DO YOU STILL
DOUBT?

DO YOU STILL DOUBT the existence of a paying oil field when you behold the cut from actual photograph taken while this well was exhibited before thousands of spectators, and the official certificate of a Notary Public at Jennings, La.?

CAN YOU DOUBT the extent of this field when each and every well in that territory, which was drilled to a sufficient depth, has brought forth a gusher?

WILL YOU DISBELIEVE the superiority of the Jennings Oil Field in the face of a chemical analysis showing 75 per cent in this field as against 25 per cent at Beaumont, Tex., as an illuminating oil and a greater percentage in favor of its quality as a lubricant, being almost entirely free from foreign matters, supposed to be detrimental for refining purposes?

A 300 pound pressure gauge has been found inadequate to test the pressure at the surface and a 5000-pound pressure gauge is now being constructed to test its pressure.

The base of this oil being para-phine enhances its value from 25 to 50 per cent over any oils having an asphaltine base.

The well represented on the title page has a capacity of 70,000 barrels, which is being marked at 35 cents per barrel, the present market price, which is a profit of nearly four thousand per cent on the entire capital stock of the Middle States Oil & Transportation company.

A pipe line from the field to railroad and water route is already in use, and another eight inch pipe line is under construction, right of way having been secured, survey has been made and excavation commenced. The line is to the railroad and Mississippi river, which is a deep water way to the Gulf.

In view of these facts, a water route within three-fourths of a mile and adequate railroad facilities giving us nearby markets and with constantly increasing demands our profit sharing possibilities cannot be measured.

Poor men are growing rich and the rich men are growing richer. Lands are enhancing in value every day as developments in this field are carried on. The holdings of this Company are so extensive that the increased valuation of our holdings alone insures large dividends to our stock holders.

This Company's holdings consist of about 1,200 acres of well selected oil lands in Acadia and Calcasieu parishes, all of which show good surface indications. Twenty acres is located in the proven field, all comprising the choicest selections and most promising location as selected by expert oil men who have themselves become interested in the development of this field and are identified with this Company.

The Company has made all necessary arrangements to commence sinking a well on the twenty acre tract mentioned.

IS THERE DANGER OF OVER PRODUCTION?
The fuel users of the entire world are eagerly watching the oil developments of the southwest with the hope that a sufficient territory will be developed to insure an abundant supply to warrant the change of furnaces from the fuel now used to oil, which is the cheapest, cleanest and best fuel known. The greater its production, the greater will be the demand and hence a better price. It has not been many years since coal and coke were valuable because fuel users were not satisfied of an abundant supply. The same will be true relative to oil, last but not least.

HOW WILL IT HANDLE ITS PRODUCT?
Through its own storage tanks, pipe line, tank cars and selling agents, thus obtaining the greatest value by selling to the consumer direct.

QUICK RETURNS.
This Company now has one well drilling in the Jennings fields, and many more to start soon.

The management expects to be able to say to the stockholders, within 60 or 80 days at the farthest, that their stock has doubled if not trebled in value from the completion of the one well now drilling. If only a small portion of the Company's holdings, prove rich in oil, the stock will readily bring ten for one.

For the purpose of developing our large holdings we have set aside ten blocks of a thousand dollars each or ten thousand dollars of our stock which we offer for a short time at a strictly ground floor price. Write to the secretary for further information.
All stock fully paid and non-assessable.

We refer to any bank or public official in Jennings or Lake Charles and will be pleased to furnish special references upon application.

Short Talks On Advertising
By Charles Austin Bates

No. 43.
Farming is generally looked upon as a very simple occupation. A farmer is considered an independent individual, because his business is safe and pleasant.
Probably the most enviable feature is its safety. Farmers are nearly sure of making something. They make more some years than others, but on the whole it is a safe business. Just the same, we hear of farmers failing and of the foreclosure of farm mortgages. This is because the farmer didn't attend to his business properly.

Advertising is just as safe, and a great deal more profitable, than farming, but there are people who fail at it.
A farmer has first to look for a rich and fertile field—so has the advertiser. The field must then be cultivated and the seed planted—so must advertising be planted.
The farmer must take care of his crop, keep the weeds down, keep the ground properly fertilized and irrigated, and the advertiser must perform corresponding offices for his advertisements.

If he plants an ad in a poor paper, where the soil is not good, he cannot expect to get much of a crop of returns. If he plants it in a good paper and allows it to run to seed he cannot expect very much.

If the farmer and the advertiser will both select good soil, put good seed into it, and take care of the sprouts, the harvest is sure to be satisfactory in both cases.

Just the same, we hear of foreclosures of farm mortgages.
