Notes and News of Interest

By M. F. W.

John Ruskin once said that whenever the women of the world really make up their minds to put a period to war, they can do it. In the present world-wide movement to supplant the war system of nations by the system of law, there are few things more hopeful or important than the increasing devotion of women to the cause. The international Council of Women and our own Council of Women have each a regular peace department with Mrs. May Wright Sewall as chairman of the one, and Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead of the other. For the first time in its history the American Federation of Womens Clubs is to place this subject upon its programme at its next biennial convention at Cincinnati in May. The Federation of Womens Clubs represents 800,000 American women, the most influential body of women in the country. In their clubs in all of our important towns and cities they constitute a force for public spirit and enlightenment second to hardly any other. It is of signal importance that this great body should always be fully informed upon all matters relating to international progress, and that its influence should be strongly felt. The International School of Peace desires to co-operate earnestly with all womens clubs and other organizations. It has secured for the direction of its work in this special field the services of Mrs. Anna Sturgis Duryea, whose great ability and large experience insure the wisest and most efficient work. Mrs. Duryea invites correspondence on all matters relating to the advancement of the cause and will send useful literature on application. Address School of Peace, 29 A, Beacon street, Boston, Mass.

HYPATIA.
Mrs. Edith Brown Baile, club reporter for Hypatia, writes the following interesting account of the April literary meeting:
The monthly literary meeting was held with Mrs. J. M. Foster in her suburban home, Curraghmuir, Saturday afternoon. The day was most propitious for the ride, either in swift moving automobile or by the ever faithful surrey route. The attendance was full and all arrived aglow with pleasure in the springtime beauty of the country. Mrs. Foster greeted her guests with a cordial welcome, and cheering wood fire upon the hearth.
The programme proved one of the most entertaining of the season for it dealt with humor and humorists. It was in able hands, for Mrs. D. B. Hamilton gave the first paper on "American Humorists." Mrs. H. H. Wheelless told of "International Types of Humor," and Mrs. John S. Young read Dorothy Dix upon suffrage. The roll call "quoted flashes of wit," brought out all the fun that had been simmering through the evening. The members giving the programme numbers showed such inimitable wit in handling their subjects that it would seem they were the inspirers and not the famous ones of whom they told. Funny stories and apt quotations kept the assembly in a succession of delighted peals of laughter.
Mrs. Foster, realizing the demands of a sharp, fresh spring afternoon, the exhausting effects of laughter and the appreciation her good cheer always receives, served a luncheon of two courses that included salad, sandwiches, relishes, a cup of tea, cream and cakes.
A short business session was called to read the resignation of Mrs. J. B. Johnson, owing to her present residence away from the city. The resignation was accepted with deep regret as Mrs. Johnson was a very valued member.
A delightful surprise then awaited the ladies, for Mrs. Foster's three granddaughters, Claiborne Foster-Comegys, Lucille and Eleanor Foster gave a most artistic and graceful dance that called in play the poetry of motion. Elegant, chaste and exquisite was the grace of the little maids who followed the music as if their supple young limbs were inspired by its measures. The spectators were charmed by their illustration of an art that is now so fashionable, interpretive parlor dancing, and also so beneficial in its development of grace and health.
The next meeting will be held with Miss Pearl Orson and Mrs. Williams has asked for the last meeting, so that it may be held in the library that Hypatia has supplied to the central school.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE, APRIL 23, 1564.
"In Stratford-upon-Avon Where the silent waters flow, The immortal drama woke from sleep, Three hundred years ago."
A few words from Henry Giles. Let Athens have her Aristophanes; but even all Greece shall not keep Homer; we give Calderon to Spain; but every nation owns Cervantes; Dante belongs to Italy; Milton belongs to England; but Shakespeare belongs to man.
"Nothing can cover his high fame but heaven; No pyramid set off his memories But the eternal substance of his greatness."

APRIL RAIN.
It is not raining rain to me
It's raining daffodils,
In every dimpling drop I see
Wild flowers on distant hills.

The clouds of gray engulf the day
And overwhelm the town,
It is not raining rain to me,
It's raining roses down.

It is not raining rain to me,
But fields of clover bloom
Where every buccaneering bee
May find a bed and room.

A health unto the happy!
A fig for him who frets!
It is not raining rain to me,
It's raining violets.

FAMOUS MEN BORN IN APRIL.
The month of April stems to be peculiarly blessed in having so many of her days made famous by the birth of some great man. Foremost among them is William Shakespeare, who was born April 23.
Then there are Thomas Jefferson, Hans Christian Anderson, Washington Irving, James Monroe, Samuel Morse, Lew Wallace, Henry Clay, James Buchanan, Stephen A. Douglas, great Americans all, a notable group in the field of letters and endeavor.

MARK TWAIN.
The pseudonym "Mark Twain" so lightly picked up by Samuel Langhorne Clemens, is known to more people of all conditions the world over than any other in this country. The term is one used by the Mississippi river pilots to indicate the depth of water, two fathoms, when throwing the lead. It was first employed by a river correspondent in reporting the state of the river to a New Orleans newspaper. This reporter died just about the time Mr. Clemens began to write and he took the name. Mark Twain was universally recognized as the greatest American humorist. His books have been translated and very widely diffused and read in German, French and other languages. He has a lasting place in the world of letters. Now that he has gone, the literature of our hearts and home will be the poorer.

CHARMING ENTERTAINMENT.
The first of a series of three teas arranged by the practical work committee of Hypatia of which Mrs. J. D. Wilkinson is chairman, was given Tuesday afternoon at Mrs. Shuttleworth's hospitable home. The reception suite was beautiful with April blossoms, crystal vases of roses ornamented the mantels, and royal red lilies in a big bowl made the handsome decoration of the tea table, from which dainty cups of fragrant Bohemian brew were served by Miss Rawler and a bevy of her charming companions. There was a lively interest in the guessing contest, which called for recognition by name of the likeness of well known authors, arranged on a panel in the hall. Another panel exhibited photos of prominent club women in the town and State. Much amusement resulted from the failure to recognize the familiar faces of some of our townswomen. Mrs. John Young Snyder was presented the prize, a dainty booklet, for having made the greatest number of correct answers.

A short literary and musical programme was enjoyed. Mrs. Egan read a fine paper on the "Psychology of Music." Vocal selections were contributed by Mrs. Flood, Miss Doster and Miss Duplan and a charming violin number by Miss Ponder.
Hypatia's first tea was a delightful success, which is a bright prediction for the two to follow at Mrs. Wilkinson's and Mrs. Howard Prescott's.

U. D. C.
Regular monthly meeting of Shreveport Chapter U. D. C. was held Monday afternoon in the council chamber of the city hall, Mrs. Youree presiding. After routine of business and signing application papers of three new members, the fortunate winner of the U. D. C. Medal, Annie Hanna, was presented to the chapter. At the request of the president, Mrs. Youree, the prize essay on "Louisiana's Part in the Civil War" was read by the writer. And as she concluded, after having faithfully recounted Louisiana's service, with a deserved and beautiful tribute to the women of Louisiana, for their noble part in the war, applause and well deserved compliments were showered upon this sweet young daughter of the South. The presentation of the medal was made in beautiful words by Mrs. John S. Young, and was modestly and appreciatively responded to. The chapter was glad to welcome Mrs. Hanna, and receive her application for membership, which will place upon record in the U. D. C. archives the distinguished Confederate lineage of her family.

Mrs. Youree appointed a committee to co-operate with the schools in the celebration of Louisiana Day, April 30, as follows: Misses Soape, Howell, Woodward and Mrs. Williams.
From Columbus, Ohio, where was located that terrible military prison, Camp Chase, and where hundreds of Southern soldiers gave up their lives, came a simple request, addressed to the Shreveport Chapter U. D. C., for a contribution of flowers to decorate the Southern soldiers' graves in that faraway city. In response, which came warm and loving from the hearts of loyal women, flowers and evergreens from the Southland will be sent to place upon the graves of our soldiers. The address is Mrs. D. B. Ulrey, 49 Avondale avenue, Columbus, Ohio.

TO DAUGHTER OF ADMIRAL SEMMES.
Chipped from "Reunion" copy Mobile Register. By member staff "Old Barton's Boys and Girls."
From the subconscious mind there must arise
Strange images of unseen sullen seas,
The dash of waves at prow, forgotten skies,
A lonely ship, drifting before the breeze.

And look, from masthead far beyond the foam,
Is that a wounded gull, or a lone albatross,
Winging its way from its rock haunted home,
Or the luckless foe fate sends our path to cross?

The chase begun, ends at the close of day,
The falcon has struck, and under evening star
Prostrated the fallen foe. Up! Up! away
To reach the Isles of Spice and Macassar!

Each dawn brings up the sun into our face,
The waters whiten far below the "Line,"
Ten thousand barren leagues ere ends the race,
The Alabama reels and sinks beneath the brine.

The modest shaft in quiet cemetery
And for an epitaph the one word "Semmes,"
Syllables that name in loving accents airy,
Where'er men sing this nation's battle-hymns.

Faces and forms flock by and live again,
Hereditary thoughts and love that can not die,
The present ever pondering what has been—
That past assured to immortality.

And so when gray coats once more throng our street,
Soldiers that faced the cannon's fiery mouth,
Fitting it is that you their hearts shall greet—
Beloved Lady, Daughter of the South.

CURRENT EVENTS.
The British consul at New York in a report to his government, warns his countrymen against coming to this country in the hope of bettering their condition. He admits that wages are higher here, but says that the cost of living are higher still. A British workman, therefore, says the consul is not as well off as in his own country, even when he is at work, and if out of work the higher prices here make short work of his savings.

Proposed World Fairs: Prominent business men of New York are proposing an international exposition in that city in 1913. New Orleans, San Francisco and San Diego would like to celebrate with world fairs for the opening of the Panama Canal.

Two Battleships: The House of Representatives voted 162 to 140 for two new battleships to cost $6,000,000 each. This is $3,000,000 less than the Navy Department asked.

Commission for Pittsburg: The sickening corruption discovered in the city government of Pittsburg, Pa., has led that city to consider the commission plan of managing city affairs. The proposed change would put practically all the power into the hands of a commission of nine high salaried members. It is claimed that they would save the city $2,000,000 a year.

THE DOGGER BANK AFFAIR.
During the Russo-Japanese war when the Russian fleet fired on the British fishing vessels, it looked as if war would result. All England was aflame at what appeared a gross insult. But under this rule of inquiry England could honorably refer this matter to an investigating committee. One was appointed, which proved that the Russian ships had mistaken the British fishing vessels for the Japanese fleet. The committee ordered an indemnity of $350,000 to be paid by the Russian government to the families of the fishermen and both sides were satisfied with the outcome of this unhappy occurrence. This was averted, and the "Dogger Bank Affair" as this was called will always be regarded as an important event in world affairs.

CHARMING NEW SONG.
"What would this world be without you?" is the title of a new song by Shreveport's ballad writer, Howard T. Dominick, set to music by T. Foreman Parker. There is tender sentiment in the lines, with a haunting melody in the refrain:
"What would be world without you be
But barren days of loneliness,
Dreams of the past would come to me,
And once again your lips I press."
The song is published by F. B. Haviland, one of New York's oldest and best known producers of popular music. We predict a season of great popularity for this charming new song and success to the writer and the composer whose talent will bring recognition.

PERSONAL.
Mrs. M. H. Williams, librarian of the central school library, and Miss Billiu of the People's Library, attended the convention of the State Library Association which met in Alexandria April 29-30. Mrs. Williams and Miss Billiu were the guests of Mrs. J. R. Thornton. Mrs. Lizzie Vance of Lexington, Ky., is the guest of her friend, Mrs. James Jeffries.
Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Paty are now pleasantly established in Texarkana, on Pecan street.
Mrs. Alice Goodwill Brice of Minden and Miss Duplan were the guests of Mrs. John Shuttleworth during the past week.
Miss Ingersoll Minge, who has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Richard Furman, left for her home, Idledays, at Mississippi City, Monday, accompanied by Miss Furman.
Miss Lucy Quarles, the sister of our late lamented townswoman, Mrs. Sallie Quarles Hamilton, was in Shreveport during the week on her return from a European trip and en route to her home in Minden.

JUDGE LAND'S ADDRESS.
In this issue of the Caucasian is reproduced the address of Judge A. D. Land to his constituents, announcing his candidacy for re-election. Judge Land's record should be sufficient endorsement to secure his return to the Supreme Court, which he adorns becomingly. It may be said with some degree of satisfaction that Judge Land is not found wanting whenever he is called to discharge the responsibilities of his office. He has a large and influential following of friends and admirers in this section of the State who will give him their active support.

LOUISIANA DAY.
Louisiana Day, April 30, was observed appropriately by the children of the public schools. The exercises embraced songs and recitations. In these exercises the children are taught the history of the State and become familiar with the events connected with the vast territory acquired by the United States from France when Napoleon was a power in Europe.
