It is evidently a Biela's comet.
One Cleveland Elector was elected by the Democrats of Ohio.

On Thanksgiving Day Yale's football eleven beat Princeton's by a score of 19 to 0.

Alabama is still in doubt, and it will require the official count to tell who carried that state.

Mr. Grover will not commit himself on the Cabinet question so long as the Democrats of Ohio are in power.

U. S. Senator Randall L. Gibson is very ill at Hot Springs Ark. Grave apprehensions are felt for his recovery.

The surplus went up like a rocket, but when it struck the cold, upper Republican air, it came down like a stick.

Now that Mr. Harrison has no further use for a health bulletin service, Mr. Blaine will be allowed to become robust again.

Perhaps if Mrs. Lease could post Mr. Lease down in the crowd and have him throw a few eggs at her, she might be elected to the Senate.

Dr. John W. Scott, the father-in-law of President Harrison, died on November 29th.

Bishop Hennessey, of St. Louis, is believed, will soon be named as coadjutor, and hence successor of Archbishop Kenrick.

After the second battle of Bull Run, Lincoln is said to have exclaimed: "Well I've heard of being knocked into the middle of next week, but I never heard of being pitched into the middle of last year."

The vote in the Electoral College will stand as follows: Cleveland 176, Harrison 138 and Weaver 23.

Alex. Greigains and "Buffalo" Costello, two welterweight pugilists, fought a draw of 81 rounds in the Arena of the Coney Island Athletic Club.

Here is a riddle that lately crossed over from Paris to London: "What is the difference between Napoleon I. and the Duc D'Orleans?"

That Comet.
Doubtless many of us felt relieved when we woke up last Monday morning to find ourselves safe and sound and later to see that our beautiful moon had not been stolen by that wandering terror.

Now that we are safe, what do the astronomers say? They prophesied that something terrible was about to happen, but it did not and they say that this comet is now running away from us.

Who comes it? Holme's or Biela's? In 1846 Biela's comet split up, and ever since we have seen its path it sprinkled us with one part until all was gone, and now it doubtless wants to sprinkle us with the other powdered half.

End of the Homestead Strike.
The big Homestead strike, which has raged for five months, is over.

The Chicago Inter Ocean has taken the view that Carnegie was the Burchard of the late campaign; and that the Homestead strike defeated Harrison.

The strike had other important effects. It was a very expensive one to the State of Pennsylvania and the county of Allegheny.

How thoroughly opposed this system is to American institutions was never better illustrated than at Homestead, and it called down such vigorous denunciations from all portions of the country.

The strike had other important effects. It was a very expensive one to the State of Pennsylvania and the county of Allegheny.

Gov. Pattison's action in ordering the militia to Homestead, at once suppressed what threatened to become a great rebellion and restored order.

It will be seen, therefore, that the Homestead strike had its effects, not only in Pennsylvania, but throughout the Union.

Locally the Homestead strike was one of the most disastrous that has ever been ordered.

place; and it has seriously injured the merchants and shop keepers of Homestead, who have been reduced to the brink of bankruptcy by the great decrease in their business since the strike began.

There are some points of resemblance between it and the late labor disturbances in New Orleans. The origin was different, for the steel workers at Homestead originally struck because of a reduction of wages.
