D. M. Foster, Jr., who has been bookkeeper and assistant manager of the Pelican rice mill the past two seasons, has severed his connection with the mill to accept a position as bookkeeper in the Calcasieu National bank of Lake Charles.

J. W. Cheney and wife and Mrs. M. E. Jester, of Stella, Neb., are among the late arrivals from the north. Mr. Cheney is a printer, and will be remembered by a number of Jennings people. He made up and printed the first newspaper ever issued in Jennings, the first number of the Reporter, published by Wm. Cary nearly twelve years ago. He will go to Crowley to take charge of the mechanical department of the News printing office for the newly organized company.

Died.
Robert Denton Huff, aged 3 years and one month, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Huff, passed away to join the heavenly throng last night. The bright young boy had been sick for about a week with fever and a bad cold, which developed into membranous croup.

A short funeral service was conducted at the residence this morning by Rev. W. Lumpkin, after which the remains were conveyed to White Chapel, St. Landry parish, at which place it will be interred. Mr. and Mrs. Huff accompanied the body. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of their large circle of friends in this hour of their sad affliction.

Big Brick Shipment
D. C. Brown received today eight car loads of brick, four carloads of which are already sold. It is Mr. Brown's intention to carry in stock a good quantity of brick as well as other building material.

WOMAN'S LITERARY CLUB.

The Annual Reception Held at the Residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wellington.

The Woman's Literary Club held its annual reception at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wellington, Wednesday last. Although the weather was unfavorable, and many of the members stayed at home, the braver ones, intent on having a good time, made their appearance, each wearing some emblem of a favorite pastime of their childhood. It was feared that the program would be cut very short owing to the absence of so many who had been expected to help with the entertainment, but the following persons were listened to with interest. Mr. Gavin Morton rendered "Queen of the Earth" in a very pleasing manner, and for an encore sang "Simon the Cellarer." He was followed by Mr. Ritchie who read a humorous Scotch selection, "The Goose With One Leg." Mr. Wellington read his latest poetical effusion in which he goes into detail describing the many virtues of a woman's club. He was loudly applauded, and the ladies were so pleased with his poem that they requested him to publish it.

Mrs. Arthur then read us some selections from a school girls diary dated in the spring of 1880, and the reading brought back memories of by-gone days very vividly to all present. Mrs. Arthur's imagination is a never failing source of amusement to all her club friends, and she is good natured enough to do what she is asked to do in the line of prose writing, while Duke Wellington measures out the rhymes. Mr. Morton concluded the program by singing "The Diver," after which the amusement commenced.

Most of those present had brought their profiles—cut out of white paper and these were held up to view, one by one for all to try to recognize. Mrs. Wellington succeeded in guessing the largest number and received for a prize a beautiful cup and saucer. The booby prize, a fine black rubber doll, was awarded to Mr. Mouton. The next was a planting contest, and Mr. Wellington won the first prize, a pretty candlestick, while Mr. Herman Jaenke proudly carried off the booby prize, which was a copy of "Jack the Giant-Killer."

Partners for supper were secured by matching slippers on cards, each prince searching for the mate to Cinderella's famous foot-gear. There was an abundance of things eatable, and while they were disappearing the party indulged in the usual social time. At a suggestion of ending with a spelling match, the club president discovered that it was time to go home, so the party all wished their host and hostess good night, and assured them that the evening had been very enjoyable.

A Good Habit

The habit of buying of Hebert & Andrus, the Southside general merchants, is a good habit to get into. They sell everything usually kept in a first-class general store, and on account of their large trade they are constantly receiving new goods, which you will always find fresh and clean. Since doubling the size of their building they have received a new stock of UP-TO-DATE Dry Goods, Ladies' and Gents' Furnishings, Shoes and Notions. Our GROCERY and PROVISION DEPARTMENT is filled with good things to eat.
