Let us not be low-spirited over little things. Worry never accomplishes anything. It is useless to cross a bridge until we get to it. Evil foreboding never lightened any pathway, and the feet are prone to stumble or go astray in the darkness of melancholy and sorry. Look on the bright side. Be cheerful. Be self-reliant. Be brave and patient.—Ex.

THINGS TO DO.

If you can't own the town, don't disown it. This life is what we make it; so is this town. In some respects this town is not perfect; are you? What this town needs isn't fault finders, but fault fixers. This town will never grow on money sent to some other town. The country is growing in population; is this town keeping up? The man who begins to plan for this town will soon be calling it "my town." This town had to be started by somebody; it has got to be kept going by somebody else. This town doesn't need boosting any more than any other town, but it needs it just as much. The town pioneers thought this was a good place for a town; let's make it a poor place for knockers. The easiest way to make things right at Washington is to begin by making things right at home.—Markville Enterprise.
