Notes and News of Interest

An organization for girls known as the "Home Builders" has been started in the model school at the Normal. The Natchitoches Times, which contains an interesting article signed Nogmalite, explains that this is a form of club work for the purpose of drawing the home and school into closer relations. The following extract makes plain the interesting work of the Home Builders:

"All girls belonging to the organization are known as Home Builders. Twelve girls form a circle and each circle meets once a week. There are two circles in the model school at present. One is named the Elxelsior Circle and the other is called the Natchitoches Circle. The girls are given honors for duties performed at home. Every activity embraced by the home, and there is hardly a phase of every day life that is not reached by the home, is recognized in the organization. The girls at the meetings tell each in turn what they have done at home and receive their honors accordingly.

"There are eight branches under which honors may be earned, and they are as follows: Home cooking, home sewing, home decoration, home culture, home cleaning, home 'little things,' home health, home planting. It might be of some interest to read a few of the honors that have already been earned. The Excelsior Circle met Tuesday morning when the following honors were given: Home Cleaning: Cleaned one room every day for a week. Ruth Ford. Home 'Little Things': Took care of the baby three afternoons, Ruth Ford; took care of the baby while breakfast was being prepared, Amelia Albritton; rubbed the silver, Eloise Hawkins. Home Health: Brushed teeth every night for a week, Amelia Albritton. Home Planting: Flowers in a window box, Jeanette Monroe. Home Cleaning: wiped the floors with damp cloth, Jeanette Monroe; washed dishes every day for a week, Beatrice Jones; swept the gallery every day for a week, Estelle Chandler; washed the dishes every day for a week, Estelle Chandler. Home Decoration: kept fresh flowers in a vase for a week, Beatrice Jones. Home Cooking: made chocolate: Eloise Hawkins.

Hypatia.

October literary meeting of Hypatia was held with Mrs. Cooper Nelson on Saturday afternoon, Mrs. J. C. Foster, president, opened the meeting. Mrs. Baillie's excellent talk on "Divorce and Social Welfare" was followed by a discussion as to the cause and remedy, and the laws governing such in other countries. The discussion was led by Mrs. H. H. Prescott. Mrs. Lee of St. Louis, Hypatia's guest, contributed interesting data to the discussion. Readings by Mrs. W. M. Ledbetter closed the programme.

Regret was expressed at the absence of Miss Margaret Scofield, who was confined to her home by illness. The next business meeting coming on Nov. 8, during the Fair, it was decided to postpone it and combine the meeting with the next literary meeting, Nov. 22.

A delightful social hour followed. Cups of fragrant Bohea and delicious sandwiches served by Mrs. Nelson. The attendance was good and the meeting a profitable one.

Parkview church is to be congratulated on this fine improvement and the growth of the congregation which makes it necessary.

Lewis and Scott Wilkinson in charge of an exhibit from the military department of the university, containing everything pertaining to military life. The exhibit will be mounted on a board 9x12 feet. There are also photographs of interest and two stacks of arms and the colors. Cadets W. A. Wilkinson and U. D. Taddikin have also been detailed to come to Shreveport and assist in arranging the exhibit.

The Tattler.

The high school magazine comes out in new dress and new name, "The Tattler," and the cover is gold with a crest of purple—high school colors. Those who think lightly of the new name, associating with it only idle gossip, are asked to remember that the title has become classic in its meaning—since Addison & Steele used it for their periodical. "The Tattler" was a notable series of observations on life and literature of the eighteenth century and at once became the most popular periodical of the time.

Our high school Tattler will endeavor to win favor by following very modestly in the steps of its great predecessor, and be fair, kind and impartial in its treatment of people and events.

The frontispiece contains excellent photos of Supt. Byrd and Miss Sharp, senior professor and teacher of history, with "appreciations" of both by R. J. M. Miss Sharp contributes the opening article "A Welcome to the Pupils," so kindly, sympathetic and wholesome that it might be called a heart-to-heart talk. "The Value of Good Books" is the title of an excellent article by Miss Rec de Blioux. Reggie Hargrove Jr., writes some pertinent things on the "School Spirit." The following sentence might be crystallized into a thought that carries with it an admonition: "The support of the students is needed to make all the organizations successful, financially as well as in other ways." The notes, news and jokes are all good.

The decoration of the cover, which also spells the name, is the clever work of S. G. Weiner, The librarian, although a subscriber, was sent a number with the compliments of The Tattler star, which favor she hereby acknowledges with appreciation.

Editorial Staff: Editor in chief, Horace L. Hawkins; associate editor, Clay Edwards; society editor, Miss Virginia Lirt; athletic editor, Percy Eakin; exchange editor, Roland Monroe; staff cartoonist, Sam G. Weiner; staff artist, John Flaungan; bill, Bill; business and circulation, Drury Barlow; on the advisory staff are Supt. Byrd, Mr. A. Bogard, principal of the high school; Miss Martha Barrow, Miss Grace H. Shreveport Chapter U. D. C.

The regular monthly meeting of the Shreveport Chapter U. D. C. was held Monday afternoon in the directors room of the Commercial National Bank. Mrs. Peter Youree presiding. The president's opening talk was on the recent Confederate Convention at Monroe, which was a great success and well attended, even though high water conditions prevailed in the southern part of the State. Mrs. Youree expressed the opinion that the joint State conventions of the Veterans and Daughters was helpful to each organization, bringing into the leisure hours a spirit of sociability and comradeship very delightful.

Minutes of last meeting were read by Secretary Mrs. W. E. Wallace and approved. The secretary also read letter from Mrs. Nathan Hirsch in appreciation of the sympathy extended on the death of her husband, who was a valued member of Ladies' Staff Camp U. C. V.

Mrs. Youree read an account full of interest and pathos of the Confederate Museum at Richmond. Mrs. Behan of New Orleans, State president for Louisiana, is making a valuable collection of Confederate relics for the Louisiana room. Mrs. Youree brought before the meeting the subject of purchasing a life residence in the Home for the Homeless for a Daughter of the Confederacy. One hundred dollars has already been subscribed by the Marshall Chapter U. D. C., who feel a special interest in this particular case. The full amount required is $250. Any member of the Shreveport Chapter or any others who desire to contribute to this fund can do so by addressing Mrs. W. A. Baillie, 501 Milam street, custodian of the fund.

The reorganization of the Mansfield Chapter was reported by Mrs. Youree and also the encouraging news was given that she would go to Belcher on Nov. 8 to organize a chapter.

Mrs. Youree announced to the chapter the death of one of its members, Mrs. Susie Terry Watson, whose death occurred Oct. 9, 1913. The treasurer, Mrs. Andrew Currie, made an excellent report showing all indebtedness paid and balance of $235 in bank.

Promptness in attending the meetings was urged by the president, as there is always much business to be disposed of as well as matters of interest for discussion.

The Great Blue Heron—A Warning. The great blue heron stood all alone By the edge of the solemn sea, On a broken boulder of gray trap stone, He was lost in reverie.

And when I clutched the low rough wall At the top of the sloping beach, To gather the driftwood, great and small, Left scattered to dry and bleach.

Oh, stately and graceful and slender and tall, The heron stood silent and still As if careless of warning and deaf to my call, Unconscious of danger or ill.

Fly, fly to some lonely place and fly fast, To the very north pole anywhere, Then he rose and soared high and swift eastward at last: Trailing long legs and wings in the air.

You can not know of the being called man, The lord of creation is he, And he slays all earth's creatures wherever he can In the air or the land or the sea.

Then I cried aloud, fly before the sand, This lord of creation arrives, With his shot and his powder and gun in his hand, For the spoiling of innocent lives,

I saw as if carved from the broken block On which I was standing the bird Like a part of the boulder of the blue gray rock For never a feather he stirred.

I paused to watch him, below my breath "A beautiful creature," I cried, "Do you know you are standing here close to your death, By the drink of the quiet tide."

"Now perhaps you may live to be happy," I said, "I'll sail away, leaving, as fast as you can, Out the width of the earth and the breadth of the sea Betwixt you and the being called man."

For Our Dumb Animals

The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has received a bequest of $4,320, of which the interest only is to be used, Elizabeth F. Noble left to American Humane Society $32,258, and $100 from a lover of animals in South Carolina.

Everything eRady.

Mrs. Gordon Irons, the efficient chairman in charge of entries and arrangements for the better babies contest, has completed her work most satisfactorily and Mrs. C. L. Wheeler, general chairman for the Federated Clubs, announces that everything is ready for this most interesting event.

Every convenience has been provided at the Schumpert home for the mothers and babies. A committee of ladies will be on hand to receive the guests, and physicians and nurses present to do their part.

So many entries have been made that the contest will occupy a great portion of each day of the Fair, beginning with the second. The connecting rooms on one side of the hall will be used for the contest and the rooms on the other side will be at the convenience of the ladies for rest rooms. The babies in this celebrated contest will undoubtedly be the drawing feature of the Fair. The results of each day's tests will be eagerly watched for.

The registry book to be used in the contest will be a valuable record worth preserving. In this book the mothers will enter their names and the names of the babies for the contest. Mrs. C. L. Wheeler, chairman, requests that members of reception committees are asked to see that the registering is properly done.

Fair Grounds a Busy Place. The busy hum of hammer and saw made the Fair grounds the busiest place in the State yesterday. Everybody that had anything to do was on hand trying to complete arrangements. Furniture was being installed in the rest rooms, exhibits placed, refreshment booths decorated. The lady superintendents were there with a corps of willing workers, and soon transformed the bare walls of the exhibit halls, making them beautiful with a variety of things. The Art building is like an eastern bazaar in the richness and beauty of its textiles, and like a museum in treasures from the schools of the State.

Assisting Mrs. Williams in the important work of placing the school exhibits were Miss Howell, principal of the central school; Miss Hightley of the high school; Misses Smith and Broadnax of the central school; Prof. Studaker, instructor of manual training; Mr. Marcus Weeks of the high school sophomore, Mrs. G. B. Terry is the capable assistant in the educational department.

Church. Mrs. W. C. Marshall has returned from a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Parkin, at their home near Mer Rouge.

Miss Annie Finkins of Greenwood is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dinkins on Cole street and will remain through the Fair.

Miss Bessie Stubbs has returned from Kentucky, and will be at home during the winter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Linton Stubbs.
