Notes and News of Interest

By M. H. W.

The astounding number of deceptions and outrages committed in our towns and cities by boys, causes those who study the history of crime in the juvenile courts, to realize that young criminals are being bred in our midst and no remedy, but the one furnished by the law is found and that is only temporary.

Miss Addame in her book, "The Spirit of Youth in the City Streets," cites a dozen charges upon which boys were brought into the juvenile court of Chicago.

They are taken from the court records and repeat the actual words used by police officers, irate neighbors or discouraged parents, when the boys were brought before the judge.

1. Building fires along railroad tracks; 2. Flaggng trains; 3. Throwing stones at trains; 4. Shooting at the actors in the Olympic theatre with sling shots; 5. Breaking signal lights on the railroad; 6. Stealing linseed oil barrels from the railroad to make a fire; 7. Turning a switch and running a street car off the track; 8. Setting fire to a barn in order to see the fire engines turn out; 9. Cutting Western Union cable.

Other charges taken from the records in volve stealing. These are classed either under the spirit of adventure or disorderly conduct; terms too light, as has been proven, for the same offences are committed from day to day in every town and city in the land.

The spirit of revolt against parental and school authority is a problem met every day. What is the remedy? We know that right here in Shreveport the wanton destruction of property in our one little pleasure ground—Princess Park—causes the expenditure of over fifty dollars annually to repair the broken furniture, replace faucets taken away, clean the wading pool into which bricks and other debris have been thrown, repair broken hydrants, etc. and yet, at this park, play grounds are especially provided with gymnastic apparatus, and an instructor. All free to all the children.

The problem confronting us daily—the spirit of youth in the city streets is a most serious one.

Sympathy

The death of Mr. J. R. Griddle takes away a good and valuable citizen of Shreveport—a man whose unselfishness has been fully recognized during his long residence here.

The deepest sympathy is extended wife and three children, Mr. E. M. his bereaved family—his devoted Mrs. J. T. Jeter and Mr. Walker Griddle, of Dallas.

Other Sorrows

Mrs. A. B. Bozaman returned during the week from Gibsland where she was called by the death of her mother, Mrs. J. J. Carter, whose demise has brought great grief to her devoted family, consisting of five children and nine grandchildren.

The bereaved family have the tender sympathy of friends in their sorrow.

Mrs. Ida Harris has the sympathy of friends in the death of her son, Mr. C. J. Harris which occurred at Mineola, Texas.

Mrs. J. H. Elchiker, and Miss Weld Harris attended the funeral.

The Marriage of Miss Loeb

The most brilliant and beautiful social event of the season was the marriage of Miss Eda Loeb to Dr. Herold, Wednesday evening at six o'clock at the handsome home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Loeb.

The entire lower floor was thrown open, and gorgeously decorated. The dining room was embowered with white roses and a wealth of ferns; magnificent palms lined their fronts in the spacious hall-way, and pink roses and carnations with masses of festal streamers, decorated the library and dining room.

It was a scene of bewitching beauty and fragrance. A reality and not a dream of fair women and gentlemen.

Miss Leah Herold was the charming bride of honor. She was joyously attended by a cove of girl chaperons with the exception of Miss Leah's best friend, Miss Helen, and Miss Helen's sister, Miss Helen.

The bride's attire was a masterpiece of fashion. A long, flowing gown of light blue silk, with a high collar and long sleeves, and a long, flowing train.

Awaiting the bride at the flower-decked altar, was the proud groom and his best man, Dr. Bodenheimer.

The ceremony was impressively performed by Rabbi Moses Jacobson. In the dining room the handsome mahogany table, covered with lace and centered with pink Killarney roses, bore crystal silver dishes of bon-bons and candied fruits, and of course, the bride cake, which was a work of art, embossed in roses and lilies.

An array of beautiful and costly wedding presents, occupied the attention of the guests, during which time the bride disappeared to make ready for her departure on her wedding journey. Dr. and Mrs. Herold will be away several weeks visiting the big cities in the North and East.

The heartfelt congratulations are walled to Dr. and Mrs. Herold as they speed away on the happiest journey of their lives.

Sermon at St. Marks

Rev. H. St. George Tucker, president of St. Paul's College, Tokio, Japan, will preach at St. Mark's today at eleven o'clock.

Dr. Tucker is returning to Japan where he has done missionary work for twelve years. He will be consecrated Bishop of Kioto in March.

My Own Shall Come to Me

If John Burroughs had never written any other poem than "My Own Shall Come to Me," he would have stood for all time as one of the greatest of American poets. The poem is most characteristic of the tall, majestic slow-going poet and naturalist.

Serene I fold my hands and wait, No care for wind, nor tide, nor sea, I rave no more 'gainst time or fate, For lo! my own shall come to me!

I stay my heart, I make delays For what avails this eager love? I stand amid the eternal mays, And what is mine she'll know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day, The friends I seek are seeking me; No wind can drive my bark astray, Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone? I wait with joy the coming years; My heart shall reap where it has sown, And gather up its fruits of tears.

The stars come nightly to the sky; The tidal wave comes to the sea; Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high; Can keep my own away from me.

The waters know their own and draw The brook that springs to yonder heights, So flows the good with equal law Unto the soul of pure delights.

—JOHN BURROUGHS.

Warmly Greeted

The appearance of Mrs. R. H. Ward on the strete last week, after a serious illness, gave great pleasure to her friends.

Mrs. Ward and her mother, Mrs. J. F. O'Leary were making purchases for Mrs. Ward's speedy departure for Los Angeles, Cal., where she will remain several months with her sister, Mrs. George Andrews, and it is hoped will rapidly regain her health.

Send Thanks

Miss Elise Allain, custodian Louisiana Division, U. S. C., in behalf of the old soldiers has sent very pretty sentiment post cards to the children of the ex-servicemen of the Training School, acknowledging their Christmas gifts to the soldiers that went to the U. S. C. Christmas boxes.

These pretty gifts were the work of the old soldiers of the division who are laid up but only plain sewing and the art of fine needlework. And these fashionable pretty looking knits and purses, needle work, and other things, knitted needles and of which were much appreciated.

Such appreciable and kind presents were given to the children of the old soldiers of the Louisiana Division, U. S. C., by Mrs. Allain, the Training School, in acknowledgment of their Christmas gifts to the soldiers that went to the U. S. C. Christmas boxes.

A number of new chapters of the organization were held at Mrs. Young's home last night. The new president-elect, Mrs. Alexander White, of Nashville, Tenn., in which she held the State president's post forward the work of organizing new chapters, among children as well as adults.

But the great work of the daughters, Mrs. White said, is that of education along the lines correct history so all historians of chapters should watch with vigilant eye the introduction of a new history into the schools. To Meet Mrs. Lila Corlin Morris Mrs. Randall Hunt invited the teachers of the public schools to an informal reception at her home Friday afternoon to meet Mrs. Morris, the well known and popular W. C. T. U. lecturer.

A delightful little musical program preceded Mrs. Morris' talk, which was also prefaced by remarks from Mrs. Hunt stating he desire to arouse deeper interest in the teachings of scripture temperance in the schools.

Mrs. Morris' address was very earnest and interesting. The suggested prize essay work in the grades, and debates, not only as a means of instruction and creating an interest in the children, but as a probable means of interesting the parents.

Questions and discussions followed which were helpful and interesting.

Tea and wafers were passed and the afternoon was delightful in this charming home where the spirit of hospitality is always cordial.

Mrs. Halsey and the lovely young daughters, Emily and Rhoda, assisted in serving and entertaining the large number of guests, who were happy to accept Mrs. Hunt's invitation.

Mrs. Morris' Itinerary Dates arranged for the week are as follows: From Shreveport Mrs. Morris will go to Mooringsport, and lecture on the 27th and 28th. On the 29th and 30th Mrs. Morris will be in Haughton. Other dates will be arranged.

Mrs. Morris is a Kentuckian, now residing in New Mexico. She is a forceful lecturer and is received with appreciation wherever she goes.

Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth On Friday evening at 8 o'clock the great prison reform worker, Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth will lecture at the City Hall at 8 o'clock.

Hon. T. C. Barret

Whatever were the doubts as to the nomination of Hon. T. C. Barret for the office of Lieutenant Governor or have been removed by the returns of the election. His majority while not as great as had been expected by his friends is sufficient and satisfactory. As a citizen of Shreveport and of Caddo Parish and as a North Louisiana man his friends and admirers from this section of the State are well pleased over his success as are his friends everywhere throughout the State.

As Lieutenant Governor he will prove to be most valuable to this State. He will not rest content with the honor of his office but will contribute his influence and his time to the promotion of the best interests of the State.

About Platforms

The Washington, D. C. Star says: "A good platform for the democrats this year would be one that wouldn't suit some of the extremists who are calling themselves progressives."

A better one would be one that would impress the people with the belief that the democratic party means to be true to its principles by providing the people with relief from trust oppression.
