Split Session of the Legislature.

Senator Clinton has submitted to the General Assembly a constitutional amendment proposing split sessions of the Legislature.

It is the intention that at the first session that bills be proposed and that after an interval of several months that the subsequent session pass or reject such measures as may be dictated by the wise consideration to which they have been subjected during the interval.

We think that the amendment should become a law. Under such a system there would be better opportunity to digest and discuss proposed laws and under its operation very few bad laws would run the gauntlet of public opinion which would by this system have opportunity and time to examine in detail proposed legislation.

Under the new system it is not probable that such a miscarriage of justice could occur as did occur in the Walters case.

The visit to this parish on the 9th inst. of the Editors representing a large number of the farm journals will afford opportunity to show first hands the great natural resources of this section. The gentlemen composing this party will receive a warm welcome to this parish. Under any circumstances they would be received with hospitality, but we feel sure that their present visit will result in mutual good feeling. They will arrive on the train from the west at 4:20 p. m., July 9th, and every citizen is expected to meet them.

Two cases of bubonic plague have been reported in New Orleans. Such a report a few years ago would have thrown the whole country into a panic, but with scientific methods of combating this dreadful disease, no alarm is felt. Compare the situation with the panic that has heretofore prevailed when the first few cases of yellow fever were announced. We feel certain that there will be no spread of the present outbreak.

AN EX-EDITOR PASSES AWAY.

The Sentinel notes with deep and sincere regret the announcement of the death in Natchez, at an early hour Thursday morning, after a comparatively brief illness, of Major Douglas M. Walworth, in the 81st year of his age.

Major Walworth was a native of Natchez, and having been educated for the bar, practiced law in his native city for many years, his practice being interrupted by the breaking out of the civil war, in which he enlisted, and served throughout in various capacities until the curtain was rung down at Appomattox, in 1865.

For a number of years Maj. Walworth has lived a retired life, writing only occasionally for the press, which was always glad to get his products, and giving them space, he being a fluent, easy, graceful writer, having superb command of the English language, and always keeping well posted as to the current events of the day.

Maj. Walworth was connected with the Natchez Democrat, as the business partner of the late lamented Capt. James W. Lambert, which partnership continued for only a few years, but Major Walworth continued as its editor up to the fall of 1893, when he severed his connection with the paper, and has lived in retirement ever since.

The deceased was of the old school, a true Southern gentleman, high-spirited, aggressive in all things and as gallant and courteous as the typical Southerners were, quick to resent an insult, and equally as quick to forgive, or to apologize if he were in the wrong, a trait that is possessed only by men of such high and lofty character as the deceased.

Twice married, Maj. Walworth is survived by his present widow, Mrs. Jeannette Hademann Walworth (the first wife preceding him to the grave many years ago,) and by the following issue of his first wife: Mesdames J. C. Brooks and J. E. Pogue, Deeson, Miss., Mrs. Wallace Wilbourn, of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Kestine Walworth, of Natchez, all of whom have the sincerest sympathies of the Sentinel in their irreparable loss.

Major Walworth was a Mason of high standing for a number of years, and a member of the Natchez Camp of Confederate Veterans, by all of whom he was held in the highest esteem.

His funeral took place from the family residence on North Union street, on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Rev. Joseph Kuhle, rector of Trinity Church, of which the deceased was a life-long member, officiating, and was largely attended by the Confederate veterans and others.—Concordia Sentinel.

PRIZES FOR PUZZLE SOLVERS.

The Times Picayune of New Orleans is offering a number of cash prizes for the solution of 77 puzzle pictures, comprising its Song Lovers Picture Game.

This is one of the most interesting features offered by any paper in this territory for a number of years, and a great many people of Louisiana and Mississippi are at the present time playing the game.

A picture is published in each issue of the paper, representing the title of some song. A list of these songs is gotten up in catalog form. One does not have to know anything about songs or the words of songs to solve the pictures. All that is necessary is to get the pictures and the catalog, and then look through the catalog until you find the title, that in your notion, best fits the picture.

One Thousand Dollars is offered to the person sending in the most correct answers to the 77 pictures, and Twenty-five Hundred Dollars in cash is the total amount of all the prizes originally offered.

In order to stimulate interest in the picture game, and to add new subscribers, the management of the Times Picayune has offered to double the amount of any prize won by any person who send in a new subscriber paid six months in advance.

"We would not be without our telephone for more than it costs and appreciate the assistance you rendered us."
