

You will recognize Arbuckles' Ariosa Coffee in the cup, any time, by the taste. That "taste" identifies it as the straight, pure Brazilian and distinguishes it from the make-believe Mocha and Java, and sundry other misbranded or misnamed impostures.

The improvement in the quality of Ariosa is the natural consequence of our own commercial development, and promises more for the future. Sold in a sealed package only, for your benefit.

Manzan Pile Remedy, price 50c is guaranteed. Put up ready to use. One application gives prompt relief to any form of piles. Soothes and heals. Sold by E. W. Herring.

A. L. Shoop, the hardware man and agricultural implement dealer at Rothville, has invested in a new International automobile. We don't know how he managed to get the price, for, as a matter of fact, nobody can afford to indulge in the luxury of such an expensive machine except an editor. Had Beavers of the Rothville Bee bought an auto we would have had no occasion for surprise, but how a hardware merchant can do it we are unable to see.

Ben Mullinix, a well-known farmer residing northwest of Jacksonville, died suddenly at his residence Saturday. Some months ago Mr. Mullinix had the misfortune as to break one of his legs. The injured member healed nicely, but it was later found that it would have to be rebroken as it had not been set properly. The leg was rebroken and Mr. Mullinix was again improving until Saturday he took worse and died within a few hours.

W. H. Dixon, the drayman who hauls between Moberly and Middle Grove, happened to quite an accident one day last week. While enroute home from Moberly with a sled full of provisions and a number of passengers, the sled turned over and Mr. Dixon was caught under it and mashed so badly that his eyeballs protruded from their sockets. When released he pushed his eyes back in place with his fingers and he now feels but little effects from the accident.

We note in the Salisbury Democrat that some one threw a big frozen clod threw the plate-glass window at Baier Bros.' bakery Wednesday night. It will take at least $50 to replace it. It has not yet been learned who did it or what it was for. The clod may have been thrown at some one and missed its mark.

Don't cough your head off when you can get a guaranteed remedy in Bees' Laxative Cough Syrup. It is especially recommended for children as it's pleasant to take, is a gentle laxative thus expelling the phlegm from the system for coughs, colds, croup, whooping-cough hoarseness and all bronchial trouble. Guaranteed. Sold by E. W. Herring.

"Two Mormon boys went to school for the first time out in Utah," relates Congressman J. Adam Bede, "and the teacher asked them their names."

"John and William Smith," the boys replied.

"Ah, then you are brothers! How old are you?"

"Each 10 years old, ma'am."

"Indeed! Then you are twins?"

"Please, ma'am," replied one of the boys, "only on our father's side."

The Salisbury Press-Spectator tells its readers that Mrs. Ed Williams had a thrilling burglary scare Friday morning. She had risen at her usual early hour, and went to the window to draw the blind. As she did so, a man appeared on the other side of the window and Mrs. Williams sank back screaming in her husband's arms. Mr. Williams, arrayed only in his pajamas, rushed out on the porch to do battle with the matutinal robber. No marauder was to be seen, nor was there a foot-print in the fresh snow. Mr. Williams returned to the room and in his turn assayed to lower the blind. The same apparition confronted him, and then he loudly laughed outright and told his wife that it was her shadow which had startled her.

Poisonous Water.

Water that has been heated, or that has stood any length of time in the kettle, can not be made to boil as quickly as freshly drawn water. If this fact were fully appreciated, it would have more weight with house-keepers as an argument against using water that has stood over night than numerous homilies on the unhealthfulness of stale water. Fresh water is living, and cold water that has been boiled, or allowed to stand long, absorbing gases and heat, it is either dead or poisoned, so it is easier to boil fresh water than dead or stale water.

For drinking purposes, water should be boiled, bottled immediately and fastened tight. When cool, lay the bottle on the ice. It will be found superior to ice water on all occasions.

In connection with this subject of water, there is one peculiar property of that liquid with which everyone should be made acquainted, and that is, capacity for absorbing impurities, which increases proportionately the cooler it gets. Hence, water that has stood in an insufficiently ventilated sleeping chamber all night is not only unpleasant, but is injurious to drink, since it readily absorbs the poisonous gases given off by respiration and the action of the skin. An ordinary water pitcher of water under such conditions, at a temperature of 60 degrees, will be found to have absorbed during the night from a pint to a pint and a half of carbonic acid gas, and an increase of ammonia. Ice water is an objectionable drink at all times, but if it is indulged in, the vessels containing it should never be left uncovered in sleeping or sitting rooms because at freezing point capacity for absorbing these deleterious substances is nearly doubled.—Boston Budget and Beacon.

A lot of people have a yearning for strawberries about now who would not give a nickel a bushel for them in June.

Here comes the spring winds to chap, tan and freckle. Use Pinesalve Carbolicized, (acts like a poultice) for cuts, sores, burns, and chapped skin. Sold by E. W. Herring.

Wet or Dry. See?

The Salisbury Democrat assures us that "if the esteemed COURIER will keep its weather eye on the Democrats column's, we will soon find out where it stands on the wet and dry question. When "dry" there is thirst, and when thirsty we are dry. See?" One part of the Democrat has a continuous thirst while the other part has "sworn off." So we take it for granted that, that sheet will be "wet" on one side and "dry" on the other.

Liable to Big Fine.

There have been certain powers placed in the hands of the postmaster-general, says the Parsons Sun, that will in a manner stop, it is presumed, the habit, either through ignorance or intentionally, of dropping packages and mail pieces into the post-office with short paid postage.

When a person sends a piece of mail he is supposed to know what the postage should be, and when he puts it in short paid the assumption on the part of the post-office department is that he is trying to defraud the government.

Whenever that is discovered the government does not file charges against the party and have him arrested and enter into long trial about the matter. The government peremptorily sends out for the party, be they man or woman, who mailed the package, and orders them to report at the nearest post-office and pay the postmaster a fine of $10 and if they refuse to do that they then are arrested.

People as a rule do not know this, but ignorance of the law does not excuse them.

A Visit to Clarence, Mo.

Clarence is a town of about 2,000 inhabitants located 59 miles west of Quincy on the Hannibal & St. Joseph railroad and is in the heart of a fine agricultural country. The city has a good public and high school system and a splendid Bible academy, also six churches, two newspapers and two hotels, three banks and about 50 business houses.

The property in which the Bible school is conducted was formerly known as Macon district high school, was owned by the M. E. church South, and as the name indicates was a preparatory school. It articulated with Central college at Fayette, the leading institution of that denomination in this state, but failing for lack of support the building was thus placed in the range of the hopes and prayers and deep desires and faith of a few saints of the community, who, acting for the independent Holiness body at large, improved the opportunity to buy the same at a sacrifice. The original cost of the property was $14,965. Only one-fourth of that amount has placed it in the sole possession of the Holiness people.

A campus of about four acres with soft maple trees for shade makes the premises an inviting retreat. The building is a substantial brick structure, practically uninjured, is two stories high with 10 rooms suitable for recitations, music, laboratory and study hall. The main assembly room is seated with chairs and can be made to accommodate 500 persons. This is used as a place of worship. A vestibule for the main entrance to keep out the cold, a furnace for heating and two spacious halls with cloak and hat racks complete the description.

The object of the Clarence Bible seminary is to supply the growing demand for a school where parents can send their children without endangering their moral and religious welfare. While there I visited the recitation rooms and found the school in good running order with accomplished, up-to-date teachers. The students advance in knowledge in every recitation. The object of the teachers is to educate properly by cultivating the best faculties and developing all the good there is in the students. The faculty of the school is Jas. T. Kimbrough, principal, theology; Miss Pearl Adams, English, Latin and mathematics; Miss Lula Watters, primary; Miss Addie Bunn stenography and book-keeping; Mrs. May Pipes, music.

Our main object in visiting Clarence was to attend the evangelistic meeting conducted by L. J. King. About the first of January he commenced a meeting there and after preaching a few sermons, one night while going from meeting to his place of abode he and the few who were with him were attacked by a mob of 23 masked men. The principal of the school was the first one struck down. King was beaten almost to the extremity of his life. A revolver was run into his wife's mouth and she was ordered to keep silent or she would be killed.

As soon as he was able to travel Mr. King went to the hospital in St. Louis and after undergoing treatment there a few weeks he came back to Clarence and commenced the meeting again, but when he came back the better class of citizens unfurled the national banner to the God haters and the evangelist has been protected ever since by a strong guard of determined men, well-armed.

I found the people of Clarence a generous, hospitable, intelligent people and many of them of the oldest families in Shelby county.

I visited a number of cultured families where I partook of their hospitalities in board and lodging and for which I am very thankful.

Have One Doctor

No sense in running from one doctor to another. Select the best one, then stand by him. Do not delay, but consult him in time when you are sick. Ask his opinion of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds. Then use it or not, just as he says.

Always keep a box of Ayer's Pills in the house. Just one pill at bedtime, now and then, will ward off many an attack of biliousness, indigestion, sick headache. How many years has your doctor known these pills? Ask him all about them.
