Mr. Julius Lemle, whose card appears in the DAILY, is deserving of the patronage of the public and should receive a fair portion of the same.
He has ingratiated himself in the public favor by doing all which he says, which is as good a criterion as he needs.

If you wish a keepsake for your friend or sweet heart, go to Mr. E. H.
Rills, and get one of three beautiful Christmas Cards.

We call your attention to the card of N. G. Skipwith, who is now prepared Typographical errors will occur, and errors are not beyond our power of control, hence we were somewhat previous in marrying our friend Emmett Owens, but on the 9th, inst., he will enter into matrimonial bliss, and he enters that arena with our best wishes.

Mr. E. H. Rills is now opening the most recherche assortment of Fancy Articles for the Holiday season ever based for this market.

Railroad Items.

Mr. John Drago, Paymaster of the V. S. & P., left on the west bound train this morning to pay off "ye honest tollers" for the months of August and September and gladden their hearts.

Mr. Richard Carroll, General Superintendent and party of the Queen and Crescent route, are expected to arrive in the city this p. m. It would be well for citizens to meet them, as we presume that their visit has some reference to the bridge question, though, we are not positive.

The river is rising slowly, a rise of one inch for the past 12 hours having occurred. Should a freeze above occur, which is not improbable, it will be sometime yet before navigation in the tributaries will open, though, we have heard parties who are conversant with the river and its tributaries express the opinion that it would not be a great while before there would be water enough for the packets to ply in their respective streams.

Messrs. Meredith and Cellos, are deserving of credit, for having the approaches to and from the wharf boat as well as the elevator and track placed in such excellent condition. A plank walk, amply wide enough for one or more persons, coming and going in opposite directions, to pass each other, is one of the improvements and an entire new battery of boilers have been placed in position; the track put in the best of condition and many other improvements made that will redound to the benefit of the public in lessening the danger of transacting business with or visiting the steamboats.

Nothing more beautiful than the Auto Albums, Photo Albums, Scrap Albums, Plush Writing Desks and a hundred other holiday presents at Mr.
E. H. Rills' Bookstore. Call and look at them.

Accident.

Clem Nealey, a young white man, aged 23 years, living at Mr. McQuiller's place in the Colony, about eight miles from town, met with a painful and serious accident this morning. He was driving a wagon, on which were three bales of cotton, and when near the corner of Third and De Siard street lost his balance and fell between the traces. The horses took freight and ran away dragging him a distance of about thirty feet or more and severely injuring him internally as well as externally. Dr. Murphy expresses the opinion that, though the injuries are somewhat dangerous in their nature, yet, with care and proper attention, he may survive them. Which prediction, we anticipate may be correct.

WEST MONROE DOTS.

[FROM OUR REGULAR REPORTER.] Capt. H. W. McLeod returned on yesterday morning's train from Claiborne parish, where he has been visiting his many friends in that section of the country, and reports a shortage in crops and calve seed up in that section.

Hon. James G. Meadors, of Homer, arrived on yesterday's train and is the guest of Capt. McLeod.

Mr. Hoggard is pulling up stakes and will leave our little town. He is moving to his place some 3 miles out from town.

Messrs. Fred and Abe Cann were in our town yesterday and spent several hours viewing the sights to be seen at the Oil Mills and prospecting, too, for aught we know.

Our streets were crowded with cotton wagons yesterday, and put us in mind of the speakers stand at a big ratification meeting.

The Editor of the Bulletin, we incline, fails to remember by-gone days, and consequently fails to understand that typographical errors will occur in a daily sheet no matter how much attention, toward their correction may be paid by the proof reader.

Our neighbor, it appears, fails to remember the services of the Junior Editor of the present DAILY, when he had the Editorial charge thereof and our exempt Chief of staff was rustica-ting in Texas. The files of the DAILY, of the time of which we speak, are open to inspection, and we suggest that our neighbor do not cry so loud until he gets out of the "bewilderness" The latter word will bring to his mind sad, or pleasant recollections of what might have been and will carry him back to the days and nights when he and the writer slaved in this office to furnish the people of Monroe with a morning paper, and succeeded in bringing out our morning edition at 3 o'clock in the evening. "Sing brother Sing."
