Dual Office Holding and Unnecessary Offices.

I am emphatically opposed to dual office holding in any capacity, and, as far as it rests within my power, if elected, I intend to see that this practice shall no longer prevail. I am unalterably opposed to the creation of any more offices by the legislature. More than this, I am in favor of the abolition of all unnecessary offices. The multiplication of boards throughout the state, rendered necessary by our conditions, seems to have carried in their wake the creation of innumerable minor positions, the necessity for which does not appeal to me. With proper legislative action along these lines, large sums of money can be saved to the state. J. Y. Sanders.

And it does it in a way so different from that of ordinary medicines that it calls forth the loudest praises. Pleasant to take as lemonade. Try it now. 50 cents, six for $2.50. The road that leads directly to and across this bridge is well known and is made by the junction of the paths of Thrift, Economy, Foresight, Accumulation and Investment.

If you are traveling any of these paths (even if you are out on the main road) there are many reasons why you should identify yourself with a good, strong, conservative bank—an institution that is able to assist you when you come to the rough places in the road.

Come in and let us tell you other reasons why you should have an account with us
