CATTLEMEN GATHER IN ANNUAL MEETING

Fifty-Four Yearly Convention is Held at Fort Worth.

ATTENDANCE QUITE LARGE

President Casator's Address Interesting, He Dealing With Some Matters of Importance to Members of Organization.

When President Casator called the fifty-fourth annual convention of the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association to order at Fort Worth he had a large gathering. It is estimated 1200 cattlemen were in attendance.

The mayor and others welcomed the delegates and visitors. Hon. Webb of Attorney responded.

President Casator made a brief address.

President Casator's annual address was carefully listened to. It gave a review of the past year and contained several suggestions.

Report of the executive committee was voluminous, covering many pages and dealing with legislative matters, the financial condition of the organization, rates, etc. It is shown that during the past year 211 new members had been admitted and that there had reduced 75,000 cattle for assessment.

Matters of interest to the members were voted upon.

The cattlemen took in the fat stock show and other interesting exhibits.

LEAPS TO DEATH

Grover Evans Hurls Himself Out of a Window.

Grover Evans, forty-five years old, an employe of the Dallas Automatic Telephone company, leaped from a third-story window of his boarding house in Dallas. Half clad and lying in a heap the man's body was found by fellow-boarders next morning. His neck was broken, the bones of both his arms shattered and it was evident he had been several hours.

According to Henry Martin, one of Evans' fellow-employes, the latter had been drinking heavily of late. Martin said he had taken Evans to his room and he did not act rationally. There was no evidence of a struggle. The window had been raised and the screen unattached. It is believed that in his delirium Evans took his frightful leap to the ground.

JUDGE FAVORS BASEBALL

Injunction Refused to Stop Work on Galveston Park.

Great and irreparable injury may be done the public if that public is denied the opportunity to witness games of baseball. In substance this is what Judge Street of the Fifty-fifth district court at Galveston held when he denied application for a temporary injunction, which would have stopped work on the new beach baseball park.

In his opinion Judge Street held that even though the plaintiffs had suffered some injury, as claimed, by reason of the partial closing of some adjoining streets, it was evident that the issuance of a temporary mandatory injunction, as requested, would have worked great and irreparable injury in preventing baseball games, and that the proper recourse of plaintiffs was through a suit for damages.

AIRSHIP SQUAD BUSY.

Secures Evidence That Results in Several Arrests.

After working secretly at Dallas for nearly three weeks, during which time it claims to have secured much data, thereby being enabled to make raids and arrests, the "Airship Squad" broke its silence when six charges of vagrancy were filed against six men, white people in addition to these charges one woman's accused of keeping a disorderly house and another is charged with abusive language.

During its investigations members of "Airship Squad" said conditions were found which if made public would put to shame some prominent people. Members of the squad appeared before the grand jury and submitted
