SEVEN HUN SPIES SHOT IN BRITAIN

Another Was Hanged and Many More Are Serving Prison Terms.

TRICKED BY DETECTIVES

False News Manufactured So That Germany Might Be Misinformed—Spies Were of Very Little Service to Germany.

London.—In the possession of a sergeant-major of the British military police is a peculiarly made leather strap—rather, a series of straps—for which Madame Tussaud's doubtless would pay a large sum of money.

It is the strap with which German spies caught in this country and condemned to death were fastened in a special chair at the Tower of London prior to being shot.

Germany's vaunted spy system, like the overboomed German navy, hardly realized expectations. There were, it is true, a great many spies in England, both before and after the war.

The British secret service resembled its magnificent navy. It did its work as silently and effectively, and the necessary reticence observed as to its doings contributed very materially to the discomfiture felt by the German government.

Mythical Barrage in Channel.

As a matter of fact, the naval intelligence department, under Rear Admiral Hall, acting in conjunction with the censor's department, provided false information to the Germans.

Nearly all Germany's spies in this country attempted to forward their information by post. But thanks to the censor's staff it was rarely these letters, even although written in invisible ink, went undetected.

All spies were not arrested immediately they were detected. The British secret service, ever considerate, allowed them to send and receive letters and collect information, but it reserved the privilege of opening the correspondence both ways and making alterations likely to be of more use to the allies than to Germany.

It is difficult to estimate the value of the information obtained by this method. The Hun, with his profound disrespect for British finesse, probably never will believe that Britain could be guilty of such astuteness.

It is certain that Germany obtained very little that was useful from her spies in England. From the outbreak of war the ports were too carefully watched to permit of much leakage.

Eight German spies were executed in this country, while many more are undergoing long terms of penal servitude. For obvious reasons the names of many never were revealed.

The imperial government continued to communicate with them blissfully unaware that their agents had gone to a bourne from which not even a German spy returns. The British secret service kindly acted as the spy's deputy.

The execution of these spies is naturally an unpleasant subject, out none

COLONEL TOOK FOOD TO BOYS

Soldier Lauds the Bravery of Leader of Chicago Regiment.

WENT FORWARD UNDER FIRE

It Was at Chipilly Ridge, and Men Had Nothing to Eat for Couple of Days—Colonel Wanted to Be Sure They Got It.

New York.—That Col. Joseph B. Sanborn, commander of Chicago's old First Illinois National Guard regiment, personally carried food to his men through terrific fire in that engagement at Chipilly ridge in August, when Chicago's noted regiment was shot to pieces, was the story told by Sergt. C. William Keane of Chicago, who recently arrived here on board a transport from France.

Keane, who was a student at Notre the less interesting. After the secret trial and condemnation to death the spy was taken to the tower, there to await the dread summons in the early hours of the morning. Taken from his cell by a party of military police the spy was strapped to a chair in a quadrangle of the tower. There, facing him, about ten paces distant, was a firing party, usually eight men, from the battalion of guards on duty at the time.

A low instruction from the officer in command to aim at the heart, a sharp order "Fire" a burst of flame, and the crack of eight rifles had ended the career of another of Germany's tools.

One spy was hanged at Wormwood Scrubs prison; seven others were shot. The hanging cost about $100 and, coming to the conclusion that it would be just as effective, to say nothing of considerably cheaper, it was decided to shoot all spies at the tower.

Eight cartridges at three cents each was a much more appropriate valuation of a German.

Of the female spies much doubtless will be written by fiction writers of the future. Like the men, they succeeded in getting comparatively little information of value out of the country. Most of them, neither young nor beautiful like the spy of the story writer, are languishing behind prison walls and will remain there for some years to come. British chivalry forbade their execution.

Dame university until 1910, but loose in Mexico, has several heroic feats to his own credit, but he attributes his bravery to Colonel Sanborn's inspiring leadership. Keane had the Military Cross pinned on his breast by King George on the same day that General Pershing was made a Knight of the Bath. He also wears the American D. S. C. Keane has lost his right leg.

Tells of Sanborn's Bravery. His story was told by a buddy of his in the One Hundred and Thirty-first infantry, but young Keane interrupted with:

"Say, if you were fighting under a man like Colonel Sanborn, our commander, you couldn't help pitching in with every drop of blood in your body. Do you know what Colonel Sanborn did at Chipilly ridge in August, when our outfit was so badly shot up? We were up there with nothing to eat or drink for a couple of days until Colonel Sanborn personally brought rations to us on his back under the most terrific fire that I ever experienced."

"He did that because he wanted to be sure that the food would reach us and he figured the best way to make sure was to carry it himself. Who wouldn't fight like the devil under a commander like that?"

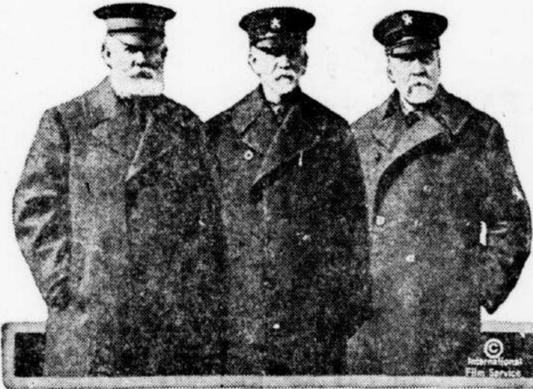

Keane went to the Mexican border with the First and re-enlisted later for overseas service. He was decorated by King George for his work at Hamel on July 4 when the One Hundred and Thirty-first was brigaded with Australians.

Keane Rescues Wounded.

Keane had charge of directing the work of stretcher bearers. Party after party of them went into No Man's Land that day and failed to return. Keane went out to find them. He found them dead, lying across the stretchers with the wounded men. They had been killed in their work of mercy by the Germans. At that moment a party of Germans made a sortie to capture Keane, but it ended in his killing several of them, forcing the others to surrender and to carry the wounded men and the stretcher bearers they had killed back to the allied lines.

He won the American Distinguished cross in the Argonne on October 10.

Cod, Fearing Sharks, Swallows His Money

Boston.—Tom, Grandetto of the dory fishing fleet caught a cod, and in its stomach he found a gold English sovereign. Along the waterfront there is a difference of opinion. One is that the fish feared the sharks would get his money and preferred to be his own banker. The other is that the fish picked up the coin from some ship that had been sunk by a submarine.

Refuses to Raise Chickens.

Greenville, O.—There is a new allegation in an answer to a divorce petition filed in the county court here by Ira E. Bickel. After denying all of the allegations made by his wife, which were the old stereotyped charges, Bickel comes back and says his wife refused to "raise chickens or do anything else that she ought to do."

Greece Wants U. S. Chasers

Seeks to Purchase Speedy Boats No Longer Needed by American Navy.

Paris.—Greek naval authorities have been examining American submarine chasers which have been in the Adriatic sea with a view to their purchase. The Greek navy already had two former American battleships and experts in the service favor a further augmentation of the fleet with American craft.

A fleet of 36 chasers was sent to the Adriatic to co-operate with the cruisers Olympia and Birmingham and eight destroyers in carrying out America's role in the execution of the provisions of the armistice with Austria. The chasers are now at Malta for overhauling, but in the meantime the Greek government is making overtures for their purchase. These proposals may be entertained, as the close of the war makes it probable that there will be little further need of the chas-

YANK ARMY SECOND

Only Exceeded on Western Front by French.

We Had 1,950,000, France 2,559,000 and Great Britain 1,715,000 Men.

Washington.—America had the second largest allied army on the western front when the armistice was signed, according to announcement made by Gen. Peyton C. March, chief of staff. France stood first with 2,559,000 men, the United States second with 1,950,000 men, and England third with 1,715,000 men, including Portuguese. This is an official statement of the situation, and is quite different from predictions made a year ago by German military critics that in any event the United States would not be able to place more than 600,000 men in Europe.

"We now have fairly complete reports of the strength of the allied forces on the western front at the time of the armistice," said General March, "and we find from these reports that the United States force had passed the force of Great Britain in strength, and was the second force in strength on November 11. These figures, which I have given to you are the 'ration strength,' meaning they include every man who had to be fed—combatant, noncombatant, medical men, services of supply men, etc."

Pigs Go on a Drunk.

Seattle, Wash.—Alarming reports of a herd of intoxicated pigs on a ranch near Auburn, Wash., led Federal Internal Revenue officers to investigate. They found the animals suffering with a "hold-over jug" obtained by cutting rice and corn mash used in the manufacture of whisky. It is believed the pigs obtained the mash from a Japanese liquor plant that was seized recently by federal officers.

ROUT ALIENS TO GET JOBS

Canadian Soldiers Just Returned From the Front Cause Excitement at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man.—Aliens were chased about the city and forced to kiss the Union Jack, an employment agency smashed up and several companies forced to promise that all aliens would be discharged within three days by Canadian soldiers just returned from the front. They found their jobs filled by aliens. One of the first plants visited by the soldiers was that of the Swift Canadian company at Alwood, a suburb. After a near-riot they were promised that the aliens would be discharged within three days. The guarantee was given by the manager of the plant, the mayor and General Ketchen, who were called to the scene. The men then split into detachments, visited many other establishments, enforcing similar demands. Whenever an alien was seen by the soldiers he was chased and forced to kiss the flag.

Bill Providing for Big Subsidies to Be Introduced in Parliament.

London.—Plans have been perfected for the introduction in parliament of a bill granting subsidies amounting to millions of pounds sterling for the purchase of small farms for men discharged from the British army, according to announcement here. The measure will be given precedence in parliament, it is said. While the government will bear the cost of the work, it is said, local authorities will be asked to assist in carrying out details.
