FAST HORSES AT FAIR.

Louisiana State Fair Meet This Year Promises to Attract Fine Animals.

As usual, horse racing will come in for a good share of space on the amusement program at the Louisiana State Fair this year. It requires no indication that some of the fastest, finest and harness horses in the country will be on the swift mile track at Shreveport during the five days set apart for these events. The first program will be given on the opening day of the Fair, November 4. The other race days are: November 5 and 6, and 9 and 10, Saturday and Sunday, November 7 and 8 are skipped, Saturday being School and College Day and Sunday being Labor Day. There will be at least two running events and as many harness races each afternoon. It is expected that there will be a large number of entries in each event, judging by the applications for information about the big annual meet heretofore some of the best obtainable have been attracted here. They received good treatment, and promised to return, and it is safe to say that plenty of fine racers will be seen again this year. In the matter of inducement the management has set aside $3500 in purses. For additional information write to State Fair Secretary, Louis N. Brueggerhoff, Shreveport, La. STATE FAIR CATTLE SHOW.

Will Be Record-Breaking This Year Premium Offers Liberal.

With inducements to the exhibitors including prizes aggregating $2,658 in cash to be distributed among different breeds, and convenient facilities, the best to be found anywhere, the cattle show at the Louisiana State Fair this year promises to be a record-breaker for the South. The number of inquiries about space reservations indicates that breeders of fine blooded stock will be on hand from various sections of the country, and visitors to the cattle barns will be assured of splendid entertainment. In increasing the premium money and giving particular attention to the other features necessary for putting on a real big show, the State Fair management is recognizing the importance of the cattle industry in Louisiana and the Southwest generally. During the past few years there has been an amazing growth of interest in regard to raising cattle of pure, first class blood. The industry is becoming known as one worth the farmer's attention, not only for the enjoyment of milk and beef and the other products for home consumption, but as a marketable business. The State Fair exhibits and demonstrations of the past few years have played a prominent part in arousing this interest. Each year sees an improvement in the class and quantity of animals exhibited, and a corresponding improvement in interest manifested, and encouraged by the results of the past, the State Fair officials this year have arranged for the best show of all.

It is expected that farmers from all over the state will be in attendance and it is especially desired that those of the south and central Louisiana be represented, particularly from the cane districts, so they may be stimulated with a desire to diversify. The prize will be divided among the breeds of cattle as follows: Short Horn $1,100; Herefords, $800; Red Polled $290; Polled Durhams, $158.50; Aberdeen Angus, $300; Jerseys $665.50; Louisiana Jerseys, $175; Guernseys, $39; Holsteins, $18; also $100 for dairy demonstration work. The total for the cattle display is $2,658, several hundred more than was appropriated last year for this division. In addition to the prizes, there will be other inducements in the way of cheap railroad rates on the cattle shipped for exhibit also for passengers to the fair. There will also be two big auction sales. One will be held November 6 on Jerseys. About sixty head of registered cattle will be offered to the highest bidders. A similar sale last year was a gigantic success. A catalogue showing the registrations will be provided upon application. The other sale will be on beef breeds and many fine bargains are expected. The cattle division will be in charge of experts. H. S. Staples of the state university will be superintendent. He is also head of the State Jersey Breeders' Association. H. O. Moxley, of Shelbyville, Ky., will be judge of beef breeds, and H. G. Van Felt of Waterloo, Iowa, will judge of dairy breeds. Catalogue and premium list will be furnished upon application to Louis N. Brueggerhoff, secretary of the Louisiana Fair Association, Shreveport, La. Remember the dates of the fair, Nov. 4-11.
