VERMIN ON MATURE POULTRY
 Careful Poultryman Will Soon Acquire Habit of Looking for Injurious Insects.

On mature fowls, the lice, or their eggs, can be found between or on the feathers of the fluff, the soft feathers about the thighs and rear part of the body, on the underside of the long wing feathers, on top of the head or among the feathers on the side of the thighs. The careful poultryman gets the habit of looking continually for lice.

ENEMIES OF LITTLE CHICKS
 Prevention is Best Procedure Against Hawks, Crows, Weasels, Cats and Other Pests.

Hawks, crows, rats, foxes, skunks, weasels, cats, and dogs are the most dreaded enemies of the growing chicken and every spring thousands of chicks are destroyed by them. Poultrymen who have given thought and attention to the question of reducing the loss due to these pests say the best method of procedure is generally prevention.

NO BEST BREED OR VARIETY
 Best Plan is to Select Stock Preferred and Breed Up to High Standard of Quality.

There is no best breed or best variety of fowls. One person will succeed best with a certain breed and his neighbor will prefer a different breed. The best plan is to select the breed or variety that is preferred and, by proper mating, breed it up to a high standard of quality and production.

TURKEYS DEVOUR MANY BUGS
 If Given Free Range Fowls Will Readily Find Grasshoppers and Other Insects.

Given plenty of range, turkeys will readily find grasshoppers and other insects, green vegetation, the seeds of weeds and grasses, waste grain and acorns and nuts of various kinds. In this way the cost of raising them is very small and the profits large.

GREEN FEED FOR HEN FLOCK

Providing It is Relished by Fowls There Probably is Little Difference in Kind Fed.

Every poultry keeper has a favorite green feed for his flock. Usually it is one that can be supplied with least expense and effort. Providing it is relished by the fowls, there probably is little difference in what kind of green feed is supplied. United States department of agriculture specialists say. Cabbages, turnips and beets are all suitable for this purpose. The larger roots and the cabbages may be suspended by a wire or they may be placed on the floor, in which case it is well to split the turnips or beets lengthwise with a large knife. Potatoes may also be fed and should be cooked. The mangel is excellent for feeding raw.

Clover, cut up and soaked in boiling water, is good when fed with mash, as is clover meal and ground alfalfa. Sprouted oats or other sprouted grains may also be fed and make excellent green feeds, but require considerable labor. As a general thing the flock should have, once a day, about all the green feed it will eat.

RANGE FOR GROWING CHICKS

Quantities of Green Feed, Bugs, Worms and Other Things Obtained in Place of Grain.

Nothing is better for growing chicks than a liberal supply of sour milk. If it can be obtained, it always should be kept before them in an open dish or pan where they can eat and drink it freely. Where sour milk is fed, the amount of beef scrap in the dry mash may be reduced one-half.

Plenty of fresh, clean water is absolutely necessary for all growing chicks. In hot weather, it should be given twice daily and put into fountains or dishes and placed in the shade so as to keep as cool as possible. Clean the water dish thoroughly each day before filling.

An abundance of free range with plenty of shade is necessary if chicks are to grow rapidly and develop into vigorous fowls, says the United States department of agriculture. Growing chicks that have free range obtain quantities of green feed, bugs, worms and other things, therefore requiring less grain, and they are also less liable to sickness or disease. Give your chicks free range whenever possible.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.
