The DIFFERENCE

BETWEEN

“SOUR” and “SWEET”

GASOLINE.

Two samples of gasoline may look just alike, smell alike, have the same gravity, initial and end point, but—

There is a big difference!

One gives every result you would expect from a high grade product.

The other, if put in storage, decomposes, turns yellow and develops an offensive odor. In a motor, it deposits excess carbon and attacks metal parts of the carburetor.

“Sour” gasoline contains sulphur compounds that in “sweet” gasoline have been removed by the doctor test.

It will pay you always to insist upon
