WEATHER BULLETIN

FORECAST OF STORMS TO CROSS THE CONTINENT.

A GREAT COLD WAVE

Most Severe Storms Will Occur During the Five Days of Which December Fifth and November Twenty-ninth Will Be the Central Days, with Rain or Snow—Sun Spots Visible Through Smoked Glass.

(Copyrighted 1910 by W. T. Foster.)

Washington, Nov. 26.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross the continent 29 to December 3, warm wave 28 to December 2, cool wave December 1 to 5. This will be a rough storm all the way across the continent. Temperatures will go to extremes with rain or snow according to latitude, a real November flareback reaching into December.

Storm waves will come more frequently than usual, and the next will reach the Pacific coast about December 2, cross the Pacific slope by close of 3, great central valleys 4 to 6, eastern sections 7. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about December 2, great central valleys 4, eastern sections 6. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 5, great central valleys 7, eastern sections 9.

This will be a cold storm with snows about the great lakes, in the Ohio valleys and the northwest. Temperatures will be low preceding and following the storm center. Dry in southern Atlantic states and southwestern Texas.

The third disturbance of December will reach the Pacific coast about 6, cross Pacific slope by close of 7, great central valleys 8 to 9, eastern sections 11. Warm wave will cross the Pacific slope about 6, great central valleys 8, eastern sections 10. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 9, great central valleys 11, eastern sections 13.

This disturbance will give temperatures will go to high points.

Most severe storms of December will occur during the five days of which December 1 and 29 will be central days, and most rain or snow will fall during the five days of which December 3 and 23 will be central days.

During the ten days December 31 to January 9 sun spots will drift across the sun from east to west. Get your smoked glass or a bucket or tub of quiet water ready and take a look at the sunspots. Opera glasses or a small telescope will aid you. Looking at the sun at noon the east side of the sun is on the left and is called the east limb of the sun. There the sunspots come into view and drift westward or to the right, requiring ten to thirteen days to drift across the sun. They do not cause but are closely related to our earth storms.

These bulletins have charged great combinations in an effort to unsettle values of farm products, and these charges are now verified in various ways. More recently Dr. Wiley, the government pure food chemist, has published similar charges. Secretary Wilson of the Agricultural Department says that high prices of living are caused by population increasing more rapidly than production of farm staples. Taking hay, corn, oats and wheat, no one claims that this year's crops exceed the crops of 1909 to a greater extent than population has increased, but the farmers are being offered 25 per cent less for their products. The great interests that are manipulating these declines will make believe that speculators are the managers. Not so. There is an immense scheme, a world-wide combine, under it, and Congress should investigate. This is the accepted time to finally determine whether the people of this country are to hand over their liberties to such great combinations as now, absolutely control prices.

MAYOR GAYNOR INSISTS UPON POLITENESS.

A New York telegram states that Mayor Gaynor is very proud of his reputation as a stickler for politeness on the part of the city employes in their relations with the public. Commenting on the fact that more than seven bushels of complaints were received by his office in two months, all bearing on the conduct of tenement house inspectors, he gives the following advice to the employes of the tenement house department: "The spirit of consideration and politeness to our fellow citizens is the spirit that this administration has been trying to promulgate from the start. You can be strict in your work, fulfilling all the requirements of law, and yet be very polite at the same time. There is no necessity for roughness. We are paid by the citizens of this city, and we owe it to them to be considerate and polite."

And it may be observed that politeness may be exercised in other communities besides New York. It should be just as easy for officials to be polite as rude. A little civility with kind words will be more effective and beneficial than unnecessary gruffness.

As is well said by Mayor Gaynor, public officials, the high and the subordinate, "are paid by the citizens of the city and we owe it to them to be considerate and polite."

COMMISSION FORM

An Official Session of Twenty Minutes. A Summary.

One of the striking features of the system of Government by Commission is the simplicity of action in the transaction of the business of the municipality.

At the session of the Council held in the city hall Friday morning, with the Mayor and the commissioners present, the business was transacted in twenty minutes.

There were no speeches or gallery awaiting rounds of oratory.

The ordinance applying to the expounding of stock on the Ninth ward territory was suspended ten days until the owners of stock can prepare to restrain the stock from running a charge.

Individuals, firms and corporations keeping over five gallons of oil must apply for a permit. If disapproved by the chief of the fire department a permit will not be issued. The violation is provided a fine ranging from $500 to $1000.

The license ordinance of 1908 was passed to its first reading.

The resignation of R. W. Williamson as building inspector was accepted. City Engineer Wilson was appointed ex-officio building inspector. The city engineer was authorized to file at intervals lists of alleys that are closed.

Hereafter when any one is convicted in the City Court there shall be added $2.50 to the fine for the city.

CAUSE OF SUN SPOTS

Father Ricard Discovers Manifestation Predicted by Prof. Foster.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 6.—(Special dispatch to New York Herald).—The accuracy of prognostications as to sun spots has been practically verified by Father Ricard, director of the Observatory of Santa Clara College. Prof. Foster of Washington requested Father Ricard to watch on September 30, October 1 and 2 for a new spot in heliographic latitude north 5 degrees and longitude 20 degrees west of the solar axis. The spot was discovered by Father Ricard, who says: "The event has done justice to the prognostication of Prof. Foster and affords great encouragement to the investigator of solar manifestations."

Santa Clara, Cal., Oct. 5.—When Prof. Foster of Washington forecasted the appearance of sun spots it was considered a daring scientific venture, but the accuracy of his prognostications has been practically verified by Rev. Father Ricard, director of the Observatory of Santa Clara College. Prof. Foster asked Father Ricard to watch on September 30, October 1 and 2 for a new spot in heliographic latitude north 5 degrees and longitude 20 degrees west of the solar axis.

A recent letter from Prof. Ricard, who is at the head of the Santa Clara College Observatory, bear San Francisco, Cal., says: "I shall be very glad to verify more and many more of your solar disturbance forecasts. You may rest assured that if you accomplish that task you will have settled one of the knottiest problems of present solar science. I was very glad to receive your latest letter and thank you very much for the precious information it contains, which I intend to follow up as opportunity and time permit."
