SMITH'S PLAN TO PUSH TARIFF BILL

Georgia Senator Proposes to Banish the Morning Hour.

WOULD TIRE REPUBLICANS.

Hoke Does Not Realize the Difficulty of Keeping a Quorum During the Summer Months—Congress Certain to Pass a Drastric Anti-Lobby Bill to Protect Itself.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN. Washington, July 8.—[Special.]—Senator Hoke Smith has a plan for pushing the tariff bill through the senate with much greater speed than has been believed possible. He says that after giving the Republicans reasonable time to consider the measure after it is reported a few days, at least, then the senate should banish the so-called "morning hour," which is really two hours, take up the tariff bill each day at 12:30 and continue consideration of it until 6 o'clock at night.

How About the Quorum? Senator Smith has not been a member of the senate two years, and he never has been through one of those protracted contests such as a tariff bill is likely to evoke. He does not realize, perhaps, that his party will be under the necessity of keeping a quorum in the senate all the time.

The Anti-Suffragists. The anti-suffragists say they are going to make an active campaign hereafter and meet the suffragists at every point, more particularly as regards the effort to put through a constitutional amendment giving women the ballot.

Will Not Scramble. Senator Gallinger takes a very dignified position in regard to the New Hampshire senatorship. His term will expire in 1915, and the election will occur next year.

Forestry Extensions. In the course of time there will be forestry reservations in all the states, according to the land purchases that are being made from time to time.

Reconciliation Work. Some of the old time Republicans assert that Jim Mann as minority leader is doing his share toward reconciling the factions of the Republican party.

Keeping His Temper. Senator Borah has been successful in getting legislation enacted because he remains calm and never seems to be puffed at the opposition tactics of other senators who may be opposing him.

What Pence is Doing. I asked Tom Pence, the man who gained fame as the publicity man of the Wilson campaign, what the organization over which he was exercising supervisory direction was doing.

Wives Brave Heat. While a great many women have left Washington, a large number of wives of senators and representatives have determined to brave the heat of the capital and remain in Washington until the end of the session.

HOW WILSON WILL PASS THE SUMMER

President Will Forego Vacation to Help Congress.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS ACTIVE.

Senator Gallinger Will Not Fight For Re-election—Forestry Reservations Being Made In All States and Will Be National Parks—Borah Wins Out by Keeping His Temper.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN. Washington, July 9.—[Special.]—When congress remained in session a long time during the administration of President Cleveland that executive would hide himself to Buzzard's Bay and enjoy an outing. Few presidents have publicly shown so much contempt for congress as Cleveland. Congressmen bored him. He disliked their continual quest for places. This applied particularly to senators. During his last term Cleveland had serious ruptures with the large majority of his own party, and consequently his manner became more distant.

Still Unsettled. Still unsettled is the power of this country to do what it wants to do—that is, in the minds of a great many statesmen. In reality it has long been determined that the people of this country can do what they want to do. If they want to remain one nation, one nation it is; if they want to give the negro the vote, the law is passed; if they want to have a war with Spain, they have it, and in time to come if they want the women to vote there will be votes for women.

Is Jerry an Outlaw? Bold Jerry Donovan of Connecticut is in a fair way of becoming a political outlaw. Jerry flew the track when the Underwood bill was being considered and several times voted with the protectionists.

Hunting For a Speech. "Lane's Lost Speech," or "The Hunt For a Classic," came very near being the title of a congressional speech. Senator Lane made a speech, bristling with warm words and classical and poetical quotations.

Rich Men in Public Life. It has been considered quite remarkable that Senator Bourne, though no longer on the payroll, is giving just as much time to public service as he did when senator.

A Young New Yorker Works. Almost on the same order might be classed Francis Burton Harrison of New York city. He remains in public life, although wealthy. He is the second man on the ways and means committee and in line for the chairmanship in case Oscar Underwood should be advanced to a higher station.

House Furnishes Senators. That the house of representatives is a school for senators is shown by the fact that of the ninety-six senators thirty-six have seen service in the house.

NEARING END OF TARIFF WRANGLE

Senate's Measure Expected to Pass Eventually.

TO FORBID OPIUM EXPORTS

Donovan of Connecticut Arouses Ire of Hardwick of Georgia by Voting With the Protectionists—Senator Lane's Quest For His Lost Classic—Borah Still a Worker.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN. Washington, July 7.—[Special.]—Well, they will soon start on their long journey in the senate. It may be six weeks or two months before they get over the tariff route—predictions vary—but we are near the end, and we will all get good and sick of the debate before it comes.

But all that is a long time ahead. We have not really started on the long winded senate debate, but I was merely saying what we may expect when we reach the end of the route.

These few remarks are on account of a recent explosion in the house because a bill was about to pass prohibiting the exportation of opium. "You can't do that," said a stickler for the constitution, "because the constitution says no export tax shall be levied."

Kansas Corn Crop Menaced.

It has been reported from Dodge City, Kas., that the corn crop in that part of Kansas is threatened with disaster by grasshoppers, according to statements by leading farmers. The hot weather of the past week has hatched millions of the insects, and as most of the wheat has been harvested they are attacking the corn.
