Don't judge a horse by the harness.

No, Liz, the "bleeder" in politics is not a tick, neither does he go on tick.

Pure gold does not need a label—and true modesty needs no press agent.

June is the month of the rose—but July is the month of the fire-cracker and the skeeter.

When you see a woman with big feet you may make sure that she is a sensible person.

The best wife may wear the plainest face—and the angel in public may be a devil at home.

Plowing in the mud is like love-making by mail—it's no good and never turns out properly.

The girl who never says "nay" to you is just biding her time until she gets to be boss for keeps.

A pleasant answer never makes blood flow—but it sometimes makes the bashful lover's heart break a rib.

The 4th of July was a good time for the chap who was anxious to get drunk and lacked an excuse.

The prejudiced soul will always be as dark as a dugout—also as sour, as foul, as stinking, as tricky!

Many a heart is wrapped in its own winding-sheet of regret because of a heart-traded over a love never told.

The man who don't believe in the bible is not to be abused—he is deserving of pity for his weakness and contrariness and silliness.

In every town there are about so many men who think that they know it all—and these fellows are the most gullible folks on earth.

The girl who believes in the first and only love never has had more than one experience and is not yet through with that one.

Red-headed girls look the finest when the sun isn't shining—they are usually good no matter whether the sun shines at all or not.

The lassie who does not love home is not up to the full measure of womanly worth—and she will stir up a job of hell somewhere down the line.

The gazaboo who tosses bouquets at himself knows that he needs to be whitewashed—you know what self-praise is supposed to be!

The love for reading is a safe antidote for some kinds of habits not necessary to enumerate—and a public library is an antidote for jail-fever and asylum pillory.

Mary, do you want to know what is a good boy—well, a good boy is one who does not tell on his big sister when seeing her let her new beau squeeze her just to please her.

It is so hard to be cheerful when it rains—blues, blows, tears, showers, east wind's weeps, rains and worries seem to come from the same direction even if they are not close kin.

A Memorable Day.

One of the days we remember with pleasure, as with profit to our health, is the one on which we became acquainted with Dr. King's New Liff Pills, the painless purifiers that cure headache and biliousness and keep the bowels right. 25c. at Herring's drug store.

Bill Nye had the truth well told when he said: "A man may use a wart on the back of his neck for a collar button; ride on the back coach of a railroad train to save interest on his money till the conductor gets around; stop his watch at night to save wear and tear; leave his 'i' or 't' without a dot or cross to save ink; pasture his mother's grave to save corn; but a man of this sort is a gentleman and a scholar compared to the fellow that will take a newspaper two or three years and when asked to pay for it puts it back into the office and has it marked "refused."

is a bland tonic, liver regulator, and blood purifier.

It gets rid of the poisons caused by over-supply of bile, and quickly cures bilious headaches, dizziness, loss of appetite, nausea, indigestion, constipation, malaria, chills and fever, jaundice, nervousness, irritability, melancholia, and all sickness due to disordered liver.

It is not a cathartic, but a gentle, herbal, liver medicine, which eases without irritating.

Big Land Deal.

The Sumner Star tells us of a big land deal on Tuesday of last week in which Wm. Watterson, a hustling local representative of J. W. Everman & Co. of Gallatin, Mo., closed a deal whereby T. M. D'LaMatter sold the big Swan Lake farm, comprising 875 acres of the finest land in the state, lying just south of Sumner, to Mowbray Bros., two Illinois men, who know a good thing when they see it, for something over $50,000. The sale carries with it this year's rent which is half of 300 acres of the finest wheat that ever grew out of the ground and several hundred acres of hay and corn.

L. M. Stewart, the efficient cashier of the Bank of Mendon, is building a one-room addition to his dwelling-house.

Monday, June 24, was the 53rd anniversary of C. W. Northcutt, the senior editor of the Sumner Star. If his wife wasn't enjoying good health he doubtless would not admit that he was 53 years old.

All of the weather prophets are men. Women would make a miserable botch of forecasting because they would predict bright and sunny days for all of the holidays and Sundays and picnic days!

Mrs. Susan Shull of Clayton, Ill., who was formerly Mrs. Susan Thompson of near Keytesville, has purchased the Dr. Prosser residence property in Brunswick, and to which she and her family have moved.

It seems so hard for a novelist to rake together a book without either a crooked wife or a gizzardless girl in it—either one makes the filth-hunting reader prick up his ears like a bull-pup passing a slaughter-house.

As a reward for good behavior Johnny was allowed to come to the dinner table when company was expected. He wanted to appear big, too, so he chose a low chair which brought his mouth just to the top of the table. But he didn't mind this, because it was on the line with his plate, and he was not so likly to drop anything while eating. He ate ravenously of everything, having nothing to say to the guests, as his mother had told him to remember that children are to be seen not heard. Finally, after dessert when there was a lull in the conversation, he exclaimed: "Say, pop, you can't guess what I've got under the table!" "No, my son," said his father with an indulgent glance. "What is it?" "Stomach-ache!" he he shouted gleefully.

We note in the Tribune that Dr. G. W. Hawkins of Triplett has two fine specimens of the silk worm moth on exhibition in his office. He caught them on a weed Friday morning. The male measures 6 1-2 inches from tip to tip. This is the moth that produces the silk worm.

The Charming Woman

is not necessarily one of perfect form and features. Many a plain woman who could never serve as an artist's model, possesses those rare qualities that all the world admires: Neatness, clear eyes, clean, smooth skin and that sprightliness of step and action that accompany good health. A physically weak woman is never attractive, not even to herself. Electric Bitters restore weak women, give strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, beautiful complexion. Guaranteed at Herring's druggist, 50c.

According to the Press-Spectator, J. H. Fletcher of south-east of Salisbury is the owner of a cow that has a record for calves which is hard to beat. In little less than five years she has dropped nine calves. About two years ago she dropped twins, and on Monday of last week she dropped three.

A wonderful Happening.

Port Byron, N. Y., has witnessed one of the most remarkable cases of healing ever recorded. Amos F. King of that place says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured a sore on my leg with which I had suffered over 80 years. I am now eighty five." Guaranteed to cure all sores by E. W. Herring, druggist, 25c.

Some folks knock on Keytesville—but the town continues to prosper and grow as one of the best trading points on the map, and all because it merits confidence and offers honest inducements, which fact the merchants should advertise more than they do.

Climbs a Pole to Save His Life.

From the Triplet Tribune.

C. F. Merrifield, rural mail-carrier of route No. 1, had a high water experience Tuesday morning that will permanently occupy a place in his memory even though he should exceed the record of Methuselah in the game of life.

The heavy rain of Monday night put the insignificant Salt creek out of its corporate limits and its sudden boom gave it the appearance of a relative of Grand river.

Just east of the Kahler place, on which John Wilson now resides, Salt creek is very sensitive to the touch of J. Pluvius and jumps its natural track when disturbed by a downpour that elsewhere it does not pay the agitation a respectful notice.

Mr. Merrifield uses the fence posts at this place to measure the depth of the overflow. A glance at these posts tells him the depth of the water and whether it is fordable. On this occasion he failed to notice the water line on the posts on account of seeing fresh tracks going into the water.

He thought that if others had just passed through it would be safe for him. Others did drive through but, they went before the overflow had reached the danger point.

Charley went right in it and the further he went the deeper he went. He got up in the seat of his cart to keep the water from running into the top of his waders. Just about this time the current got the horse good, and the animal with Charley and the cart in the rear, floated down stream. The wire fence of the road right-of-way caught them. A telephone pole offered Charley an opportunity to escape. Grabbing his mail bag he went to the top of the pole with the speed of a squirrel.

He then filled the neighborhood with his calls for help. Harry Myers and John Wilson responded to his cries. Mr. Myers went into the water; about 10 feet deep and unhitched the horse. The horse swam to the other side and with the exception of a wire cut is all right. As Mr. Wilson had no boat he could not get Charley out. He telephoned to town for help. Frank Sheffer loaded his canoe into Steve Brown's wagon and Messrs. Sheffer and Brown drove out to rescue Charley.

They could see Charley a half a mile away sitting on the pole. It's not very agreeable to sit on a pole for an hour and a half, and you can't imagine how good Charley felt when he reached dry dirt again.

The overflow was about one-half of a mile wide and the trouble occurred about mid-stream.

Tuesday evening Mr. Merrifield returned to the overflow stream, climbed the pole and posed for a picture for Frank Sheffer. He recovered everything but a heavy overcoat that fell in the water.

Preston Gaines, rural mail-carrier on route No. 2, was also water-bound and did not make his complete route.
