Exquisite Dancing Frocks—Fitted Bodices With Battery Details.

Interlinings of silver tissue for dancing frocks of net, with a head of the tissue finishing the bottom of the frock, are one of the new ideas of the season. Little silver slippers are worn with these charming gowns.

Fillet lace blouses with wonderful embroidery of birds or butterflies so wired in place that they seem almost natural are to be found in the shops, but they may easily be manufactured at home by the amateur seamstress if to this art she add that of embroidress.

The long rucked sleeve of today differs from that of its predecessor in that it is tight to the elbow and above that full, but still rucked, or, rather, tucked, on the inner arm and the fullness allowed to flow free on the outer arm.

Theater shoes of quite satin edged with fur and lined with wool having high Louis heels come in colors to match the favorite costumes as well as in black and white.

An exquisite evening cloak of chin-chilla is arranged in square panels, with broad entre deux of pale gray flit between, embroidered with flat gray Chinese roses, black seed pearls and dull gray sequins.

In felt hats a favorite shape is the mousquetaire with a high crown and an undulating brim.

The snug fitting corset cover is always essential beneath a snug fitting waist, and just now it is much in demand. Here is an attractive yet simple model that can be made low or high neck and with or without the basque portion below the waist line.

Long Haired Beaver Hats in Vogue. Evening Dress Picturesque.

Smooth and rough felt and long haired beaver hats bid fair to establish themselves in favor for winter wear. Vying with them are large hats of velvet, the simpler ones trimmed with big bows of satin ribbon and the more decorative ones with handsome feathers.

A great deal of latitude will be allowed the younger women this season in the selection of materials for evening frocks. The chief point to emphasize is picturesqueness. Silk, muslin, voile, marquisette and tulle, plain or embroidered, are among the materials represented. Dropped bodices are always charming for the slender girlish figure with a high waist line and wide draped shoulders.

Full sleeves that end below the elbow, where they are ornamented with three large buttons in line with the length of the arm, look well on the slender woman's gown.

The use of satin ribbon an inch and a half wide to form the semblance of folds on cloth skirts is high in favor. Three rows are usual, and the ribbon is stitched only along its upper edges.

When joining a bias piece of material to a straight piece always keep the bias piece underneath, as this prevents it from stretching.

The younger schoolgirls wear gump frocks all seasons of the year, and the simple one seen in the picture is generally liked. It gives the short empire line that is so fashionable. It can be made straight or with the skirt cut to form a point at the back, as fitted. In this instance the material is royal blue wool batiste framed with tulle.

Funniest New Umbrella Handles—Lace and Fur Combinations.

Among the new umbrella handles are those with animal heads. A spring is pressed and these quaint creatures move their eyes or open their mouths and stick out their tongues.

Evening frocks made of several thin fabrics one over the other which have a foundation skirt of satin are wonderfully different and pretty.

Lace is used a great deal upon all gowns, and one sees the furs of the year elaborately trimmed with lace put on in all sorts of ways. A muff recently carried by a fashionable woman had a big lace inset of Irish crochet. The lace was set into the front of the muff and heavily wired to make it keep in shape. The fur was then cut away underneath and a transparent motif of chiffon set in. Such a muff is more for beauty than for warmth, but it is delicacy itself.

The drooping feather, or the willow plume, as it is called, is one of the fads of the girl of the period. And for the willow plume it may be said that it is usually becoming as well as fashionable. The drooping hat of felt, with its brim turned down all the way round and the drooping willow plume at the back, is a requirement of the winter wardrobe.

Plain colors trimmed with plaid are much in vogue just now and make very attractive gowns of the simpler sort. The one in the cut is in shirt waist style and, as illustrated, is of golden brown cashmere with the trimming on the cuffs, the belt and the ribbon frills of plaid that show lines of brown and tan barred off with brighter colors.

FASHION'S REALM.

An Economical Petticoat—To Renovate Dress Trimming.

When you buy your next black petticoat, buy it about two inches longer than you usually wear it and take the extra length up in a tuck. Then when the skirt is worn around the bottom cut the worn part off, hem again neatly, let down the tuck, and your skirt is ready to do service some weeks longer. A passementerie trimming not entirely worn beyond service, but which looks a trifle old and gray, can often be induced to take on a new lease of life by simply spozing on both sides with clear black tea and ammonia.

A pretty dress trimming has round disks of velvet buttonholed on the material, connected by three rows of narrow velvet ribbon.

The economical woman must beware of clinging to old materials and wearing apparel and remodeling them season after season. This habit is dulling to the mind and to the appearance, as the continual serving of one meat is to the palate.

This is a serviceable shirt waist to wear with skirts in the morning. The model is adapted to a variety of materials. As illustrated it is of plaid taffeta, while the skirt is of light-colored cheviot.

CHARTER

OF THE THOMAS-DAVIDSON-OGILVIE HARDWARE CO.

State of Louisiana, Parish of Caddo: Before me, the undersigned authority, personally came and appeared the parties whose names are hereunto subscribed, all of full age, who declared that, availing themselves of the provisions of the laws of the State of Louisiana relative to corporations, they have covenanted and agreed, and do by these presents covenant and agree, and bind themselves, as well as such other persons as may hereafter become associated with them, to form and constitute a corporation and body politic in law, for the purposes and objects, and under the stipulations, articles and conditions following, to-wit:

ARTICLE I.

The name and title of the said corporation shall be the THOMAS-DAVIDSON-OGILVIE HARDWARE COMPANY, and its domicile is hereby established in Shreveport, State of Louisiana; and under its said corporate name said corporation shall have the power and authority to contract, sue and be sued; to make and use a corporate seal and the same to break and alter at pleasure; to hold, receive, have, purchase, improve, alienate, convey, sell, borrow, pledge, mortgage and hypothecate under its said corporate name, property, real, personal and mixed; to name and appoint such officers, directors, agents, managers and employes as the interest or convenience of said corporation may require; to make and establish by-laws, rules and regulations for the proper management and regulation of its affairs, as may be deemed necessary and proper, and the same to change and alter at pleasure; and to do all other acts and things permitted by law, or as shall be necessary and proper to carry out the objects and purposes of said corporation.

Said corporation, unless sooner dissolved in accordance with its charter, shall exist and continue for a period of ninety-nine years from and after the date hereof.

The president, or in his absence the vice president or secretary, shall be the proper person upon whom citation or other legal process shall be served.

ARTICLE II.

The objects and purposes for which this corporation is organized, and the nature of the business to be carried on by it, are declared to be the following, to-wit: To conduct a general hardware and mill supply business; to buy and sell, in such quantities as said corporation may see fit, any and all articles which are classed under the general headings of hardware and mill supplies, as well as such other articles of commerce as the interests or convenience of the corporation may require; also to manufacture such articles as may be determined by the board of directors.

ARTICLE III.

The capital stock of said corporation shall be one hundred thousand dollars, divided into and represented by one thousand shares of the sum of one hundred dollars each, which said stock shall be paid for in cash at the time of subscription, or the same may be issued, at not less than par, in payment or exchange for property or rights actually received or purchased by said corporation, or the same may be issued, full paid, for money advanced, and for such other valuable considerations or services as the board of directors of said corporation may determine; provided, that no stock shall be issued until the consideration therefor has been received by the said corporation.

Any stockholder may sell, assign or transfer his stock in this corporation, provided thirty (30) days prior notice of such intention be given the corporation, and the other stockholders thereof shall have the first privilege of purchasing same, after which thirty days notice such stock may be sold in open market. The stock may be transferred under the above conditions, provided such transfer thereof be made on the books of the corporation at its office in Shreveport, La., and on surrender of the certificates thereof. No transfer of any fractional part of a share shall be made.

This corporation shall commence doing business as soon as seventy-five thousand dollars ($75,000) of the capital stock shall have been subscribed for. The board of directors shall have the right to determine how much stock shall be issued.

ARTICLE IV.

The corporate powers of this company shall be vested in and exercised by a board of five (5) directors, consisting of the president, the vice president, the secretary and treasurer and two other stockholders. Three of said board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and their decisions shall be valid corporate acts.

The following persons shall constitute the first board of directors: E. A. Thomas, who shall be president of the corporation; R. J. Ogilvie, who shall be vice president of the corporation; Fred Davidson, who shall be secretary and treasurer; H. N. Carlton and W. V. Robson.

No person shall be eligible as a director or officer who is not a stockholder of the corporation.

During the absence of the president the vice president shall act and preside, performing the duties of the president.

Such board shall continue in office until the first Monday in July 1908, on which date and thereafter, annually, a board of directors shall be elected each year, unless the same shall be a legal holiday, when the election shall be held on the next legal day thereafter.

Notice of such election shall be given by at least ten (10) days continuous publication immediately preceding each election, in one of the daily newspapers published at the domicile of the corporation; and the board of directors shall appoint one or more stockholders to preside at such election as commissioner. In event of the failure of a commissioner to attend, the president shall by appointment fill the vacancy. Any failure from any cause whatever to elect directors on the day named for that purpose shall not dissolve the corporation, but the directors and officers then in office shall hold over until their successors are elected. In such event, the president shall cause another election to be held within thirty days, and shall give notice thereof, as herein provided. At every election and meeting each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote for each share of stock registered in his name, and may vote by proxy. The election of directors shall be by ballot, and the majority in amount of votes cast, each share of stock voted upon to be counted for one vote, shall elect the person or persons for whom they have been cast. After each election the board of directors shall elect from their own numbers the officers of the corporation.

ARTICLE V.

The board of directors shall have full power to fill vacancies in their number caused by death, resignation or otherwise, from among the stockholders of the corporation. The said board shall have full control of the property of the corporation, and shall so conduct, manage and use the same as in their discretion they deem fit, and that is consistent with the objects of the corporation and the welfare of the same. The said board is further authorized to frame and adopt such by-laws, rules and regulations as the affairs and business of the corporation may require, and as it may deem necessary for the conducting and management thereof; provided the same shall not conflict with this charter, or with the laws of the State or of the United States. The said board shall elect or appoint such officers, agents, employes, servants and clerks as it may deem necessary for the conducting of the business of the corporation; fix their compensation, term of service, with the right to dismiss them at the board's pleasure; and said board shall have the right to fix and determine the salaries of the several officers herein provided for.

ARTICLE VI.

This charter may be changed, modified or amended, the capital stock increased or decreased, or this corporation may be dissolved, at a general meeting of the stockholders held for that purpose, with the assent of three-fourths of the entire capital stock, whether present or represented at such meeting. Ten days prior notice of such meeting shall be given by publication in a daily newspaper published at the domicile of the corporation, and a further notice shall be mailed to each stockholder, at his last known address, at least ten days prior to said meeting. In case of dissolution or termination of this corporation, whether by limitation of its charter or from any cause, the liquidation of its affairs shall be conducted by two commissioners, selected from the stockholders, with like assent, and at a meeting called for that purpose, as above set forth in this article. Said commissioners shall remain in office until the affairs of said corporation shall have been fully liquidated.

ARTICLE VII.

No stockholder of this corporation shall ever be held liable for contracts or debts thereof in any further sum than the unpaid balance due the corporation on the shares of stock subscribed for or owned by him, nor shall any informality in organization have the effect of rendering this charter null, or of exposing a stockholder to any liability beyond the unpaid balance, if any, of his stock.
