

CHARITON COURIER,

VANDIVER & COLLINS, PROP'S, KEYTESVILLE, MISSOURI.

"Sally, what time do your folks dine?" "Soon as you go away—that's Missus's orders."

While riding a race at Buffalo, Mo. on the 13th, inst., Charles Durigna was thrown from a horse and fatally injured.

The Howard County Advertiser denies the rumor that Hon. John Walker, state auditor, is a candidate for governor.

It is given out from Washington that Mr. Manning will soon step down and out of the president's cabinet, necessitated to do so by his continued failing health.

Mrs. F. W. Ingham, 473 W. Madison street, Chicago, Ill. recommends Red Star Cough Cure, a few doses of which gave her entire relief from a violent cold. Price, 25 cents.

The mother of Col. Norman J. Coleman, commissioner of agriculture, and former editor of Coleman's Rural World, died at Richfield Springs, N. Y., on the 9th, inst., aged 81 years.

The contract system of letting the poor farm in Buchanan county, has been abolished. Hereafter the necessary labor will be paid for. This, a result of a recent investigation which showed the brutal management of the institution when under contract.

Mr. A. Fueger, 606 Walnut street, St. Louis, Mo., suffered for two years with lumbago, and was confined to his bed for several months. He was entirely cured by the use of St. Jacobs Oil which he says is also the best cure for sprains and all other pains.

On the 22th, inst., one Col. Alex. Moody, Livingston, Ala., was burned to death in his dwelling. He got drunk and went home to sleep off his debauch. About midnight his house by some means took fire and the poor man was burned alive. Another temperance lecture.

Mr. J. E. Bonnal, New Bloomfield, Pa., clerk of the several courts of Perry Co., Pa., was afflicted with rheumatism for more than thirty years. After spending hundreds of dollars with different physicians, and trying every known remedy without benefit, he used St. Jacobs Oil, which affected an entire cure.

The papers of late have been reporting an unusual number of brutal assaults upon unprotected females, and in almost every instance the heathen perpetrators have been hung without crime or jury. For such heinous crimes outraged communities say the state shall not be compelled to pay a long bill of costs for criminal prosecutions.

The following shows how the Mexico Ledger tells that somebody has been stealing wood:

"A cooking stove in this city was blown all to pieces this morning and the lady of the house had to have a surgeon to mend her hand. We are informed that the rest of the wood from where that came which blew up the stove is loaded the same way."

The Greenbackers, of Macon county, met in convention on the 15th, inst., and nominated a county ticket. Among the candidates we notice John M. London for recorder. John spent his boyhood days in Chariton county, and during Republican times was clerk of the circuit court of Macon county. Subsequently he turned Greenbacker, and is now doing long his grip on office.

Judge G. D. Burgess, of Linneus, has been re-nominated by acclamation by the Democrats of the Eleventh Judicial Circuit. He is universally recognized as one of the best jurists now on the bench in Missouri, and has been elected to his present office three times in succession, although the district is strongly Republican. There is little doubt of his re-election. —Fayette Advertiser.

The official figures compiled by the Attorney General, of Kansas, contradicts the often repeated statement that prohibition amounts to nothing in that state. In forty-five counties of the state there is not a single open saloon. In regard to what has been said in reference to the drug stores being turned into saloons, the figures show their numbers have increased only 25 per cent. since prohibition was inaugurated. There is no attempt made to enforce the law in Leavenworth county, which has a population of 44,000 and in which there is $54,000 worth of liquor sold every month by the 180 saloons in the county. While in 37 other counties from which statistics have been gathered and which have an aggregate population of 500,000 and no saloons the amount sold is much less. The statistics further show that 79 per cent. of those charged with violating the liquor law are convicted, and among these 500,000 people 239 convictions have been had for a violation of this law, and for all other crimes during the same period there have been 237 convictions. There have been, says the Attorney General, more convictions for a violation of the liquor law than of all the other laws.

THE WAY TO PODDER'S.

A young professor in an Illinois university was engaged to be married to the daughter of a wealthy farmer living in one of the eastern counties of this state. On the day of the wedding the bridegroom was driving in a buggy through a county road in the direction of his prospective father-in-law's house. Not being familiar with the neighborhood he stopped in front of a dilapidated log cabin and inquired of a lank man who was leaning against a rail fence:

"Is this the way to Mr. Podder's?" The lank man hitched up his trousers and said:

"Be you goin' to Podder's?" "Yes."

"That's where the dogs is to night. His darter's goin' to be hitched."

"Yes."

"Who's she gone to git?" "A man by the name of Thompkins, I believe," said the blushing bridegroom.

"Is he any good?" "Pretty poor stick, I've been told."

"Has he got any style?" "Not much."

"Well," said the man, with a sigh of relief, "I'm glad he's such a poor shoot for my gals has got an invite to the weddin', an' I heard that nobody could go that couldn't eat with their forks. My gals can't eat with their forks, but I reckon I'll let 'em go. Podder's is two miles straight ahead." —Chicago News.

Indeed, it is impossible to please everybody, should you try every so hard.

The truth of it is felt by the newspaper man, and especially by him of a trade paper.

If you print your journal in large type, the people say you are at your wits' end, and don't know where to get reading matter while if you use small type, they say that there is so much in the paper, that they do not know whether to begin reading or not.

If you publish a great many suggestions and hints, you are called tedious; and if you look to chronicling affairs and happenings of the day, you are trifling and flippant.

If you give selections, your subscribers will complain that they are treated to second hand stuff; and should you confine yourself to original articles, they will be sure to say that there is the spice of variety lacking in your journal.

If you speak of anybody or anything, people will declare that you have been bribed to do it; and if you never give a complimentary notice, you will be voted a nulloish, good-for-nothing blockhead.

If you add to your paper, critics declare that you are playing at a game of bluffing; and if you keep going your easy way, you are denounced as saingly and uncommercial.

If you stick to your duties, people call you haughty and proud; and if you mingle with the crowd, the verdict will be that you do not attend to business properly.

In view of all this, To please everybody is impossible. —American Lithographer.

Two weeks since we mentioned that we did not hear the temperance lecture of Ben Deering at Brunswick, but were told by those we considered competent judges that it was a masterly effort. Since then we have seen a copy of the Brunswicker, wherein, brother Kinley dissents from the views expressed by Mr. Deering. He especially objects to the abusive epithets used by the speaker, and applied to those who differed from him upon the great temperance question. Mr. Kinley to the legal aspects of the subject, as shown by the speaker, says "he did not state the law as it is, nor the statutes as they are." This is unfortunate, but our information is that Mr. Deering is a lawyer also, and it may be that upon the points raised there is a difference of opinion between the speaker and Mr. Kinley, and that lawyers as well as doctors sometimes disagree.

We are not much given to the abuse of persons who differ from us on questions of great or smaller import, but then the time has come in the discussion of important topics that things must be called by their right name. Then we notice that when a whisky man gets after these temperance fellows they are not very choice in the selection of soft words to express their disapproval of them and their course. They know how to say "hypocrisy and kindred words as slipshod as the temperance lecturer can say Whisky-soaked and "rum guzzlers," etc. We are glad to learn, however, that Bro. Kinley is willing to compare temperance records with the speaker. Isaac was raised in the temperance school and we opine his honored sire decries the hardiest truths that Ben Deering or Ben anybody else ever uttered in regard to the whisky traffic.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery.

Capt. Coleman, schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and N. Y., had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It did give him instant relief, but at the same time it was so sore in his breast. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now in standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner.

Food makes Blood and Blood makes Beauty. Improper digestion of food necessarily produces bad blood, resulting in a feeling of fullness in the stomach, acidity, heartburn, sick-headache, and other dyspeptic symptoms. A closely constricted life causes indigestion, constipation, biliousness and loss of appetite. To remove these troubles there is no remedy equal to Prickly Ash Bitters. It has been tried and proven to be a specific. 25-32
