BORNER COUNTY NOTES.

CARROLL.

Mr and Mrs J N Braden also Mr. and Mrs. Warren B. Mirick of Carrollton celebrated their golden weddings one day las. week.

Hale has a street commissioner who keeps the street crossings cleaned off in sloppy weather. About the only thing that street commissioners in most small towns usually do is to draw pay for doing nothing.

Thomas Finch, a member of company A, Fourth Missouri regiment of volunteers, died of quick consumption at Lima the latter part of last week. Finch came home on a sick leave about a month previous to his death.

A government photographer was at DeWitt taking views of the dyke and bank-head near that place last week. The fellow weighed over 400 pounds and many of the people of DeWitt would have been glad had he left them a few photographs of himself. They also rejoice that he didn't sit down on anybody while he was there.

A couple of Carrollton men, who were about to engage in physical combat the other day, both had their hats blown off by the wind, and at once gave chase to their suddenly removed head-gear. They got so much madder at the high wind than they were at each other that they pawed the air instead of pounding each other. "It's an ill-wind that blows nobody good."

Dan'l Greenstreet was shot in the hip by Henry Burke, the marshal at Wakenda, Tuesday evening, November 8th. Eugene Neet was driving through the street, and the marshal undertook to arrest him. The officer drew a pistol as he commanded Neet to throw up his hands. Neet stopped and evinced no inclination to object to his arrest. Greenstreet, however, interferred to prevent Neet's arrest, and the marshal shot Greenstreet in the hip as stated above.

James Bertholan, a man who was on his way to California, fell from a Santa Fe train in the eastern suburbs of Carrollton while passing from one car to another, and narrowly escaped meeting instant death, as the train was making good time when the accident to Mr. Bertholan occurred. He received several scalp wounds and also had a shoulder dislocated. He was taken to the Florence hotel in Carrollton where his wounds were dressed and his shoulder reset. Fortunately Mr. Bertholan carried an accident policy, hence his injuries were fully covered by insurance.

Notwithstanding the exceedingly "prosperous times" about which it has been prating so glibly, the Carrollton Republican Record puts up a pitiful plea for its delinquent subscribers to pay up, and actually says it is needing money badly. If times were as prosperous as Republican papers claim, it would not be necessary for them to den their delinquent subscribers, for they would run over one another in their efforts to get to the office to pay their subscription. The truth is, that most Republican editors who are continually blowing about "prosperity," are eking out a financially short existence.

At the election in Carroll county last week the Republicans carried the county by majorities ranging from 14 to 65 for state and district offices and also elected 7 out of the 13 candidates on the county ticket. The lucky Democrats were Russell Kneisley for representative; J. D. Penniston, judge of the county court—western district; J. W. Austin, public administrator; Stanton Lewis, sheriff; Frank Tull, treasurer, and R. E. Cook, coroner, their majorities ranging from 55 for Kneisley to 253 for Penniston. The Republicans elected the following county officials: Wm. H. Thomas and Robt. Simpson, presiding judge and judge of the county court for the eastern district, respectively; Willis H. Booth, probate judge; Lewis Blakeley, recorder; J. W. Higginbotham, circuit clerk; Albert J. Lee, county clerk, and Elijah W. Kimble, prosecuting attorney, the majorities ranging from 16 for Blakeley to 327 for Higginbotham. Judge Rucker lost the county for congress by 65, and Col. John P. Butler lost it for circuit judge by 17 majority.

MARRIAGES.

Andrew Schies and Miss Tessie Pflieger of Carroll county.

HOWARD.

The ladies of Glasgow had a chrysanthemum show last Friday and Saturday.

Henry Flaspohler and wife of near Glasgow are in high feather over the recent arrival of a nice girl baby at their house.

There were no fights in Howard county, so far as reported, on election day and as a consequence "the mother of counties" is impressed with the idea that the morals of her citizens are improving.

The football game, played by the Central college and Missouri Valley college football teams at Marshall Monday of last week, resulted in a victory for the Missouri Valley college eleven by a score of 34 to 6. Russ Tolson of the Fayette forces had his collar-bone broken in the game.

The entire state district and county Democratic tickets carried the day in Howard county the 8th inst. by a plurality of between 2,100 and 2,200. The following county officers were elected: A. L. Kirby, representative; judges county court, Hamp. B. Watts, Sam'l H. Hitt and Hardin Duren; probate judge, J. T. Smith; circuit clerk, John K. Hairston; county clerk, Wm. M. Pryor; prosecuting attorney, James H. Denny; collector, W. W. Whyte; Sheriff, George D. Gibson; treasurer, A. J. Fort; coroner, Denny Smith.

James Avery had a horse stolen from a hitch-rack in Glasgow the morning of the 6th inst. The horse and thief were found at Fayette by Billy Pfiaicus, a brother-in-law of Avery's, and the timely discovery made by Pfiaicus brought about the recovery of the horse and the capture of the thief, who proved to be Strother Maupin, a former Howard countian, but now a resident of Kansas City. The opinion prevails, since Maupin's arrest for stealing Avery's horse, that he is the same party who stole a horse from Sam Pryor at Glasgow several weeks ago.

We see by the Glasgow Globe that John Redd, Jr., of Keytesville, who has been working at Glasgow, while attempting to board the Glasgow branch Wabash train at that place had a close call for his life. It seems that Redd reached the depot just after the train had started, and ran to catch it. A man on the rear platform of the train took hold of Redd's hand to help him on board, but was unable to do so. The fellow held onto Redd's hand for some distance, however, dragging him along the railroad track, bruising and lacerating the calf of one of his legs. The wounds were dressed by Dr. Pritchett, the Wabash surgeon at Glasgow, and John was able to be in Keytesville to vote, Tuesday of last week.

The appeal case of Dore Rose for selling Charles Wells in Glasgow the night of the general election in 1896 has been dismissed by the supreme court, Gov. Stephens having pardoned Rose. At the time he killed Wells, Rose was serving as deputy marshal at Glasgow. He was arrested for the crime, and at his first trial was found guilty and was sentenced to the penitentiary for 12 years. He appealed to the supreme court and secured a reversal of the decision of the lower court. He then took a change of venue from Howard to Callaway county, where he was tried for the second time, found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years. He again appealed to the supreme court, but was pardoned by the governor before the higher court passed upon his second appeal.

MARRIAGES.

Daniel F. Cuddy and Miss Sadie F. Hume of Glasgow.

Otha McConkle and Miss Henrietta Sartain of near Fayette.

Ollie Batts of near Meadville is dead. He fell a victim to Bright's disease at the age of 24 years. A bride of only three months survives him.

Rev. Brown of near Harte, Macon county, who is very deaf, was run over by a Santa Fe train a few miles east of Bucklin, Wednesday, Nov. 9th, and instantly killed.

The first vote cast in Linneus at the general election last week was that of "Uncle Jack" Kennerly, who is 89 years old. "Uncle Jack" is a native of Kentucky, and of course he votes the straight Democratic ticket.

The Bucklin Herald announced the arrival of a girl at Wm. Irwin's, but as no such occurrence had taken place at Mr. Irwin's the Herald makes due apologies and says: "The Herald always means to be very accurate and truthful in its statements. And if 'Will' would just as soon, we hope he will sometime entertain the guest; and if he will just please have it to be a girl, it will go a long way toward preserving the good reputation of the Herald."

The Democrats and Republicans of Linn county equally divided official pie at the late election, each of the two great parties capturing six of the offices to be filled in that county. The Democrats elected Henry Johnson, presiding judge of the county court; Thos. J. Stephenson, judge county court for the western district; Robt. W. Flood, recorder; Thos. P. Burns, prosecuting attorney; Edward Barton, sheriff, and Chas. E. Keiley, treasurer. The following successful tickets in the political lottery were held by Republicans: Dr. A. C. Pettijohn, representative; Harry Harrington, judge county court for the eastern district; Robt. M. Tunnell, probate judge; Jos. A. Neal, circuit clerk; Geo. W. Adams, county clerk, and Foster W. Burke, coroner. Pluralities were about a stand off on the county ticket, but for state and district offices the Democrats got the best of the fight, as Col. John P. Butler, the Democratic nominee for circuit judge, was the only state or district candidate who lost the county, and he was only defeated by a plurality of 17. The lowest plurality on the county Democratic ticket was six for Robt. H. Flood for recorder, and the highest 258 for Edward Barton for sheriff. The pluralities on the county Republican ticket ran from 20 for Burke for coroner to 339 for Tunnell for probate judge. Wm. C. Marshall carried the county for supreme judge by 70; Judge Rucker came under the wire for congress by a plurality of 26, while Emmett B. Fields defeated his Republican opponent for state senator by 120 plurality.

They elect some queer men to office in Macon county. The Democratic county clerk, after holding the office one term and securing the nomination for a second term, gave the printing of the county tickets to a Republican paper. Nice Democrat, surely.
