

The Louisiana Capitolian.

LOCAL MATTERS.

Get your Job Work done at the Capitolian office.

Laziness grows on people. It begins in cobwebs and ends in iron chains.

Capt. Philip King reports the following penitentiary arrivals last Sunday morning: White men, 13; black men, 35; black women, 5; total, 53.

The "Union Pic-Nicers," composed of three temperance organizations, have invited Rev. Ira B. Robertson to address them at Dearing's Springs, to-morrow.

THE CAPITOLIAN can be purchased by the transient public at the news depot of Mr. Chambers, on Third street, and at Heroman's "Blue Store" on Main street.

Put your foot down where you mean to stand, and let no man move you from the right. Learn to say "No," and it will be of more use to you than to be able to read Latin.

The body of the convict who was shot while attempting to escape last week was discovered floating in the river a few miles below here, a day or two ago, with a load of buckshot in his back.

The Helen D'Este Theatrical Troupe played last night for the benefit of the public schools of this place. This is a fine company, and draws good houses wherever it goes--so well and favorably is it known.

Considerable rain fell here Monday night and Tuesday morning, which laid the dust and brightened vegetation generally. The merchants and others have dusted their wares, preparatory to the pleasant spring days ahead.

Lawyers' briefs will be printed at this office at $1.00 per page. Attorneys, by having their briefs printed will have the services of efficient compositors, and may read their own proof-sheets, and they shall make no blunders if we can prevent it.

The City Council was in session Monday, presided over by the indefatigable mayor pro tem, John Wax. Reform seems to have been the watchword. The salary of Administrator of Police was fixed at $800 per annum, with $41 per month each for two assistants. Messrs. John Powers and Charles Schoenbrodt were elected assistant policemen.

Messrs. Pujol and Jalon sent us this week some specimens of Irish potatoes raised by them, with a note stating that they had one hundred bushels of the same kind. They were fine potatoes as we ever saw, and speak well for the enterprise of our friends, as well as the adaptability of our soil and climate to the production of vegetables.

We feel that we ought to apologize to our friends for the appearance of our paper last as well as this week. Having to perform the duties of both editor and publisher--the editor being absent as member of the Convention in New Orleans--is not an easy undertaking in the first place, but when an office is pressed with job printing that "must be done right off," you can imagine the confusion that naturally ensues. If the rush continues we will have to get another printer--that's all.

There will be a meeting of the ladies interested in the Confederate Memorial entertainment, at S. W. Robertson's law office, on North Boulevard street, between Church and Third, first door on the right hand, this evening at 5 o'clock. The ladies should remember this, as the time is fast approaching for the entertainment, and as the noble and patriotic ladies of Iberville have kindly consented to give their time and talent to the good cause, there should be presented a fete worthy of the name and well known hospitality of the old Capitol city.

The Clinton Patriot-Democrat says: It affords us pleasure to call attention to the new advertisement of the justly popular firm of David & Garig, of Baton Rouge, La., wholesale and retail grocers and commission merchants. These gentlemen are well and widely known, and to those who have never had any dealings with them, we take the liberty of vouching for them. They are energetic, prompt and liberal business men, and such as are satisfied with "small profits and quick sales." All orders forwarded to them by merchants and others will be immediately attended to. Don't fail to read their advertisement.

The Helen D'Este Dramatic Company have met with a warm reception from our citizens, this week. They have been playing at Pike's Hall to average large houses, and Miss D'Este has established herself as a Baton Rouge favorite. The plays presented have been new and attractive and the audiences have been delighted with every performance. This afternoon they will give a grand Matinee for the accommodation of ladies, children and the students of the University, presenting the splendid comedy of "Our Boys," and to-night they will close their engagement by presenting the roaring old English comedy of "Married Life." Matinee admission, 35 cents for adults, 25 cents for children.

In another column will be found an advertisement of the grand entertainments, to take place here on the 20th and 21st days of May. The entertainments consist of dramatic performances by the Plaquemine dramatic association, a club composed of the most respectable and talented ladies and gentlemen of the place. They volunteered their services in behalf of the Memorial Association of this place, whose object is to build a monument in memory of the fallen heroes of the last cause. To the lady members of this association especially are we indebted, for it is upon them the success of the worthy project mainly depends. But the ladies--God bless them--are always true and ever ready to lend their gentle influence to the promotion of noble ends. Ever since the war a monument to "Our Dead

Heroes" has been the fondest wish of all our patriotic citizens. But the weeks have woven themselves into months and the months into years, until fourteen annual decorations have been swept into the past and still the purpose is but partially accomplished. Will our people longer remain idle and indifferent? We answer no, for the ladies have taken hold and will bring the project to an early practicable completion. It is a work of love and reverence, and this stirs the heart and prompts the pure spirit of Southern wives and daughters. Let every effort be made to give our friends a crowded house each night that they may feel inclined to play. No patriotic citizen will miss the money expended in a cause so sacred and a purpose so glorious. Rally--one and all--to rally to the cherished stone in memory of "Our Dead Heroes" who sacrificed their lives for what they deemed to be just.

Shot and Killed.

Mr. Charles McDowell who lives some miles from town, came in and surrendered himself to the authorities on last Wednesday, alleging that he had shot a negro woman on his premises. It seems that during the day previous he was working in one of his fields with a negro man, who attempted to joke him by making light of his speed as a field hand. He told the negro to attend to his own business, and the negro, who was angry, declared that he would humbug him by a stranger. But when they headed him not, and continued to patronize the man who had the liberty and pluck to advertise in the local paper.

Old Fossil considered himself very wise, and would not deign to ask the advice of his townsmen, but in his great tribulation went to a large city near and sought the counsel of a sagacious and successful business man. He told him how his business from being a monopoly had dwindled to nothing, and he wept. "Do you advertise?" asked the city man.

"No," was the reply. "Does your rival advertise?" "Yes," answered old Fossil; "he has a whole column filled with humbug."

"Ah!" replied the wiser city man, "that explains it all. Never can you compete with your enterprising rival unless you advertise. Printers' ink is a power in business; it is one of its chief auxiliaries and success is a sequence of its liberal use."

Old Fossil thanked his city friend and returned home; but his Old foggy notions were deeply rooted and it was a long time before he could make up his mind to spend a few dollars a month for advertising. Finally reason assumed its sway and he concluded to try the virtue of printers' ink. He went to the Tornado office and contracted for an advertisement equal in size to his rival's. When the paper appeared great was the astonishment and many were the comments thereon. All agreed that old Fossil had made a new start and immediately his store presented somewhat of its former appearance. Soon the equilibrium of trade was established and Old Fossil was the happiest man in Slowburg. Printers' ink saved him and he always acknowledged it. Thereafter there was no man in that town who was a greater advocate of advertising than Old Fossil.

A VOICE FROM CADDO!

REMOVAL OF THE CAPITAL.

Listen at the Shreveport Standard on the subject of State Capital:

Mr. Elam, of Catahoula, has introduced into the Convention an ordinance establishing the seat of government at Baton Rouge. This question was submitted to the popular vote at the last election, as between Baton Rouge and New Orleans by more than 6,000 majority. A part of that majority was obtained in Caddo and the surrounding parishes. That there is no very formidable opposition to removal even in New Orleans is proved by the fact that the city vote on the question was very light and the majority for that city comparatively small. The New Orleans Times has recently declared in favor of removal, and from the silence of the other papers, we infer that they are also either in favor of it or else are careless on the subject.

The reasons for removal have been repeated so often, and are so obvious, that further repetition is unnecessary. There is a growing desire on the part of most thinking men to get Louisiana from under the influence of the rings and monopolies which infest the commercial metropolis. If any one doubts that there is something in the location of the government, let him compare the legislation which had its birth in New Orleans, since the removal of the seat of government to that city, with the legislation of the same number of years anterior to removal, and draw his own conclusions. The State owns beautiful grounds at Baton Rouge and a building which could be put in repair at comparatively moderate expense. Most of the other public buildings are already there, and it is not good policy to have them scattered in different parts of the State. As we have before said the vote of the people would be a sufficient warrant for the convention to establish the seat of government at Baton Rouge.

THE KELLOGG CASE RE-OPENED.

[Special Telegram to the N. O. Times.] WASHINGTON, D. C., May 7, 1879. The debate on the Spofford-Kellogg case was re-opened to-day by Senator Carpenter, who spoke with his usual readiness against the resolution of the elections committee.

He was followed by Senator Morgan, of Alabama, who made the speech of the day. Senator Morgan is becoming known as one of the ablest debaters in the senate, and he amply vindicated his right to that distinction in his speech. Mr. Edmunds, who interrupted him several times in regard to the law, was not able to catch him at any point. Senator Jones made a twenty minutes' speech, which was very attentively listened to. It was a clear, accurate and careful legal statement of the case from a conservative standpoint, and every one appreciated the lawyer-like manner in which the action of the Nicholls legislature was defended.

Mr. Blaine, who attempted to confuse Mr. Jones, failed in his object. The best speech on the Republican side was made by Kellogg himself, who stated his own case and argued the points better than it had ever been presented.

The vote on adoption of the resolution was yeas, 26; nays, 17. DICKENS, MISS, May 7.--In an altercation at Vaughan's station, this evening, about 7 o'clock, James W. Pickett shot and killed Ben C. Bell. The difficulty arose out of a fight that occurred several weeks ago, between Mr. Pickett, of the firm of Pickett & Bristor, and R. A. Bell, brother of R. C. Bell, in which R. A. Bell was badly cut by Bristor, and Bristor seriously shot by R. A. Bell. B. C. Bell was unarmed, when killed by Pickett.

SAVED!

BY THE USE OF PRINTER'S INK!

Many years ago, in the little old fashioned town of Slowburg there lived an old merchant by the name of Fossil, who monopolized all the business in his line, whereby he heaved many goodbacks. Behold! While he was in the height of his prosperity there came to Slowburg a stranger, whose name was Shrunde, who opened a store in opposition to him. Being a keen and far-seeing business man the stranger went straightway to the office of the local newspaper and advertised his wares liberally. When the Weekly Tornado appeared the people marvelled when they saw the great advertisement of the new merchant, and they said to one another, "This stranger is a man of business--see how he displays his goods. He boldly tells the people they are the best and cheapest."

And they flocked to his store and bought much, which well nigh depleted his stock. But he bought more and cheaper and increased his advertisement, and the people of Slowburg wondered and the editor of the Tornado smiled and invited his friends to join him.

Meanwhile the stock of Old Fossil remained on his shelves and moulded and was otherwise damaged. Never a customer came to his store, and he was sorely troubled, denounced the people and declared they allowed themselves to be humbugged by a stranger. But when they headed him not, and continued to patronize the man who had the liberty and pluck to advertise in the local paper.

Old Fossil considered himself very wise, and would not deign to ask the advice of his townsmen, but in his great tribulation went to a large city near and sought the counsel of a sagacious and successful business man. He told him how his business from being a monopoly had dwindled to nothing, and he wept. "Do you advertise?" asked the city man.

"No," was the reply. "Does your rival advertise?" "Yes," answered old Fossil; "he has a whole column filled with humbug."

"Ah!" replied the wiser city man, "that explains it all. Never can you compete with your enterprising rival unless you advertise. Printers' ink is a power in business; it is one of its chief auxiliaries and success is a sequence of its liberal use."

Old Fossil thanked his city friend and returned home; but his Old foggy notions were deeply rooted and it was a long time before he could make up his mind to spend a few dollars a month for advertising. Finally reason assumed its sway and he concluded to try the virtue of printers' ink. He went to the Tornado office and contracted for an advertisement equal in size to his rival's. When the paper appeared great was the astonishment and many were the comments thereon. All agreed that old Fossil had made a new start and immediately his store presented somewhat of its former appearance. Soon the equilibrium of trade was established and Old Fossil was the happiest man in Slowburg. Printers' ink saved him and he always acknowledged it. Thereafter there was no man in that town who was a greater advocate of advertising than Old Fossil.

WANTED.

Brave hearts who are willing to do what they can to exterminate the hydra-headed monster of Intemperance. Wanted--True hearts who are willing and ready by word and act to raise the fallen. Wanted--Stout hearts who will aid in the great battle for right, and not grow discouraged or weary by failure or defeat for the time being, but trusting that success will eventually crown their efforts. Wanted--Those strong in principles to lend a helping hand to the oppressed and down-trodden, and raise them to a higher, purer plan of existence. Wanted--Christians to work and pray for the suffering thousands who are victims of the rum curse, and who have the moral courage to use that most effective weapon--the ballot--to speed the answer to their prayers. Wanted--Workers who are willing to spend money and time in the cause, who will be indefatigable, and never yield an inch to the opposers, able in God's strength to resist temptation at whatever time or in whatever way it may be presented.

Wanted--One and all to rally round the temperance banner, and help in the mighty work of crushing the rum trade and hasten the victory.

On to the fight, the glorious fight, Against the poisonous drink; On in the great Jehovah's might, Nor from the conflict shrink. H. J. H.

Died.

In Baton Rouge, on Saturday, May 3d, 1869, at half-past 9 o'clock a. m., J. J. Lefevre, aged about 55 years--a native of Belgium, and for the past thirty-five years a resident of this place. Let New Orleans papers please copy.

The deceased was a good and true man--a faithful friend, a useful citizen and a zealous Catholic. His bereaved wife and children are not alone in their grief, for the whole community were his friends, and deeply mourn his loss. His remains were buried with the usual ceremonies of the church of his choice, escorted to the grave by a large funeral cortege. May his ashes rest in peace.

Important to Taxpayers.

TAX COLLECTOR'S OFFICE, BATON ROUGE, April 10th, 1879. The attention of retail merchants, liquor dealers and license payers generally, is called to the following sections of the Revenue Law, approved February 8th, 1879:

Section 1. From the proprietors of all coffee-houses, bar-rooms, cigar-shops, beer saloons, or gardens, or calorats, eighty-five dollars; from the proprietors of bars kept on steamboats or other vessels or water craft, fifty dollars; all retail dealers selling liquors, wines or bitters (not including bottled malt liquors) in less quantity than an ordinary wine bottle, shall be considered a coffee-house keeper, whether the liquors be drunk on the premises or not, and shall pay, in addition to the grocery license, a coffee-house license; that retail dealers or grocers selling distilled liquors, wines, bitters, ale or beer, in less quantity than one gallon, but in no less quantity than an ordinary wine bottle, shall be considered a coffee-house keeper, and pay an additional license of fifteen dollars each; provided, the liquor so sold shall not be drunk on the premises--if drunk on the premises he shall be considered a coffee-house keeper; and each retail grocer or dealer in distilled liquors in the State of Louisiana, without such additional license, and who shall keep for sale, or sell, or offer by himself or by any employee, distilled liquors in less quantity than as provided for in this act, shall be liable to a fine of one hundred dollars for each and every offense, to be recovered, by motion, by any person, after five days' previous notice before any court of competent jurisdiction, which, when recovered, shall be paid by such justice to the State Treasurer, for the benefit of the Charity Hospital fund; provided, that nothing in this paragraph shall be held to apply to hotels, taverns or restaurants, where liquor is sold to be drunk, in good faith, on the premises by persons eating therein.

Section 2. Be it further enacted, etc., That from and after the passage of this act, it shall not be lawful for any person or corporation to carry on or pursue, practice or follow any of the trades, professions or occupations enumerated in the foregoing sections of this act, in the State, before paying the tax levied thereon and obtaining a license therefor, if not already licensed, from the collector of the State taxes; and no person or corporation carrying on a profession, business or occupation subject to the payment of a license, as herein provided, shall be allowed to collect any claims for services rendered in such professions, business or occupation, unless he, she or it can, upon demand exhibit the tax collector's receipt for such license, according to law; and a failure to exhibit such license receipt, by any person or corporation liable to such license, shall, in any suit instituted by him, her, or it, entitle the party defendant in such suit to a non-suit; and any person, firm or corporation attempting to do business without a license, shall, on written notice, given by the collector to the Attorney General, or district attorney, or district attorney pro tem., be enjoined, in the name of the State, from proceeding further in the transaction of their respective business or vocation, until such license shall have been paid.

Section 3. Be it further enacted, etc., That in all cases of neglect or refusal to pay their license or tax on personal property of any description, by any person, firm, company or corporation doing business in this State, the tax collector shall give twenty days' written or printed notice to such delinquent taxpayer to pay such license or tax on personal property, and if at the expiration of said notice the license and tax be not fully settled, the tax collector shall proceed to seize and sell, after ten days' advertisement, the property, rights and credits of such delinquent taxpayer, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the claims of the State, as aforesaid, together with all legal costs. Section 4. Be it further enacted, etc., That it shall be lawful for the tax collector, when he has good reasons to believe that the State will lose the license or tax on personal property by waiting for the expiration of the notice herein required, to proceed by summary seizure of the property, and after description of such delinquents, and after ten days' advertisement sell the same to satisfy the amount of said tax or license with costs and penalties.

Section 5. Be it further enacted, etc., That it shall be the duty of the tax collectors throughout the State, whenever they effect their quarterly or final settlements, to render to the Auditor of public accounts a full and complete list of the names, trades, professions or occupations carried on by any person or persons, distinguishing between those who have paid and those who have not paid their licenses; said list to be sworn to before any one authorized to administer oaths, and to be subject to public inspection at all times.

The requirements of the above sections will be strictly carried out.

LOUISIANA CAPITOLIAN

Book and Job Printing Office, BATON ROUGE, LA.

Your attention is earnestly and respectfully called to our new facilities for JOB PRINTING--it matters not what may be the style or quality of work desired. Home enterprise sustains home interests, and preserves the financial equilibrium of a community. In view of this important fact, we have supplied ourselves with the necessary material and seriously announce that we are determined, with the aid of the people, to uphold our part of this local obligation. Our prices are the same as those of New Orleans; therefore there can be no excuse for sending Job Work away from home. The old complaint of "unreasonable prices and inferior workmanship" can no longer be urged, for, with experienced printers, the latest styles of type and a handsome assortment of stationery on hand, we are prepared to do Job Work with dispatch and in a satisfactory manner.

DR. BROOKS' Anti-Malarial Tonic and Chill and Fever Cure,

For the Immediate Relief and Permanent Cure of CHILLS and FEVER, INTERMITTENT FEVER, MALARIAL NEURALGIA,

AND ALL OTHER ABNORMAL CONDITIONS PRODUCED BY MALARIAL POISONS.

I place before the public a preparation which is of the highest standard of excellence, second to none, for the class of diseases for which it is intended. I claim it to be a specific for this class of diseases, having submitted it to a rigid test, extending over a period of several years, in treating the most obstinate cases which have come under my observation with it successfully.

IT IS PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION, contains no Arsenic or Iron, but combines with the Muriate Tincture of Iron and the Soluble Salts of Iron--making it a valuable tonic in all conditions where Iron is indicated. It may be administered to the most delicate children with impunity. Large numbers of testimonials could be produced as to its efficacy, but I deem it best that it should recommend itself.

One bottle will satisfy any fair-minded person that it is worth five times its cost. Address: F. M. BROOKS, M. D., Proprietor and Manufacturer.

BATON ROUGE, LA., January 1st, 1879. My Agents are hereby authorized to refund the money in any case of "Chills and Fever," where DR. BROOKS' CHILL AND FEVER CURE has been used in strict accordance with the printed directions on the bottle and failed to give relief. feb23
