Where There's A Will There's A Way.

Cowardice sits and whines "I can't"; courage forces success. C. A. Ward entered our school last year, with only $33, to take a bookkeeping and shorthand course. He paid this on tuition and material, did janitor work to pay the rest, worked on Saturday and at odd times to pay his board. The day he graduated, he had paid his tuition, all expenses, had $20 cash and a $50 a month position, secured by the college, waiting for him.

Such courage and determination as his always wins respect, admiration and success.

Another young man enrolled with us with less than $10. He paid his way, board and tuition, by janitor work, milking, cutting wood, etc. Business men admired his pluck and aided him. He completed, did the official reporting of his district for four years, and is today the respected head of a growing college.

Another young man quit work in a saw mill in debt, borrowed the money to come to our school for a combined course of Bookkeeping and Shorthand, brought his wife with him and did light housekeeping. The day he finished his course, we placed him in a good railroad position at $65 per month, and he has advanced until he is now getting more than $100 per month.

What would weakness, fear, have done for those young men? What did stamina, will power do?

Emerson says: "Do what you are afraid to do;" we say strike out boldly—there are no obstacles that brave hearts cannot surmount.

Toil is the open sesame to wealth, and the brightest crown is won in the dust of the arena. What those young men did, you too can do.

Young friend, begin making your arrangements now to enter the Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas, for their most thorough practical course of Bookkeeping, Business Training, Shorthand, Typewriting, or Telegraphy.

Market Letter.

Nov. 9, '06.—Matters have been rocking along in a rice way mighty slow, because of the fact that at one end of the line it is hard to get cars to ship stuff in, and at this end of the line it is mighty hard to get cars delivered.

So far as values are concerned, there is no question but that there is an easier feeling and buyers are scanning the quality of goods much more closely than they have been. Japans, due to the fact of their being in light supply and few shipments coming in, are, relatively, doing better, and all offerings of this character are bought freely.

We are going to soon be at the time when we will have to be a little patient about selling. In other words, if we press to sell, the market will simply decline more than it should. Of course, so far as the New Orleans end of it is concerned, whatever stuff is shipped here will be turned into money, for the reason, that unless we do this, our farmer friends seem to quit shipping.

My advice to anybody who has rice, is to let a car come along to me occasionally, and, though meeting the market, not "crowd the mourners" by trying to sell in big blocks, or work it all off at once.

I don't touch upon competitive bids, because I don't think this phase of buying is as fierce or as general as it was. It is going to be a case of a man putting the value on that he has to sell to a buyer, and that is what we have the ability and capacity to do down here. We can't get $4 for $3 rice, but we can get full market value for all the rice we sell.

Faithfully yours,
S. Locke Breaux.

Teach Obedience.

Many a passionate child rules the household. The little baby on its mother's knee goes into a passion because its dinner is withheld from him, or some toy denied him. He shrieks and strikes his mother, and the mother says: "Poor little boy, he has such a passionate nature; he can't be crossed," and yields to him. She ought to spank him, spank him hard—for being in a passion, and give him nothing till his passion has cooled. The child, though he is so young that he cannot speak, if he is old enough to lift his fist and strike a blow, deserves punishment, needs to have a lesson of repression taught it. The mother who neglects this increases the chances of her son's going to the gallows. When the child is older, there are better disciplinary punishments than spanking, but when the child reaches such an age that they are useful, it may be too late, his temper may have grown into a dominating force in his character that can not be eradicated. Mothers sometimes say when a child shows a vile temper and shrieks a gooddeal, that it would endanger his life to punish him, perhaps so, but you still more endanger his future if you don't punish him. Many a gallows tragedy has had its beginning on the mother's lap. We wish we could write it in imperishable, glowing letters on the walls of every home—obedience, obedience, obedience! Obedience to law, to household law; to parental authority, unquestioning, instant, exact obedience. Obedience in the family; obedience in the school! Wherever, from the beginning, from the first glimmering intelligence in the child, there is expression of law, let there be taught respect for it and obedience to it. It is the royal road to virtue, to good virtue, to good citizenship, it is the only road.

How To Advertise.

Rayne Tribune: Some merchants think that good goods advertise themselves, and they are right to a certain extent. But the fact is that many people do not wish to discuss with their neighbors the new things which they have bought, and some forget to do so. A little reflection will convince one that there are limitations to this kind of advertising. The reliable way to reach customers is to advertise in the Tribune and tell them yourself every week what you have for sale.

Put Them On The Rock Pile.

Franklin Watchman: It is the shiftless of both races who bring about a riotous condition of public sentiment and thereby transpose a peaceable condition into one of misfortune and trouble. The way to settle the question is to put the negro vagrant and the white vagrant on the rock pile and teach them the elementary doctrine that industry is more peaceable than mischief and crime.

Honor the dear mother. Time has scattered snowy flakes on her brow, plowed deep furrows on her cheek, but is she not sweet and beautiful now? The lips are thin and shrunken, but those are the lips which have kissed many a hot tear from the childish cheek, and they are the sweetest lips in the world. The eye is dim, yet it glows with the soft radiance that can never fade. Ah! yes, she is a dear old mother. The sands of life are nearly run out, but feeble as she is, she will go farther, and reach down lower, for you than any other upon earth. You cannot enter a prison whose bars can keep her out: You cannot mount a scaffold to high for her to reach, that she may kiss and bless you in evidence of her deathless love. When the world shall despise and forsake you, when it leaves you by the wayside to perish unnoticed, the dear mother will gather you to her arms and tell you all your virtues, until you almost forget that your soul is disfigured with vices. Love her tenderly, and cheer her declining years with holy devotion—Ex.

When a man says he always was sick—troubled with a cough that lasted all winter—what would you think if he should say—he never was sick since using Ballard's Horehound Syrup. Such a man exists.
