THE LAUGH ON HIMSELF Got Away With the Oatmeal and Also Succeeded in Saving Precious Whisky.

L.P. Hartz of Detroit, the doyen of the American Surgical Trade association, said at the fiftieth annual convention in New York:

The war has killed the price of carbolio acid up to $1.65 a pound—it sold before the war at nine cents a pound.

The man who has never failed has never tried anything that wasn't done before.

The more glasses a man looks through the more strange things he will see.

By doing your thinking in advance you save yourself the trouble of apologizing afterwards.

"Old men for counsel, young men for war," may be true, but lawsuits are popular with all ages.

It's surprising how much more willing a man is to give up his turn in a dental parlor than in a barber shop.

If we married wives with as much care as we trade horses, Solomon in all his glory would be eclipsed by our wisdom.

When the world gets down to the basis of paying cash for everything we will hear no more about the high cost of living.

There's some hope for the fool who is willing to learn; but there's positively none for the fool who insists on being the teacher.

The Quality Egg club, a co-operative selling organization of Lyon county farm women in Kansas, is doing $1,000 worth of business a week.

When a man comes into the house and slips his wife a $10 bill that she didn't know he had she always wonders what it is that he's been doing that he's trying to cover up.

Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union of America Matters of Special Moment to the Progressive Agriculturist

A pony of brandy is a fiery steed. If you would get even with a man pay him what you owe him.

No man likes to take his own medicine. There is nothing so bitter.

An old bachelor says a woman's tongue is an organ without stops.

If you can't help along the van of progress, at least keep out of its way.

Politics, like any other disease, hurts worse the more one thinks about it.

When a man displays his temper he is merely making a show of himself.

There is not enough of the community spirit among our rural districts.

The man who has never failed has never tried anything that wasn't done before.

The more glasses a man looks through the more strange things he will see.

COTTON MAKES NEW RECORD Crop of 1914 Largest Ever Produced, Says Census Report—Total for Texas 4,592,112 Bales.

The American cotton crop of 1914 was the largest ever produced, having reached 16,134,930 equivalent 500-pound bales, which, if placed end to end, would reach more than half around the world at the equator.

These statistics are 32,787 bales more than the census bureau's preliminary estimate of last March, and 168,930 bales more than estimated by the department of agriculture's crop-reporting board last December.

Linters cotton, now being used extensively in manufacturing shells for big guns, amounted to 791,644 bales, making a total production of 16,926,374 equivalent 500-pound bales of cotton, including linters.

Texas alone produced more than one-fourth of the crop, 4,592,112 bales; Georgia one-sixth of the crop, 2,718,037 bales.

Those states, with Alabama, South Carolina, Oklahoma and Mississippi, produced more than four-fifths of the entire crop.

Alabama's total was 1,751,375 bales; South Carolina 1,532,810; Oklahoma, 1,268,176, and Mississippi, 1,245,535.

The remainder of the 18 cotton-growing states each grew less than one million bales.

Ellis county, Texas, was the banner cotton county of the United States, having grown 143,714 bales, or approximately 75 per cent more than the entire crop of Missouri or Florida.

When the household feline has temporarily vacated the premises, the small rodents will undoubtedly take advantage of her absence to participate in unseemly gambols commensurate with the joyous occasion.

The operation of conveying a beast of burden in the general direction of the trough containing aqua distilla may prove to be one of comparative ease, but the process of inducing the quadruped to partake of the contents thereof is often a matter of conjecture, to be determined only by the avowed inclination of the animal in question.—Judge.

CONVEY MUCH IN FEW WORDS Japanese Proverbs Pungent and Their Repartee Apt to Be Keen and Stinging.

It has been said that the Japanese are as apt and unique in their proverbs as they are in their works of art.

While the tongue works the brain sleeps," is another saying of the Japanese, which expresses their contempt for loquacious persons.

The Japanese are quick at repartee; their wit is keen and tempered, and they can often administer a perfect snub in brief, terse form.

There was being tried in a court a case involving the possession and ownership of a piece of property.

Cool Request. "Would you be kind enough to return my photograph?" she wrote.

Of course she pictured that photograph framed and hung up in his room, and was inclined to think that he would part from it with deep regret.

"I regret," it read, "that I am unable at this late date to pick out your photograph. However, I send you my entire collection, numbering a little over 500, and would request that you return all except your own by passenger train at my expense."

A Forlorn Hope. "Mr. Cornocobbe, I dare say your son has learned a great many things at college."

"Yes, He's learnt how ter yell, how ter dance, how ter play football an' baseball, how ter set in a stiff game of poker, an' has other accomplishments I haven't been able ter classify yet, but I hope ter find among 'em what I'm looking for."
