PETER SMITH & SONS,
 Keytesville, Mo., R. F. D. No. 2.

We note in our Salisbury items this week that our Sister Mary Virginia Houston of the Press-Spectator partook of a superabundance of some sort of throat lotion, and now she can't talk above a whisper. How perfectly miserable she must be! She has our tenderest sympathies.

You will have to hurry if you get in on the cut-prices at White's big sale.

The editor of the COURIER attended the W. C. T. U. silver medal contest at the Christian church in Shannondale Saturday night. Five young ladies contested for the medal, and all did so well that Miss Kathleen McAtee of Glasgow won the medal by just one-half point. The little Misses Eadington of Solisbury, Chariton county's sweetest nightingales, charmed the audience with some melodious vocal selections with organ accompaniment by Mrs. Martin Hurt. The entire entertainment was much enjoyed. The COURIER man had a pleasant visit and partook of a good supper at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Payton of Shannondale, than whom there are no cleverer people anywhere.

It is strict economy and good judgment to lay in a good supply of dry goods, notions, shoes, etc. when you can get them at such reduced prices at T. F. White's carnival sale.

Enlargements of all kinds at Cone's studio. Open every day. Don't forget that T. F. White's big 30-day's cut-price, carnival sale is in full blast.

Mrs. J. D. Blanton of Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. J. A. Collet of Mendon are spending the week with Keytesville relatives. Mesdames Blanton and Collet are sisters and were formerly Misses Anna and Minnie Miller.

E. E. Stoner of 21-2 miles northeast of Indian Grove has added a fine Percheron stallion, "TATA," to his breeding stable. Tata was imported from France, stands 16 3/4 hands high and weighs 1,800 pounds. He is a splendid specimen of draft horse and is jet black in color with a small star in forehead.

Dr. A. W. Zillman of Indian Grove operated on Harvey, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Renahan of near Dalton, at the home of the patient's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Brewer of Keytesville, Thursday morning, removing a large polypus from the upper part of the nose. Harvey is doing fine and will soon be O. K.

Everybody except our competitors is pleased with the prices we are making during the big sale. Come and see us, and you will smile at our bargains.

T. F. WHITE,
 Keytesville, Mo.

R. W. Cooper of near Glasgow and his daughter, Miss Nora, were accompanied by Dr. A. W. Zillman of Indian Grove to Columbia, Mo., Thursday of last week where Miss Nora underwent an operation by Dr. Zillman at a hospital in that city Friday morning for enlarged glands on the left side of the neck. She was able to sit up Monday morning, and we are glad to learn that satisfactory results are promised.

The county board of equalization was in session Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week, and did considerable "equalizing." Now don't all you tax-payers in Chariton county dodge at once, but get your breath regularly until you see the published proceedings of the board. Then if you have tears to shed, call on the county board of appeals and you may be able to escape your additional burden of taxation.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Moore and babe have gone to Ft. Worth, Tex., to visit Mrs. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. O'Bryan, and family.

Jas. A. Coleman has bought the interest of M. F. Franklin in the lively business of Franklin & Adams in Keytesville. Success to the new firm of Coleman & Adams.

Jas. F. Taylor, Jr., a son of Jas. F. Taylor of this place, recently underwent a successful operation for appendicitis at Butte, Mont., his present home. He is still in the hospital, but is recovering nicely.

J. P. Haskin has purchased the ice-cream parlor, lunch room and bakery, belonging to the late W. E. Heacock at this place, and will continue the business in all its branches. We bespeak for Prosser a liberal patronage.

Attorney Roy W. Rucker returned from Sedalia Monday morning and we were led to believe, from his joyous appearance, he must have been associating with some one while there he thinks more of than he does himself.

Mrs. T. P. Wood came down from Kansas City Saturday and remained until Tuesday morning visiting her father, Judge O. F. Smith, and other relatives. Mrs. Wood's sister, Mrs. J. F. Stowers, and babe accompanied her home where they will remain indefinitely.

The 11-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Venable met with a painful accident Saturday while he and his parents were spending the day with Sheriff A. N. Harding and wife Saturday. In toddling about the room the little fellow caught hold of a steam radiator, and discovering it was "the hot stuff," he let go with that hand and grabbed the radiator with the other, sustaining severe burns on each hand.

Mrs. W. L. Wright and sister, Miss Lena Walter, were in Moberly Tuesday shopping. "Lute" bached while his wife was away, and washed the dishes seven times after each meal and then didn't get them clean. He also forgot to wring out the dishrag, dropped the tea towel in the slop bucket, spilled ashes all over the kitchen floor and—but what's the use in telling of all of a man's shortcomings at once?

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Lamkin of Keytesville are realizing their importance to a marked degree this week, and especially Mr. Lamkin. A fine son, their second born, came to their house Tuesday, April 6, and Baby Lamkin's daddy was re-elected alderman from the First ward of this city the same day. The youngster has been christened Henry Minter in honor of his grandfather, Judge H. C. Minter, hence the judge is also feeling his oats.

Blair Miller, a member of the well-known dry goods firm of Blair Miller & Co., and Miss Lena Walter of this city are to be married at the Keytesville Presbyterian church Wednesday, April 21, 1909, at 4 o'clock p. m. This has been an event, that while not unexpected, no one knew just when it was to be consummated and now that the editor of the COURIER has heard it from an authentic source he has gone and told it. Just like an editor, isn't it? Mr. Miller and Miss Walter are two of Keytesville's very best people. We reserve our congratulations until after the nuptials.

J. W. Grizzell, who has been the keeper of Chariton county's strong box for the past four years, was making the rounds Friday telling his Keytesville friends good-bye. Mr. Grizzell made the county a very excellent treasurer and Keytesville a mighty good citizen, and it was with much regret on the part of the editor of the COURIER that he would not remain here. He and his family returned to Salisbury, their former home, but we are not advised as to what he intends doing in order that he may be able to connect with three meals a day in the future.

Cone's photographs and post-cards are permanent. They never fade.

Mrs. Chas. P. Vandiver visited friends in Moberly and relatives in Wakenda a few days last week.

The U. D. C. will meet with Miss Grace Edwards Monday afternoon, April 12, at 2:30 o'clock.

There will be special Easter services at the Keytesville Methodist church next Sunday morning. All are cordially invited.

Dr. M. W. Taylor, a Keytesville dentist, has decided to move to Ft. Benton, Mont., for the practice of his profession. Ft. Benton is the town in which W. L. Hamilton, a jeweler formerly employed here by H. M. Sigloch, is now located.

Those from Keytesville attending the home talent play in Salisbury Friday night were: Misses Virginia Taylor, Leanna Minter, Ella Minter, Carolyn Anderson and Sammy Vaughan and Messrs. Warner White, Cleveland Sobell, Paul White, Chas. Hayes, Oscar Patnott, Frank M. White, Jas. G. Dameron and Roy Cropper.

Eld. G. F. DeVol, pastor of the Christian church at Mendon, was at the capital Saturday, and made the COURIER an agreeable call. He intends delivering his lecture, "The Reign of King Bogus," at Keytesville some time in the near future under the auspices of the local Ladies' Aid society of the Christian church. Those who hear it will be well pleased.
