of Cappy himself.

Many will remember "Cappy Ricks" as the play in which Tom Wise as "Cappy" and William Courtney as the Captain who wouldn't give in, played with such wonderful success.

A Wish

"I have taken Cardui for run-down, worn-out condition, nervousness and sleeplessness, and I was weak, too," says Mrs. Silvie Estes, of Jennings, Okla. "Cardui did me just lots of good—so much that I gave it to my daughter. She complained of a soreness in her sides and back. She took three bottles of

CARDUI

and her condition was much better.

"We have lived here, near Jennings, for 25 years, and now we have our own home in town. I have had to work pretty hard, as this country wasn't built up, and it made it hard for us.

"I WISH I could tell weak women of Cardui—the medicine that helped give me the strength to go on and do my work."

The Holiday Spirit

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union)

CAN there be anyone who does not polish up his holiday spirit by reading Dickens' "Christmas"? Is there anyone who does not find the fun of skimming the slide with Bob Cratchit and his comforter, "three yards exclusive of the fringe," streamer behind him like the woolly tall of Is there anyone who does not up the cold staircase with Old Scrooge and shiver into his dismal room to eat a small and lonely bowl of griddle with the crusty old gent?

Is there anyone who does not Tiny Tim and his wee, brave, And Mrs. Cratchit, who can goose to beat anything thus accomplished in the history of man?

And then, when we follow the of Christmas Past, can anyone be moved by the forlorn little Old Scrooge as a lad, left in-ness at school during the holiday? Could anything be more pathetic?

Has anyone such astounding courage of his feet that he can prevent from dancing at Mr. Fezziwig's party? And where is the impossible person who can suppress a cheer at that remarkable gentleman's performance with his legs? "If such there be mark him well," for he has no place in his heart for the lightful humors.

And then the damsel with the "tucker"! Dear me, what a creature! gave one interested young man Blind Man's Buff! And how he her up for it in a certain staid corner of the room; how he did deed! But she liked it. Oh, you liked it very much indeed, did the sel with the lace tucker!

Then to return to the Cratchit family, who is there to resist the toast of Tiny Tim, a toast of words that encompasses the hope of all men:

"GOD BLESS US, EVERY ONE!"

Raisin Macaroon Ice Cream. One quart cream, 1 cupful of raisins (1 doz.), 1/2 cupful sugar, 1 cupful finely chopped raisins, 1 spoonful vanilla.

The Piper in the Subway

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union)

THERE is a contrast to the bright atmosphere as one passes the dark and damp underground way of the great depot. A chill upon the soul as well as upon the body. The passer hurries on to into the light and cheer of the street. He hugs his Christmas package a little closer and tries to warm himself into something like gayety.

Suddenly he is startled and halted by the tones of a merry tune and covers the old blind man who has haunted the dismal place. For this unfortunate has made a little business to stand there and play the falling spirits of travelers. His face has refused the marks of distress and his soul has kept glowing behind its closed and curtained eyelids. As one stops to have a look and a word of appreciation with him he says, "Thank you; I don't know if ever did anybody any good; but people don't like it."

SURE ENOUGH

Jimmie: Sister says she expects a handsome present from you Christmas.

Cholly: Hand-some? Maybe she means me.

The body of ten "officers" "soldiers and sailors too" were normally enlisted for service in the ship to defend naval officers from blue-jackets, who in those early days were generally men of the lowest and worst character, who were put by the press-gang and bound manacled to the ships for a term of years.

The expression, "Toll is the rines," is applied especially to the teller of a more than ordinary story, but this phrase merely means fact that all sailors thought they were more shrewd and less easily fooled upon than landlubbers, and marine was consequently a board ship.
