Every column in a newspaper contains from ten to twelve thousand distinct pieces of metal, the displacement of one of which cause a blunder or a typographical error. And yet some people claim great smartness if they can find an error in a newspaper. When some find a word with a wrong letter in it or a misplaced letter, they are sure they could have spelled that word right and they are happy for a whole day and go around telling how the editor spelled a word wrong.—Ex.

CASTORIA. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Bears the Signature of Dr. H. P. HITCHCOCK. We don't want to be considered inquisitive, but we would like to know what has become of that project to build a platform or a pavilion on our public square; also, why don't the town push the sidewalk project to a definite conclusion? Both these measures are very much needed for our town, and ought to be pushed persistently and vigorously until they are secured.

ABSOLUTE SAFETY is the best thing we have to offer. Other inducements are of secondary importance, upon this basis only do we solicit your patronage.

Sells & Gray Capture Memphis.

One of the Greatest Daily Papers in the Mississippi Valley Says. Many hundreds yesterday availed themselves of the opportunity and saw Sells & Gray's shows unload from their trains and pitch their many big tents at Billings Park. It's a big show, a "hammer," as the small boy puts it, and it takes nineteen tents by actual count, both big and little, to accommodate it all. What's more, they are all new and bright in appearance and fill all the available space inside the race tracks. The parade later today proved all that the most sanguine anticipated. It was both large and novel, and several features were noticeable that were never presented here in a parade before. Everything about it looked clean and up-to-date, especially the large number of beautiful horses and the costumes of the people. Many handsome ladies are with the show and quite a number participate in the parade. The magnitude, novelty and merit of all that could be seen free with the show probably had much to do with getting the immense audience the show had this afternoon. The tents were literally packed and some could not get seats. The performance proved an absolute surprise, so much greater and better was it than anticipated. It is a foregone conclusion now that the big tents won't hold the thousands who will attend tonight as the downtown reserved seat sale at 355 Main street sold out tonight's entire reserve space a few moments before five o'clock this afternoon.—Memphis, Tenn., Commercial-Appeal, Monday, Oct. 7, 1901.

HANGED. ED. WAGNER

Pays the Penalty of his Horrible Crimes.

Ed. Wagner charged with the murder of Patsy Goff on Utopia plantation near Raceland La., on the 22nd, of December, 1898, was hung yesterday at noon in the parish prison. At 12.05 the death warrant was read to the condemned man and he listened to the decree with much composure and coolness saying "thank you" as the last words fell from the lips of the sheriff his hand were then tied, and he was led up a narrow flight of stairs to the scaffold. The rope was placed around his neck at 12:6 and the signal was given at 12:7 and the trap fell at 12:8. Upon nearing the scaffold he began to quiver like an aspen leaf. At 12:20 he was pronounced dead and his body was lowered, the rope removed, he was placed in his coffin, and his body was buried in Potters graveyard.

This human monster is said to have killed several persons in the parish of St. John the Baptist. He was also charged with the killing of a white man by the name of Ross, in a levee camp in the parish of Iberville.

Wagner was captured by Sheriff Beary in the Atchafalaya, swamps on the 12th of last June and he was committed to jail on the 13th of June.

Sheriff Beary deserves great deal of credit for this important capture, and the people of Lafourche can feel certain that he will never leave a stone unturned in ferreting out the violations of the law.

An Agricultural Fair

In many sections of the State agricultural fairs are being held. These fairs are under the directions of the Bureau of Agriculture and Immigration. In the parishes where they have been held the greatest good has been done. They have educated the agriculturists in the more advanced methods of farming, have stimulated them to strive to out do one another in the field and the quality of their products, and have proven the best incentives to reach the goal of their ambition. To make two blades of grass grow where one grew before. "All the products of the farm and plantation are there exhibited and their cultivation explained; the dairy, the orchard, the garden, etc. are all represented by the "best the lands affords." and a spirit of emulation is created which is productive of the greatest good.

Great Luck Of An Editor. "For two years all efforts to cure Eczema in the palms of my hands failed," writes Editor H. N. Lester, of Syracuse, Kan., "then I was wholly cured by Backlen's Arnica Salve." It's the world's best for Eruptions, Sores and all skin diseases. Only 25c at All Druggists.

The Ruston Leader, in regard to the attacks by the press on the pistol habit, says:

Undoubtedly that is one of the ways to create public sentiment against the evil habit, but the trouble is that the great majority of those who carry the gun and do the damage are beyond the educational influence of the press for the simple reason that they never read newspapers. Pistol-toting and newspaper reading are habits not found as a rule in the same man.

Astounding Discovery. From Coopersville, Mich., comes word of a wonderful discovery of a pleasant tasting liquid that when used before retiring by any one troubled with a bad cough always ensures a good night's rest. "It will soon cure the cough too," writes Mrs. S. Himelburger, "for three generations of our family have used Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and never found its equal for Coughs and Colds." It's an unrivaled life-saver when used for desperate lung diseases. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00 at All Druggists. Trial bottles free.

All Saints and All Souls Days

The feasts of All Saints and All Souls were celebrated here last week with impressive ceremonies. On those days the Catholic church gather its members together to do honor to their beloved dead. Beautiful and solemn is custom to set apart days in commemoration of those who have preceded us to the eternal home beyond the skies. As prayers ascend on high and sweet flowers are scattered over the graves of the dead, the memory of their many good deeds are recalled, man's transitory sojourn on earth is vividly impressed upon the mind, and the path through ways of righteousness clearly pointed out for the christian to follow. It is our duty to remember the dead, and of such great importance is this held that the Catholic church has centuries ago recognized it by devoting those days in honor and commemoration of them.

There is nothing which purifies the mind more than the silent communion with the dead. As we stand over the grave of father or mother, wife or child, and pay the only tribute to their memory which is in our power, what are the thoughts which crowd the mind, what are the emotions which fill the heart? To review their sweet and holy lives to look through the vista of years and recall each kind act, each good deed, creates a feeling that we are in their very presence again, and the tears that dim the eyes, and the throbs that move the heart, assure us that the love we bore them is still alive. The religious spirit in which this tribute, this veneration for the dead, is observed, makes its importance greater. No feasts on the calendar of the Catholic church is more sacredly kept by the faithful than All Saints and All Souls Days.

The Cheapest Thing is Life.

"The cheapest thing in the South is human life and the country won't be worth a tinker's damn until the price is raised."—Advocate. Will it not remain cheap as long as the pulpit and press maintains its present attitude of silence and indifference to crime? Are we of the press performing the sacred duties of journalism when making excuses in almost every local case where human life is taken? If we do not openly condone killings do we not suppress comment if the killer happens to be to the manor born? Have we ever roasted a jury for acquittal at a time every person in the community knew full well that the accused was guilty? Do we not know that when criminals have influential friends that it is well nigh impossible to convict for any crime?

Let the pulpit and the press do its duty fearlessly and human life will be more secure. Proclaim the commandment "thou shalt not kill," in thunder tones and follow the proclamation up by a few convictions, and the price of life will be raised.

Good and true men, Christian men, are in a large majority in this parish, as well as in every parish in the State, and if they once decide that willful killings shall stop, life will be worth much more than at present. Let the better people quit going on bonds and creating sympathy for criminals, and a change will soon come, but the duty of impressing upon the minds of our people the decree of the Almighty issued upon Mount Sinai "thou shalt not kill," falls chiefly upon the pulpit, while the suppression of practices which lead to the escape of the guilty is the duty of the press. Let the pulpit and the press inaugurate a vigorous campaign against crime: let them thunder anathemas against those who interfere with the workings of courts of justice; let them resolve that this South of ours shall be blood guileless, and the man of bloody instincts will soon seek more congenial climes.

Let even and exact justice be done to all. Persecute none; favor none. Preach law, human and divine, from the pulpit, inspire men to a lofty conception of the duties of citizenship with the editorial pen; urge strict enforcement of the law without fear or favor, and bloody deeds will soon be as rare as they are in the best governed and most Christianized portions of the earth.

Yes, neighbor, "life is the cheapest thing in the South," but preachers of the gospel and mouders of public opinion are largely responsible for this sad condition.

Neither weak sermons nor puerile editorials will cure the body politic. Vigorous denunciation of crimes from the pulpit and bold fearless editorials from the press, aided by the best efforts of the best men and women, are the only efficacious remedies. So long as preachers and editors shirk solemn duties, so long will crime flourish. Are they, are we, Brother Jones, prepared to enter upon the work of reform?—Truth.

THEY SAY

- That the Thibodaux Cycling club is going to celebrate Thanksgiving day in grand style.
- That very little is heard now adays about the Moss Ginery, and
- That the officers and directors ought to do more hustling if they want to have all the shares taken up.
- That the "Great Eastern" is a fake, and
- That it was a good thing that this aggregation skipped Thibodaux.
- That "Under Two Flags" will be given at the Opera House Saturday night, and
- That it is a first class troupe, presenting a good strong play, and
- That every body ought to turn out if they want to take in a good show.
- That "Jacks" is a very enticing game, and
- That it has been the means for solving good many mysteries.
- That there is a power house in town without any power. See?
- That the "Entertainers" actually did meet last Thursday night.
- That coal can be shoveled under very pleasant circumstances, especially if a young lady is near by to make Time speed his lingering footsteps.
- That a man was hanged in the jail Friday until he was dead, dead, dead.
- That a disqualified voter is as harmless and worthless as a blind donkey.
- That your poll tax must be paid before December 31th or else you will be denied the privilege of voting.
- That there are good many people in town who never read any of the advertisements which appears from time to time in our local papers, and
- That this fact is preventing a number of business men from advertising in the town papers, and
- That it is to be hoped that there will be no more grounds for complaint on this score.
- That some parents in town are unmindful of some of their duties, and
- That they allow their children to be seen on the streets as late as 9 and 10 o'clock at night, when they ought to be by the fire-side preparing their school lessons for the following morning.
- That there is considerable difference between Anarchists and Dudes. The Anarchists want no sort of government. The dude doesn't know anything about it, and doesn't care, so long as he can sport a red tie, chew gum, make goo goo eyes at the girls, wear red shoe strings. The anarchist is an evil. The dude is a nuisance. The anarchist ought to be killed. The dude ought to be caged.
- That if you want to know anything about Hearts apply to Jerry and he will be pleased to furnish you with the information desired.
- That the "Sentinel" is an excellent advertising medium, and

- That if the Court House was given a coat of cement that it would present a decent appearance, and
- That the tall iron fence around the court house should be removed and the yard raised and leveled and hedges planted around the square.
- That our members of the legislature from this parish ought to advocate a law before our legislature which convenes in Baton Rouge next May, requiring all pistols sold in this State to be thirty one inch long and weighing twenty three pounds, and then the practice of "toasting" pistols would be done away with entirely.
- That the croquet club is to have a "swell meeting" in the near future.
- That the hardest thing to raise on a farm is a mortgage.
- That little brothers and bad teeth are great draw backs to those contemplating matrimony.
- That New Roads was quite an attractive place for some of our town people this week.
