

Border County Notes

Friday, May 20, 1910.

CARROLL.

Mrs. Lucy Allen of Roads, aged 58 years, died Saturday. Her six children mourn her death. Mrs. Sarah Mitchell and son, Robert, have bought the jewelry stock of L. G. Clark at Carrollton.

E. H. Quisenberry has bought 40 acres of land, east of Bowdry's store, from John Blankenship of Carrollton.

Marley Jones of Carrollton had the end of his thumb torn off Monday. A loop of rope about that member was jerked by the horse he was leading and tore the flesh from the bone.

Phocion Guillett, formerly of DeWitt, a native of Maryland, aged 76 years, died of apoplexy Tuesday at Marcoline. One son survives him. Deceased was a son of Pierre Guillett who fled from France after being associated with an attempt to rescue Napoleon from his island prison.

James Dempsey and John Hickey, wholesale liquor dealers at Bosworth, and Robert Fletcher, manager of the business, have been served with papers by the sheriff of Carroll county for selling whiskey and beer without a merchant's license. About 35 witnesses have been summoned for the state.

Samuel O. Jackson of near Carrollton, aged 23 years, was drowned Saturday morning while attempting to swim his horse across Booker slough, ordinarily a small stream, but at present a dangerous stream swollen by recent rains. His horse evidently threw him as the dead man's left shoe was gone and his ankle broken. There was a bruise on his hip, probably caused by a kick from the frightened animal. His young wife and two little children survive him.

MARRIAGES.

Edgar Gale Rea, formerly of Carrollton, and Miss Zoe Dana Norris of Kansas City.

Ray Leroy Jasper of Ray county and Miss Edna Ragan of Carrollton.

HOWARD.

C. B. Fischer of near Fayette died Monday.

James Muir of Fayette celebrated his 80th birthday Sunday.

Howard Matthews, formerly of Glasgow, died recently at Tarkio, Mo.

Grace Metcalf of Roanoke, aged 19 years, passed away Saturday morning.

Will Innis and John Hughes succeeded W. D. Wood in the bakery business at Fayette.

The Hannaca Blues of Glasgow defeated by a score of 6 to 4 the Slater team at baseball.

The Howard book store at Fayette caught fire Wednesday. There was but slight damage done.

Rollie Adams of Glasgow has bought a half interest in J. P. Weiland's brick business house at Glasgow for $1,000.

Miss Fannie H. Smith, formerly of Fayette, aged 71 years, died Sunday at the home of her sister in Arkansas.

The Peter Ford farm of 160 acres located near Chariton church was bought by Robert Donaldson and E. M. Williams for $7,700.

Joshua Ivy, a native of Illinois, aged 81 years, died of uraemic poisoning Thursday at the home of W. N. Marshall of Fayette. One son survives him.

Lawrence Scott, a negro, was caught robbing a cash register in W. L. Hannaca's store at Glasgow Thursday. He had gained entrance through a cellar window and had been robbing the store for weeks.

While sauntering along the levee one day the past week in the rear of Groves' drug store, John Clifford noticed a projection in the bank that looked as though he ought to investigate it and he struck it a blow. It proved to be crumbling bones of rather large proportion. He with several others procured spades and commenced investigation. The deeper they got the more they found. It proved to be the remains of some large prehistoric animal. They have already unearthed over 100 pounds of bones and a portion of one of the tusks, measuring about 18 inches in circumference. The bones were badly decomposed, but they were evidently the remains of a very large animal such as is not seen at this time and belonged to prehistoric ages.—Glasgow Graphic.

LIVINGSTON

Miss Isabella Harris, 56 years old, of Chillicothe died Saturday. Much interest has been manifested in the Christian church revival at Chillicothe.

G. R. Alnutt and James Myers killed a half-grown wolf, south of Chillicothe, Sunday.

A. H. Huggett of Chillicothe lacerated his hand badly with a piece of glass Saturday.

The Chillicothe baseball team was defeated by the Laredo aggregation Sunday by a score of 5 to 4.

Mary, 17-year-old daughter of John Morris of Kansas City, formerly of Chillicothe, died of heart trouble Sunday.

Samuel C. Knouse, a native of Ohio, aged 75 years, died of heart trouble Friday night at the home of his son, Joseph, at Chillicothe.

At the Mo. Lumber & Construction Co.'s, plant in Utioa Friday night fire destroyed property to the extent of $8,000 or more. The lumber yard belonged to Kansas City men.

The $200 stolen from members of a theatrical troupe at Chillicothe Tuesday night has been returned to the lawful owners and there will be no prosecution of the thieves as they are three young boys out of that city's best families. One boy stole the money while the other two kept guard and then they divided the spoils. The police secured evidence against one boy and he implicated the other two.

MARRIAGES.

Fred Fellows of Kansas City and Miss Gertrude Fanger of Chillicothe.

LINN.

Linneus has 15 graduates from the grammar school this year.

The little son of Lafe Cahoon of near Buoklin died of whooping-cough Tuesday.

field, Monday. Five children survive her.

The first issue of the Marcoline Mirror under its new management made its appearance last week. J. L. Mendenhall is editor and Manly Garnett is publisher. The sheet is understood to be independent in politics.

Walter Skinner of St. Catherine, calling on his best girl and staying late, was led a merry chase or was merrily chased going home. After running in the mud with his heart in his mouth for several miles, Skimmer fell down only to discover his pursuer to be a spotted calf.

A man giving his name as C. M. Corrigan, enroute from Globe, Ariz., to Peoria, Ill., whence he started March 26, driving three burros on a wager that he would reach Peoria by May 13, passed through Marcoline May 12. The stake is $500 and two days are allowed for each rain.

MARRIAGES.

Lucas A. Prior and Miss Maud M. Kirby, both of Linneus.

Curtis F. Thudium and Miss Cora M. Gardner, both of Linn county.

Robert Darling and Miss Lessie Mattingly, both of Marcoline.

MACON.

Wm. Bruner of Macon has smallpox.

The infant son of L. E. Calvert of Ethel died last week.

By a score of 7 to 4 Macon defeated Trenton at baseball Tuesday.

Frederick, little son of Tom Nichols of Macon, died of measles Wednesday.

Helen, little daughter of P. O. Stacy of Callao, died of bronchial pneumonia Tuesday.

Eighteen young men graduate from Brees Military academy at Macon this year.

Thos. Jenkins of New Cambria, 80 years old, died of dropsy Saturday. His wife and seven children survive him.

Saturday was the 27th anniversary of a disastrous hurricane that swept over Macon county and killed three people and injured numerous others.

Joseph Teter, a wholesale grocer of Macon, lost a pocket book containing $60 which was found by a young man working in a factory at that place. The fellow spent the money freely and when accosted by the marshal confessed and returned the money. He was not prosecuted.

J. H. Banker, superintendent of the bridge and construction work on the Missouri division of the Santa Fe railroad, was seriously injured Thursday afternoon while superintending the moving of a large amount of bridge timber on the right-of-way, near Ethel. The timber, which consisted mostly of heavy oak planks, was hoisted by a derrick. In some manner the load slipped out of the noose that had been fastened about it, and in falling one of the timbers, an oak plank, 20 feet long and 8x12 inches in thickness, toppled over and struck Mr. Banker on the head. He was knocked down and was insensible for some time. A triangular gash three inches long was cut in the back part of his head, but no bones were fractured.—Marcoline Mirror.

MARRIAGES.

Oscar Looley of Elmer and Miss Mary Faught of Atlanta.

A. S. H. Hagood of Jacksonville and Mrs. Emma L. Brown of Hillsdale, Ind.

Alfred Penkert and Miss Lena Schilezio, both of Bevier.

Eimer E. Cook of Stonington, Colo., and Miss Scottie B. York of Blue Lick.

J. E. Odell of Nelson and Miss Dollie Dierking of Sweet Springs.

Tax 'Em.

If there is not such a law in the statute books, which, if duly enforced, would compel the foreign department stores to pay merchant's tax or license tax in the various counties in which they do a big business, there ought to be. It is unfair to the poor peddler, who comes into our country with a budget upon his back, to be forced to pay license when the foreign department house is permitted to do 40 times the damage to home trade without paying any license. Does it look fair for our merchants to help construct the good roads upon which the farmer may drive to the various depots in our country and load their wagons shipped from the catalogue houses, which contribute not a penny to the support of these roads? The home merchant pays his taxes, his merchant license tax, contributes to the road funds, helps maintain our schools, churches, infirmaries, asylums and public utilities of every nature, and it does seem that the foreign department stores should be required to give like support to the communities in which they do a business. If there is no law to compel these soulless corporations to pay license in the counties in which they do business, we hope the next representative elected from this county will introduce a law to that effect and urge its passage.—Linneus Bulletin.
