THE BLUECHER'S DEATH AGONY

This most dramatic and wonderful picture of the great war was made during the last moments of the doomed German cruiser Bluecher, just a few moments before she sank, following the first battle between dreadnaughts. The photograph was made by an officer from the deck of the British cruiser Arethusa. After floating for a brief time on her side the Bluecher turned deliberately over. For about ten minutes before taking her final plunge she floated keel up while several of her crew ran along the bottom of the vessel and then disappeared from sight.

MACHINE GUN MEN CREEP INTO POSITION

This picture, an actual scene on the western battle line, shows a German light artillery and machine gun detachment moving closer and closer to the enemy's lines in an effort to gain a position from which the allies' trenches can be swept with gunfire preparatory to a charge. So effective is the fire of these light machine guns that the few men seen in the picture could withstand an entire regiment if the latter charged them across an open field.

A BAD CASE AND ITS RELIEF

Lady Tells Details of Ten Years Of Suffering Which Now Lies Behind Her.

Wallace, Va.—Mrs. Mary Vest, of this town, says: "About ten years ago, I had very poor health, and for five years it steadily got worse. I could not stand on my feet. I got so I could only drag about in the room. Most of the time I was not able to do my work."

I had terrible bearing-down pains, my back ached all the time and was very weak. I could scarcely carry anything and suffered when I lifted anything. The muscles in my abdomen were so weak I could scarcely lift myself up straight, and I thought I would surely grow crooked. I had difficulty in walking, it was so painful. I suffered in hips and back and could hardly raise up at all. At times, I couldn't sit on the chair—would have to lie down. I was in such agony. I just sat around and cried.

At this time, about five years ago, I began to take Cardui, at my mother's insistence. After two or three weeks' use I saw an improvement. The pains got less gradually until they disappeared. In two months I could walk without pain and could do most of my work. For about three years my improvement was steady and continued until I had back my health and strength.

The cure has been permanent, for I have been in good health for the past two years, due to my having taken Cardui, which effected the cure." All druggists sell Cardui. Try it.—Adv.
