

home for his summer vacation after another year of hard but pleasant study at the University of Virginia.

Mrs. Peter Yource and daughter, Miss Susie Rose, are birds of passage this summer. On their way South from Baltimore, where Miss Susie Rose has been at school the past year, they stopped for a pleasant week in Virginia. They are now considering a trip to Monterey Mexico, in July, and the first of August, accompanied by the distinguished Captain, they go to Waukesha, Wis for the remainder of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yource will occupy their recently acquired handsome residence on Jordan street after the middle of July, but contemplate leaving for a summer trip sometime in August.

Mrs. Wilton A'Dare Bailie formerly of Shreveport, now of Houston, left last week with her two children to spend the summer in Michigan. She writes, that returning she will stop for a few days visit in Shreveport.

Beginning with July 3rd, Miss Mamie Bourquin will preside at the Presbyterian organ and bring out exquisite harmony from that sweet instrument.

Miss Lou Morris, the efficient teacher at the High School, enjoyed a brief visit at New Orleans this week, where she has many dearly loved relatives.

Mrs. Crosse, from the southern part of the State, near New Orleans, is visiting her brother, Dr. David H. Billie on Common street.

Boxes to the soldier boys still keep the expressman busy and happy, to say nothing of the joyful recipients thereof. In a box sent this week we saw hams, jams, preserves and pickles, half a dozen delicious looking cakes, boxes of crackers, canned soups, fish, meats, coffee, cocoa, sugar, condensed milk, bread, butter and biscuit, fruit, etc., causing the good-natured expressman to remark, "soldier boys don't believe the most valuable things come done up in small packages."

THE SAD SIDE.

It is pleasing to see the pictures of the heroes of the battles; and our hearts go out in chivalric compliment of their valorous deeds. But there is a sad side to this warfare. There is a place for cypress for every position of the rose and lily. A pang of sorrow, a sigh of mourning for every thrill of triumph; for every shout of victory.

This is when a picture is presented in the newspapers, beneath which is printed,

"Killed in 'Such' a Battle."

"It is the fortune of war." Yes, that is true; but that does not in the least mitigate the sorrow, the affliction of those whose sacrifice, the "killed" was.

War may be a great necessity sometimes. In our most solemn and sacred meditations, we cannot decide. But how many immortal souls are thus ushered before the Great Tribunal of Him Who shall "judge the quick and dead," unprepared?

This is a most stupendous thought; and helps to deepen the shadow around the sad side of the picture.
