Notes and News of Interest

By M. H. W.

The Russell Sage Foundation Homes Company is building a model suburban residence town within a quarter of an hour of the heart of New York. Forest Hills Gardens as the town has been already named, was carefully laid out by the landscape artist, Frederick Law Olmstead. Grosvenor Atterbury architect, has charge of the building plans. An experienced business management will conduct the enterprise at a fair profit. This is the first time that a proposition of this kind has been tried in America. England has her garden cities and there are model towns in Germany, but we have yet to make the test to see if suburban development can not have a district educational value, while it pays reasonable dividends. Mrs. Sage and those whom she has associated with her in the foundation have been profoundly impressed with the need of better and more attractive housing facilities in the suburbs for persons of moderate means. They have thought that these homes could be supplied with yards, with accessible play grounds and recreation facilities at very little more cost than is now paid for roof rooms in bare streets without a strip of green in sight. In laying out Forest Hills Gardens Mr. Olmstead has in mind three important principles in city planning; first, that the main thoroughfares should be direct, ample and convenient; second that purely local streets should be planned and constructed to meet the purposes of quiet attractive residence streets; third that certain areas should be deliberately set apart for the common use and enjoyment of residents. Accordingly the town has two streets running straight through it 80 feet wide and a boulevard 125 feet wide. Local streets are not perfectly straight for long stretches. A public green has been formed at the point where two main avenues divide.

Adjoining the railroad station and forming the station square are three and four story buildings. They will contain stores, offices, restaurants and in the upper stories small non-housekeeping apartments for both men and women. The chief difference between the development here and any other land development undertaken in America is that of design and town planning. It is chiefly in the quality of design that a new distinctive and it is hoped, educational work is sought to be accomplished. Study also has been given to the better use of land from both its economic and aesthetic view points. This is what the Sage Foundation Homes Company hopes to realize.

PUPIL'S RECITAL.

The entertainment given by the pupils of the Shreveport School of Music at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Flood was very enjoyable, and largely attended by many friends of the students and the faculty. The numbers given with care and good musical interpretation were as follows: Piano solo, Miss Jhonette Steere; vocal solo, Miss Young. Piano solo by Miss Geneva South, "Soire de Vienne," was well rendered. Miss Lewis Crain also gave a brilliant piano solo, "Tarentella." Miss LeRosen contributed a spirited violin solo. Liebesgluck by Mrs. Love Smith, piano with violin accompaniment by Mr. Demanche, gave the musical atmosphere of the studio to this very delightful entertainment. Violin solos were contributed by Mrs. Davidson, who is an accomplished pianist but new in her work on the violin, and by Mr. Frank Grosjean, who inherited musical talent gave a sympathetic touch to his pretty selection. Contributing further to the enjoyment of the programme were charming vocal selections. Miss Dinkle of Marshall, Texas, sang that tender old song "The Lass with a Delicate Air." Mrs. J. D. Wilkinson's sweet, flexible soprano thrilled with the melody of "Plaidy" and "In the Time of Roses." Mrs. Edwards' lovely selection was "A Venetian Serenade" and Miss Dora Jones' beautiful contralto responded to the music of the "Virgin's Lullaby."

FACULTY RECITAL.

Tuesday, December 31, the Shreveport School of Music, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. R. Flood musical directors, will give a faculty recital at their home, to which friends are invited. A high class musical is in store for those who really appreciate classical music.

SYMPATHY.

Friends of the Hanna family in Shreveport, Mrs. Mattie Hanna Crowder, Messrs. Ben and Bob Hanna, sympathize with them in the loss of their father, Capt. John E. Hanna, who died at his home in Monroe Monday, January 15. Captain Hanna was a pioneer citizen of Monroe, having lived there for over thirty years. Until a few years ago Captain Hanna was active in business circles, where his sturdy qualities were felt and appreciated. His large and interesting family contributed to the social life of the town, and made his home a center of neighborly gatherings, and true hospitality.

Captain Hanna was well known in Shreveport and throughout North Louisiana.

His death is sincerely mourned by a large circle of life-long friends. The deepest sympathy is felt for his devoted wife and the large family circle, of which he was the beloved and honored head.

SATURDAY MARKETS.

The ladies of the Parish Aid Society of St. Mark's church decided at their meeting Monday afternoon to open the spring markets at an early date. To that end committees were appointed who will perfect the arrangements. Time and place will soon be announced.

CHILDREN OF THE REPUBLIC.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Beattie the Children of the Republic met last week and carried out an interesting programme. Certain prepared tests were made in which Ben Pozelle was successful. In naming their club the boys have honored a boy patriot of the revolutionary days, James Bradford, known in history as a drummer boy under Washington. So hereafter the club will be known by its new name of James Bradford Club. The mutual improvement of its members, encouragement of patriotism and good citizenship is the objects for which the club was organized. When their beautiful flag was unfurled at the meeting the boys greeted with great enthusiasm and of course in honoring the flag they are getting at the underlying principle of patriotism. The club is a branch of the West End Junior Civic League, organized by Mrs. Beattie of the Pelican Chapter D. A. R. and it is the pleasure of the Pelican chapter to encourage in every way this fine sturdy organization of boys who are laying a sure foundation for good citizenship in the years to come.

THIRD ENTERPEAN PROGRAMME.

Arrangements are being made for the third Enterpean programme which will be given January 27 in the Travis street school auditorium, when the following programme will be presented:

Subject, Rembrandt, Poe and Chopin. Characterization of Chopin.
Voice, "The Maiden's Wish." Characterization of Poe.
Piano, Funeral March (poem) "Ullume"—Characterization of Rembrandt.
Voice, "The Ring."
Poem, "Annabel Lee."
Nocturne, Op. 37, No. 1.
Poem, "The Bells."
Presentation of Rembrandt's pictures.
Piano, Nocturne, Op. 37, No. 2.
Correlation (Poem), "The Child Asleep." Mrs. Browning.
Piano, "Berceuse."

TREE SURGERY.

Experts from the School of Tree Surgery are still in town and by their skill many a valuable tree will be saved. A noble oak on the Homer Jordan lawn and Mr. Bayersdorffer's stately maples have been skilfully treated. It is hoped they will live many years to give shade and shelter and beauty to the landscape.

The presence of the John Davey men in our city has aroused a good deal of interest in the study of trees in winter. Now is the time to learn things about trees, hidden from us in the seasons of foliage and flowers. The moulding of the trunks, the graceful curves of their branches, the fine tracery of the little bare twigs, show clear against the sky, and the whole beauty of their symmetry, their poise, strength and delicacy is revealed. We can plainly note that the branches grow from the axillary or lateral buds on the stem, continuing their growth every year by developing and unfolding new buds. Branches vary in showing upright, drooping or horizontal habit of growth, as we see them in the Lombardy poplar, weeping willow and cyprip. We can also note that the bark is hard and smooth on some trees, like the beech, or ridgy like the sugar maple, and in others it flakes off like the sycamore. Very often the color of the bark is distinctive as is that of the green stems of the sassafras, and the white, brown and yellow trunks of the birches. The little dot on young bark called lenticels, they are openings for admitting air to the inner tissues. What a beautiful and interesting study!

THE GRAVES OF A HOUSEHOLD.

They grew in beauty side by side,
They filled one home with glee—
Their graves are several far and wide,
By mount and stream and sea.

The same fond mother bent at night
O'er each fair sleeping brow;
She had each folded flower in sight—
Where are those dreamers now?

One 'midst the forest of the west,
By a dark stream is hid—
The Indiana knows his place of rest
Far in the cedar shade.

The sea, the blue lone sea, hath one—
He lies where pearls lie deep;
He was the loved of all, yet none
O'er his low bed may weep.

One sleeps where Southern vines are
drest,
Above the noble slain;
He wrapped his colors round his breast,
On a blood red field of Spain.

And one o'er her the myrtle showers
Its leaves by soft winds fanned—
She faded 'midst Italian flowers
The last of that bright band.

And parted thus they rest who played
Beneath the same green tree;

Whose voices mingled as they prayed
Around one parent knee!

They sat with smiles lit up the hall,
And cheered with song the hearth—
'Twas for love, if thou wert all
And naught beyond, O earth!

—Felicia Hemans.

MOTHERS MEETING.

The January mothers' meeting was held last Tuesday with Miss Schuster at the kindergarten. Blooming hyacinths in the windows and baskets of trailing vines, with an atmosphere of sunshine, within and without, the first meeting of the year was most appropriately and beautifully carried out with the following programme:

Lord's Prayer.
Music, "Instrumental Sketch."
Talk by Miss Schuster. A synopsis of the kindergarten programme since New Year including New Year resolutions; January as a winter month which called for warm clothing. This brought in the process of the cotton from the field through spinning, weaving and finally the sewing into clothing. Also our dependence on the animals, the sheep for wool, the cow for leather, the bear and fox and seal for fur. Another lesson brought out was that of our dependence upon the baker and those men who serve us. In the course of the afternoon it was decided that a demonstration lesson in baking be given on Friday, January 20, in the kindergarten, the kindergarten teachers and mothers giving the demonstration before the children.

Music, "Annie Laurie," Miss Georgia V. Stringfellow.

Story, "Silverlock the Sheep," by Miss Schurster.

Requests and assignment of committees. Social hour. Refreshments, consisting of dainty sandwiches and coffee served by Mrs. Comegys, Mrs. Cooke and Mrs. Palis. Pretty souvenir cards with the following appropriate verses for January were given to every one present:

This little strip of light
Twixt night and night
Let me keep bright
Today!

And let no fumes of yesterday
Nor shadows of tomorrow
Bedim with sorrow
Today!

I take this gift of heaven
As simple as 'tis given
And if tomorrow shall be sad
Or never come at all, I've had at least
Today!

BUSINESS MEETING OF HYPATIA
Hypatia's business meeting for January was held with Mrs. J. C. Foster at Thornhill, the president, Mrs. W. K. Henderson, in the chair. Following roll call was an interesting parliamentary drill conducted by the parliamentarian, Mrs. B. F. Boydston, whose thoroughness on difficult and misunderstood questions is of great value to the members of Hypatia. The practical work committee submitted plans for an entertainment which brought forth discussion and was referred back to the committee, who will make report at the next January meeting. Mrs. J. D. Wilkinson, chairman of the book committee, made report and read list of recommendations which had been carefully prepared by her committee with the assistance of the librarian. Report approved and order will be filled without delay. This will add $50 worth of books to the high school library for the use of the teachers. Mrs. John Young Snyder was unanimously elected to membership. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Foster, who was assisted in this gracious hospitality by Mrs. J. A. Thigpen.

CANDY BOOTH.

ANOTHER NEW YEAR GIRL.

Mr. and Mrs. Oswell Simmons are very proud and happy over the arrival of their lovely babe, to whom they have given the name of Clara Annie for the two great grandmothers. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons are receiving the congratulations of friends. They have apartments at 611 Cotton street.

BEREAVEMENT.

The death of Mrs. Marie Benus Lawrason, beloved wife of Dr. G. B. Lawrason, occurred at their home on Hope street Thursday evening. Mrs. Lawrason had been an invalid for years, but so remarkable was her fortitude under suffering that she was up and about in her home the day before her death. Mrs. Lawrason was a woman rarely and richly endowed with mental gifts, and great sweetness and gentleness of nature. Her reading and learning on almost every subject of interest was comprehensive, her memory wonderful, which made her companionship a delight. Bravely did she struggle through years of ill health, giving her family and friends the comfort of her presence whenever it was possible. The devoted attention of her husband and daughters, Misses Belle and Zelia Lawrason, was ever exerted to make her comfortable and happy, and friends longed for the privilege of doing something to cheer her in the "shut in" life she was forced to live.

Mr. Benus Lawrason, the devoted young son, was called home by his mother's serious condition, reaching her bedside Friday morning—but the gentle spirit was on the "borderland beyond this vale of tears."

Funeral services were conducted from the family residence Saturday morning. Interment in Greenwood cemetery.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Friends in Shreveport rejoice with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Godchaux of New Orleans that their home has been blessed with a beautiful boy whose arrival has made this New Year the happiest of their lives. Justin Albert, the father's name, has been bestowed upon this first son, who is also the first grandchild of our former citizens and esteemed friends, Mr. and Mrs. M. Zodiag, whose home on Cotton street, now the Shuttleworth residence, was the happy meeting place of a large circle of friends years ago. The young mother is also well and lovingly remembered as beautiful Aline Zodiag. Removing to New Orleans in her debut season, she was recognized as a belle and beauty in the Crescent City, and soon became the happy bride of a noble and worthy suitor, Mr. Albert Godchaux, member of one of New Orleans' prominent old families. Mr. and Mrs. Godchaux have a handsome home on St. Charles avenue, where they are ever glad to welcome friends from Shreveport, the happy girlhood home of Mrs. Godchaux.

RUFFIANISM ROUTED.

New Orleans Picayune: Recent exhibitions of how to punish hoodlums and blackguards have caused quite a stir in ranks of the undesirables, and a few more sentences like those pronounced recently in our criminal courts will do much to muzzle our marauders and teach our pimps and panders that they must lie low if they want to save their hides and remain where daylight can bleach their blackened beings. There are many lecherous leeches awaiting justice, and while some of them are fortified and heeled with political influence, the slogan has been sounded and the riot alarm has been rung in, and they will be made to feel that order has the floor and that virtue has made up its mind to outstare vice. Whipping women and throwing carbolic acid must stop, and if the marauder of New Orleans is as chivalrous as it is reported it will stop, and stop for all time. The cowardly brutes whose deeds have brought the blush of shame to many cheeks must be made to fear the law and understand it.
