A man by the name of Willard, living near Carrollton, while plowing the other day became enraged at one of his horses and picking up a stick struck it over the head. The animal dropped dead in its tracks.

The Keytesville colored people had a grand time at a "festival" Saturday night, given for the benefit of Keytesville's dusky cornet band.

The colored band, of Salisbury, was over and participated in the pleasures of the occasion.

Albert Pickard, a farmer of Macon county, became offended at one of his neighbors some time ago. One night last week while his offending neighbor was asleep, Pickard quietly stole into his orchard and peeled the bark off of twenty or more fine young apple trees. He was afterward arrested and gave bond for his appearance at the next term of circuit court. A whipping post would be entirely justifiable in Pickard's case.

Samuel Fanning, an industrious and prosperous citizen of St. Charles county, on Saturday evening of last week, went with several of his little grandchildren to a creek near his residence to fish. While thus engaged one of the smaller children fell in the water and fell to the water when Mr. Fanning immediately sprang to his assistance, and both were drowned before help could reach them.

We are heartily glad that the proposition to macadamize Bridge street carried Tuesday. It is another step in the direction of progress. A Building and Loan association, a nicely remodeled opera house and a two thirds vote of our citizens to macadamize the principal street of the town are evidences that speak for themselves. Keytesville is on the up grade and no mistake. Another large mercantile company is also nearly in sight. Put your shoulder to the wheel and do what you can to push the town farther along the road to prosperity.

A. F. Tooley, our genial county treasurer, and E. B. Kellogg, of Keytesville, and C. C. Hammond, of Brunswick, went to St. Louis on Wednesday night of last week. They spent Thursday in the city, where they were joined by J. W. Davis, of Brunswick, who was returning home by way of Chicago and St. Louis from a visit to his brother, Will, at Salida, Colo. Friday the party went out to St. Charles, where they greeted and boarded the steamer, City of Brunswick, with her crew of four men, that had been plying the waters of the "Big Muddy" at St. Charles for the past few weeks. The novelty of the trip was the ride up the Missouri river from St. Charles to Brunswick. They left St. Charles Friday afternoon at 7:30 o'clock. Friday night was spent at Washington, Mo., and Saturday night at Jefferson City, where Kellogg was given an opportunity on Sunday morning to bask in the sunny smiles of his best girl, while the rest of the party either went to Sunday-school or were put in the penitentiary for safe-keeping to await Kellogg's pleasure, who finally "showed up." The gang plan was pulled in and the boat again started on her journey. Sunday night found them at the quaint old town of Rocheport, Boone county, where a part of the night was spent. The boat was again launched at 3:30 o'clock Monday morning and sped on up the river, stopping at one or two other points for fuel and—Tooley says they also stopped for—water. At Glasgow Mrs. E. M. Williams and Miss Karlen Coleman, of Salisbury, were taken aboard and went up to Brunswick. The boys report a high time on the trip. Their eyes feasted on the beauties of nature and the gorgeous scenery along the banks of the river. They had plenty to eat and plenty of water to drink. Tooley declares that he never had a bigger time and that he would not have missed the trip for $50 and a watermelon. Knowing something of his appreciation of the latter article, especially, we can faintly imagine the "hugeness" of the time he must have had. The only thing to mar the pleasures of the trip in the least was caused by Jim Davis getting a hole in his year's hat, and singing his "pompadour."

Notice is hereby given that at the next meeting of Walker school house sub-union, which meets on the first (1st) Saturday in June at 3 o'clock, officers for one year are to be elected; also two delegates to the county union at Keytesville in July. Brethren must remember that the semi-annual dues are due at this meeting and should come prepared to pay the same. A good attendance is expected.

G. W. CHAPMAN, Pres. C. B. SHOEMAKER, Sec. May 28th, 1891.

Somebody New. Mr. C. Cash and his agents are canvassing Chariton county for one of the best inventions of the age. A broom-head with which anyone can make their own brooms without any wire, twine or machinery. It is light, yet durable. It will last a life time. Nothing about it to get out of repair, and makes a far superior broom.

The merchant who does not advertise is now kept busy fighting flies. Jas. K. Smith, of Sumner, was shaking hands with his numerous friends at the capital Saturday.

Miss Kate Dewey returned Tuesday from a trip to Buffalo, N. Y., and a visit to relatives in St. Louis.

G. M. Smith, of Cockrell township, has been appointed executor of his father's, Alexander Smith's, estate.

Mrs. R. M. Scott was called to Salisbury yesterday morning by a telegram announcing the dangerous illness of her niece, Mrs. J. E. Dismukes.

The Courier has enrolled thirty new subscribers so far during May, and still has three days to go on. We still have room, however, for a few thousand more subscribers.

The Sunday school picnic and fish fry last Saturday was not as largely attended as it would have been had the weather been favorable, but those who attended report a highly enjoyable time.

James McNerry, a prominent farmer of Saline county, was struck and instantly killed by a west-bound passenger train on the Chicago and Alton railroad at Marshall on Friday evening of last week. He was under the influence of liquor at the time. Don't drink. But if you will drink keep off the railroad track.

Miss Eva Marshall, the 16-year-old daughter of a well-to-do miner at Boyer, Macon county, disappeared from the residence of J. D. Hignight, of Brunswick, one day last week. She was traced to Dalton, where she boarded a east-bound train for St. Louis, since which time she has not been heard from.

A sad result of a jolly good time occurred at Fayette one night last week. John Skillman, a young mechanic of that place, joined a lot of other young men in a drunken revel which was continued until late at night, when the crowd dispersed. Skillman's dead body was found on a vacant lot the next morning and was turned over to the coroner. His death was caused by alcoholism.

Walter Malone, of Randolph county, sold a span of fine mares recently to G. S. Tut, of Howard county, for $500 and a few days afterwards sold another mare to the same party for $250. Good horses in Missouri are in demand. It always pays to raise such animals.

The good people of Miami are preparing to have a grand time on the 4th of July. A special feature of the occasion will be a re-union of citizens of Miami and ex-Miamians. The people of Saline know how to get up such things, and will no doubt make it an entire success.

"Uncle Hack" Hawkins has returned from St. Louis whither he went to consult an oculist concerning an operation for cataract of the eyes. The oculist gave him no hopes of receiving any benefit from such an operation, so it was not performed.

Miss Dollie Davis, of near Brunswick, has been employed again to teach the Taylor school, three miles southwest of town, at the coming fall and winter term. Miss Dollie taught this same school last winter with decided credit to herself and entire satisfaction to the patrons of the school.

Clarence Ridge, a prominent farmer of Lafayette county, was shot and mortally wounded at Higginsville on Saturday last week by Wm. Atkins. Ridge leaves a wife and three small children. The slayer mounted his horse and left, evading the officers, who are in hot pursuit.

A young lady at Carrollton recently advertised for a husband in one of the local papers in this plan, matter-of-fact way: "I am twenty, good, pretty and industrious, and would like to make a home happy and cheerful for some nice young man." Here is a chance for some of the tractable bachelors of Keytesville.

S. S. Edwards, a photographer of Mexico, went to the village of Florida, Monroe county, one day last week and took a picture of the old house in which Mark Twain was born. He was none too soon as the old shanty will in the near future be taken down and shipped to Chicago and put on exhibition at the world's fair.

MARRIED.—At Schell's restaurant, in this city, Wednesday, May 20th, Mr. Geo. T. Hecke and Miss Alice V. Anderson. The marriage ceremony was performed by Squire Ewing, and although it was his first experience in sealing marital vows, he tied the nuptial knot both impressively and gracefully. The contracting parties were both from Brunswick township.

The youngest traveling salesman in Missouri is J. J. Kiennan, a representative of the Cooper Pharmacy company, of St. Louis. He is only 14 years old and has been on the road for a year or more, and is represented as the "outest thing" traveling. His employers sent him out at first as a joke but he was so eminently successful on that trip that they put him on a salary and he has been traveling ever since.

Dr. R. T. Fowler and Bert Warshaw Sanderson in Kansas City. M. R. Williams, of Salisbury, and R. B. Caples, of Glasgow, were in Keytesville yesterday.

The M. E. Church, South, will hold its second Sunday-school convention of the North Missouri conference at Moberly on the 16th of June.

An unknown man at Higbee, Randolph county, one day last week tied his hands together, jumped into a deep pond and was drowned. He has not yet been identified. No cause is known for his rash act.

Another instance of not knowing the gun was loaded occurred at Excelsior Springs on Thursday morning of last week. Vesta Rosell, aged 10 years, was shot and fatally wounded by her 12-year-old brother.

Thomas W. Ragdale, an enterprising stockman of Monroe county, sold eighteen head of thoroughbred Short-Horn bulls one day last week at $50 a head. The herd was shipped to the Panhandle of Texas, and was the second lot shipped by Mr. Ragdale to that section this season.

A representative of an extensive tobacco firm at St. Louis was at Roanoke one day last week and purchased 200 hogs-heads of tobacco from Dr. Harvey, at that place, paying six cents a pound for it. Dr. Harvey had kept the weed on hand for several years and it was said to be a fine article and in splendid condition.
