

RELIGIOUS AND EDUCATIONAL.

—There are 658 places for religious worship in Philadelphia.
—In India there are four female missionaries to every million of women.

—Dr. Lansdell, the English missionary, in a single year distributed no less than 56,000 Bibles among the exiles in Siberia.

—An association has been formed in England called the Morning Watch, whose object is to encourage early rising and early communion with God.

—It is said that in the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania, between Shamokin and Scranton, there are about two thousand persons who are members of the Greek Church.

—A country rector complained to Dr. Routh that he had received only five pounds for preaching a sermon at Oxford. "Five pounds!" ejaculated the doctor. "Why, I would not have preached that sermon for fifty!"—Christian at Work.

—Rev. Rupert Cochrane, M. A., rector of Langton, Spilsby, Lincolnshire, has just completed the 133d year of his family's service to the church. For three generations, without the break of a year, this service has been going on. His grandfather gave forty-three years of his life to the work, his father fifty-six years, he himself thirty-four years.—Chicago Living Church.

—Rev. E. D. Jones, who has spent ten years in China as a missionary, preached a sermon to a congregation of two hundred Chinamen in New York recently, addressing them in their native tongue. At the opening of the service he attempted to repeat the Lord's prayer in English, but broke down because he had been speaking Chinese so long he could not remember the words.—N. Y. Tribune.

—The only schools which the National Bureau of Education has under its direct control are those of Alaska. There are seven schools in that Territory, located at Sitka, Fort Wrangel, Jackson, Haines, Ounalaska, Hoonah and Bethel, and the total number of pupils is 491. These are mostly Indian children, of course.

—A Presbyterian church in Ulster County, N. Y., has voluntarily gone into liquidation, sold its place of worship and placed the funds in the hands of the presbytery to be held in trust against future exigencies. The reason given for this step is that a church of the same denomination in a neighboring village has absorbed the membership and attendance of the smaller organization.—Troy Times.

—The "Lancasterian" schoolmaster and author of a series of school readers, John E. Lovell, has been diligently engaged for the last four or five years in preparing a new and complete series of school readers. Mr. Lovell has just completed his ninety-first year, and is in remarkably good health for a man of his advanced age. His eyesight and hearing are impaired, but in a recent letter he writes that he can easily walk four or five miles without fatigue. He is residing in Waterbury, Conn.—Hartford Courant.

—She was eating green corn from the cob, when her teeth became entangled with a corn silk. "Oh dear," she said, "I wish when they make corn they would pull out the basting threads."—Prairie Farmer.

—"Uncle John, I thought your cows were well bred?" "Of course they are, my dear. They are Alderneys, and I have their pedigree from far back." "I don't care about that. They are not well bred. One of them just chased me out of the pasture and I think they are just as rude as they can be!"—N. Y. Telegram.

—"I wonder why I can't make my kite fly," wailed the little brother of the high-school girl. "It looks to me," replied Mildred, "as though its caudal appendage were disproportionate to its superficial area." "I don't think that's it," said Jim, "I think its tail is too light."—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

—Smith—I heard Brown speaking very highly of your neighbor Black yesterday. Jones—Brown is a fulsome flatterer. S.—He also said that he thought you were one of the most estimable of men, a kind husband and father and a loyal friend. J.—Of—er—Brown said so—h'm. I thought you meant White. Brown is an excellent fellow, honest and reliable.—Boston Courier.

—He was a wheelsman. He had called at a farmhouse for a glass of water, but the pretty farmer's daughter had offered him a glass of milk instead. "Won't you have another glass," she asked, as he drained the tumbler with a sigh and appeared to be taking in emptiness with both eyes. "You are very good," he replied, "but I am afraid I shall rob you." "O, no," with emphasis. "We have so much more than the family can use that we're feeding it to the calves all the time!"—Chicago Tribune.

A SHREWD DARKY.

The Way by Which He Defrauded an Impatient Legal Light.

Mose Peterson is an old negro with a waddling hip and a pair of lips, which, f thick lips, as Dumas said, denote frankness, place Mose among the frankest of men. Mose came to the city several days ago and, seeking a lawyer who had been recommended to him as one of the ablest of the guild, said:

"Doan charge nuthin much fur talkin ter er man does yer?"
"Yes."
"Wh'y, I use allus heard dat talkin' is cheap."

"It is not here."
"Talkin' ain't cheap heah?"
"That's what I said."

"Dat's whut I lowed. Wouldn't git me er bout five minits o' yer mighty precious time would yer?"
"Yes, for five dollars."

"Charge er dollar er minit, eh?"
"Just about."

"Come down ter seventy-fi' cents."

"I won't do it, and more than that. I want you to state your business or get out of here."

"Wants me ter state my bus'ness u git outen heah."

"That's exactly what I said."

"Zackly whut yer said."

The lawyer is naturally an impatient man, and under other conditions would have ejected old Mose, but as he had made up his mind to become a candidate for office, he choked down his rising resentment and suffered the old negro to remain determined, however to compel him to come to the point.

"I am extremely busy, Mr.—"
"Peterson, Hon. Mr. Peterson," Mose suggested.

"Well, Hon. Mr. Peterson, I am extremely busy, and I hope you will a once come to the point."

"Whut yer gwine charge me fur er little advice, jes er little, bout dis much," measuring on his finger.

"I told you five dollars."

"Jes fur dis little bit?"
"Yes."

"Dat's too much. Say four dollars."

"Well, four, then."

"Now we's gettin down close ter de worm rail. Four dollars jes fur dis little advice," again measuring. "Got no pity on er po' man, is yer?"

"Yes."

"Doan peer like it. Say, didn't I heah er white pusson say dat yers' wuz er canerdate for office?"

"I don't know whether you did or not."

"But yer is, ain't yer?"
"Well, we'll presume that I am."

A LIBERAL OFFER.

Five Thousand Dollars to any Charitable Institution, If It Can Not be Done as It Is Stated.

Rochester, N. Y., Union and Advertiser.
Friends of Ex-President Arthur are very much disquieted.

Of course he is not going to die! He is in the hands of a very particular physician. His doctor does not call it Bright's Disease! No, it is stomach disorder that he is suffering from now, and every few hours he takes a cold, and from time to time many other symptoms are developed. These symptoms the public should know are really secondary to Bright's Disease.

His physicians say that everything that medical skill can do for him is being done. That is not so!

This case is a prominent one because the General is an ex-President; and yet there are thousands of farmers quietly dying in their farm houses, of secondary symptoms of Bright's Disease, called by every other conceivable name; thousands of workmen, likewise dying, leaving helpless families; hundreds of thousands in all walks of life who have sickened, and are likewise dying, helpless victims of powerless physicians.

Eight years ago a very well known gentleman was about to enter upon large commercial transactions. His medical adviser quietly dropped into his office one day and told his confidential clerk that he would be dead in three months, and that he ought to settle up his business affairs at once!

That man is alive and well to-day, yet he was given up as incurable with the same disease that is killing General Arthur!

Our reporter met this gentleman yesterday and in conversation about the General's case, he said:

"I will give $5,000 to any charitable institution in the State of New York, to be designated by the editor of the New York World, the editor of the Buffalo News and W. E. Kisselburgh of the Troy Times, if Warner's safe cure (taken according to my directions) which cured me eight years ago, can not cure General Chester A. Arthur of Bright's disease from which he is suffering."

"Now I want you to understand," he said, "that we do not profess to make new cures, but we do know from personal experience and from the experience of many thousands of similar cases, that we can stop the consumption of the kidneys. Many a man has gone through life with one kidney without inconvenience. Thousands of people have lived a majority of their life with one lung. They did not have a new lung made. We do not make new kidneys, but the kidneys are not consumed, and much we can stop disease and prolong life if taken in time."

This offer comes from H. H. Warner, proprietor of Warner's safe cure, of this city. Mr. Warner also said: "My dear sir, there are Governors, Senators, Presidential candidates, members of Congress, prominent men and women all over the country whom I personally know have been cured of diseases such as General Arthur suffers from by our Warner's safe cure, but owing to the circles in which they move they do not care to give public testimonials to the fact."

Mr. Warner is interested in General Arthur's case because he is personally acquainted with him and he says that it is a shame that any man should be allowed to die under the operation of old-fashioned powerful cathartics, which have no curative effects, rather than that a modern, conceded specific for kidney disease whose worth is acknowledged world-wide, should save him.

"If you doubt the efficacy of Warner's safe cure," say the proprietors, "ask your friends and neighbors about it. This is asking but little. They can tell you all you want to know."

"We have kept a standing offer before the public for four years," said Mr. Warner, "that we will give $5,000 to any person who can successfully dispute the genuineness, so far as we know, of the testimonials we publish, and none have done it."

Were General Arthur a poor man, unable to be left in the hands of his physician, he would use that great remedy, as many thousands of others have done, and get well. How absurd then for people to say that every thing that can be done is being done for the ex-President, when the only successful remedy in the world that has cured, or that can cure a case like his, has not been used by them.

That Tired Feeling

Is so general at this season that every one knows what is meant by the expression. A change of season, climate, or life, has such a depressing effect upon the body that one feels all tired out, almost completely prostrated, the appetite is lost, and there is no ambition to do anything. The whole tendency of the system is downward. In this condition Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine needed. It purifies the blood, sharpens the appetite, overcomes the tired feeling, and invigorates every function of the body. Try it.

"I never took any medicine that did me so much good in so short a time as Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was very much run down, had no strength, no energy, and felt very tired all the time. I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had used one bottle felt like a different person. That extreme tired feeling has gone, my appetite returned, and it toned me up generally. My brother and sister have also received great benefit from it." CLARA W. PHELPS, Shirley, Mass.

EPITHELIOMA!

OR SKIN CANCER.

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. Eight months ago a friend recommended the use of Swift's Specific, and I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and began to use it. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat increase the sore, but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve after the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved, and I am stronger, and am able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is not a vestige of it left—only a little scar marks the place. Mrs. JOHIE A. McDONALD, Atlanta, Ga., August 11, 1885.
