Farming operations, for the past few days, owing to unfavorable weather, have been almost at a stand-still. A great many planters, however, have their corn land prepared, and spring oats either up or planted. Reports agree that everything is working smoothly and the prospect encouraging.

Trimming of the oaks bordering the side-walks should not be delayed any longer than possible and many of these trees need trimming badly. Let us again insist that, in this work, the limbs be cut smooth and close to the trunk of the tree, and that some regard be had also for a well-rounded, symmetrical top.

Capt. F. Y. Dabney.

We were much pleased to meet our friend and former fellow townsman, Capt. F. Y. Dabney, on the street this morning, looking in fine health. His visit to Monroe at this time, we are inclined to believe, is not entirely without auspicious bearing upon the North and South railroad enterprise. We may say, without either personal flattery or misrepresentation of a fact, that no man in Louisiana has a larger practical railroad experience, either as to contracting or operating a railroad, or enjoys a greater measure of solid confidence among our people, than Capt. Dabney, and that if he should become connected with the building of the proposed road, that fact alone would give it a footing at once which otherwise it would be months, if not years, in acquiring. As a fact, it would be on its feet right away
