GIVE YOUR COTTON.
Give your Cotton—every bale, Rather than our causes should fail; Let the base invader know,
In the scale our all we throw;
That our country we will save,
Or make it an eternal grave.

Men of spirit—courage high, Would rather live than die?
When your country asks your aid, Would you see your country laid All in ruins?—or will ye give What will make your country live!

There is hope when men are true, When they'll die or bravely do;
When a purpose, stern and high, Nerves them for the conflict nigh;
When their altars they will save,
Or "rush with glory to the grave."

Give your cotton—give your life—Long may live the present strife, But we'll surely win at last—Then we'll bless the dangers past; But, remember, all must give,
That our glorious South may live!

[Communicated.]
JUVENILE HEROISM.

It is a matter of local pride that the Parish of Caddo has furnished two thirds of her voting population as soldiers in this War; but the genuine patriot will experience a glow which feeling may appreciate, and yet such as pen can not portray, when it is known that boys catch the military spirit, and start in the race with men in the fight for the South.

Many of our Citizens of Shreveport have youths 16 and 17 years of age in the Southern Army from whom good accounts have already been received.

But an instance of precocity fell under our observation a few days since which affords a fair example of Southern spirit.

Willie—the son of Col. D.—of this city, last Sunday upon the departure of Capt. Sharp's Company, told his Ma that he wished to cross the River and enjoy with them the refreshments which Mrs. Cain proposed to regale them, and then to bid them God speed on their good mission. Willie is only ten years old, and has always been attached to his Ma's apron strings; and no suspicion of any disloyalty to the "marinal fount" (as Mr. McCawber would say) could be entertained by either of his indulgent parents. Willie was therefore rigged up in his best military clothes and permitted to make a day of it in the country. Before approaching the act of disobedience, justice to Willie constrains us to say in vindication of his boisterous conduct, that he had been apprised that small specimens of humanity, like himself, would find some difficulty in being mastered into the service. His brother, only a few years his senior, had at the very commencement of the War enlisted, and had been sent back home on account of his tender years. He might however, have been encouraged to persevere, as this same brother in a little while after returning home joined another company and was honorably received into the service of his country. Willie did not return home to prayers Sunday evening, but went on his way rejoicing with the gallant "Landrum Guards," no doubt thinking in English at least, and may be in Latin (for Willie has had early opportunities) quorum pars magna fui."

But Willie's hopes of early fame were doomed to an early disappointment. He had the pleasure and the glory of only one day's march—but even that would be considered quite an achievement by many now when it is considered that across Red River bottom "the uncertain path of glory led." The next morning, upon meeting the Stage bound for Shreveport, Willie was formally notified by Lieutenants, Triplet & Cuney, that the inexorable rules of the War Office dissolved his connection with that company, and that an especial dispatch from President Davis, required that he should be sent with four horse power back to Shreveport.
Willie at once acknowledged the the President's authority, and said he would as a patriot "disperse." He claimed, however to be put into possession of some badge or insignia, by which it might be known he was an honorably discharged soldier.
This was with acclamation accorded to him. And thereupon Lieut. T. swang around his shoulders a soldiers Canteen, and buckled around his body the largest seized pistol known in the Cavalry service. A certificate of good conduct and honorable discharge accompanied these.
Rejoicing in these trophies he returned to town the day after he left—having made a short, but brilliant campaign.

Willie is now the toast. May the conduct of this young hero incite older boys to start on the same road.

TELEGRAPHIC.
Memphis, September 19.—The Confederates doubtless occupy Mul-drough's Hill, Ky., to day. Roseau is opposing, and it is probable a battle will take place there.

A large force of Tennesseans reached Bowling Green yesterday.
Gen. Albert S. Johnston has arrived at Columbus.

It is reported that seven thousand federals have landed nine miles above Columbus, with the intention of making an attack.

Norfolk, Sept. 19.—The Minnesota, Wabash, Potomac, one corvette, and several gun boats are now lying at Hampton Roads.

Mobile, Sept. 16.—The Dog River cotton factory took fire accidentally today, and was totally destroyed.— Loss $100,000; insured for $42,000.

Richmond, Sept. 18.—Dispatches received here announce that Gen. Lee had taken Gen. Reynolds prisoner, ten miles from Cheat Mountain. It is believed that Gen. Reynolds and aids were reconnoitering when taken.

The Federal troops at Cheat Mountain are about 4000 strong and probably ere this are prisoners.

A messenger from Reynolds, taken prisoner, was the bearer of a letter to Rosenerants, stating that the Federal forces on Cheat Mountain had only one day's provisions, and urging prompt relief.

All the Federal forces in Western Virginia are in a peculiarly perplexing predicament.

Another report is in circulation that Gen. Wise recently captured 80 out of 100 reconnoitering Federals.— The above is give as received.

New Orleans, Sept. 20.—A sailor, captured by the federal steamer Massachusetts, but subsequently sent adrift in a leaky boat, on account of refusing to take the oath, was picked up and has arrived here. He reports that the enemy have nine batteries erected on the Chandeleur Islands, and were expecting lumber to build houses and hospitals. Twelve thousand men are to be divided on the islands in that neighborhood. [The Chandeleur Islands are in the Gulf of Mexico. The South Island is fifty miles north of the mouth of the Mississippi river, and the North Island thirty miles south of Ship Island.—Ed]

It is intended to forty Ship Island and prevent communication between New Orleans and Mobile. The federals received the New Orleans papers and kept posted.

Green River, Ky., Sept. 20.—A number of Southerners passed hereto-day from Louisville in various conveyances.

It is reported that ex-Gov. Morehead has been arrested and sent to Fort Lafayette.

Frankfort, Sept 20.—The Legislature calls the Tennesseans and Kentuckians invaders, and says they must be expelled, and the federals only came to Kentucky to preserve tranquility.

The Legislature has also declared no confiscations will be allowed, and ordered the Governor to place Thomas L. Crittenden in command of the State troops.

Mr. Underwood was unable to suppress his emotions, and spoke against such resolutions.

This news is taken from the Louisville Courier of yesterday.

The Courier has been suppressed.
Rosseau was crossing Rolling Fork yesterday morning in flats, but not liking the mustering of the Hardin county boys, he suddenly recross-ed the six hundred men he had got over.

Muldrough's Hill is not occupied.
Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 21.—An engagement took place on the 19th at Barboursville, in the eastern portion of Kentucky between 800 Confederates and 1800 federals. The federals were completely routed.

The Confederate troops consisted of a portion of Col. Battle's regiment of Tennesseans, assisted by Capts.
Simpson's and Plumber's cavalry.— We took four hundred stand of arms beside other equipments. We have possession of Barboursville.

Our loss is two killed—Lieut.
Parnell of Hawkin's company, and one private.

Retaliation Upon the Yankee Prisoners.—The obligations of secrecy have been removed from a bill passed by Congress, under authority of which the Executive will proceed to inflict retaliation upon the persons of the Yankee prisoners in our hands.
"in such numbers as he may deem expedient," for the inhuman treatment of our prisoners of war in New York. The act of Congress, which has given the President authority for retaliation in such measure and kind as may seem to him proper and and just, recites the fact by way of preamble, and in vindication of its objects, that "the Government of the United States has bound in irons, and lodged in dungeons, citizens of the Confederate States by the President thereof, and have otherwise maltreat-ed the same, and have seized and confined sundry other citizens of the said Confederate States, in violation of all principles of human and civilized warfare." [Examiner]

Congressman Ely.—Bennett of the New York Herald does not think much of this individual. He is opposed to exchanging him for Commander Barron, because he says "he is a politician of that school which has brought all the trouble upon us, and is not worth even a drummer-boy, we hope the rebels will hold him fast to the end of the war. He had no business at Bull Run."
