

Popular, but Bad Form

Many girls are "bad form" without suspecting it. Here are a few things, little considered, that are popular, but not good taste.

Inquisitiveness. Have you never pried into personal affairs by questions?

Boisterous. Noisy fun, especially in public, is common in both senses of the word. A girl can have a good time without laughing and talking at high pitch.

Practical joking. What seems pure wit to the perpetrator, to the victim is stupid horseplay or downright malice.

Intrusion. Some girls have no respect for privacy. They burst into a closed room without knocking, offer their society unasked and will interrupt the most earnest conversation without a perfunctory "I beg your pardon."

Disloyalty. It is ill bred if nothing else to run down those to whom you owe fealty or to betray a friend's confidence. Even worse it is to discuss family affairs with outsiders.

Bickering. Girls may not mean anything when they argue before a third person, but the listener is just as uncomfortable as though the disputants were at daggers drawn. Especially poor taste is it for one to argue with her fiance or husband in public.

Bragging. What if you are a belle, have hosts of suitors and trunks full of fine clothes? The girl of good taste allows the world to discover her popularity and good fortune. She does not thrust them upon it.

Slang. There is a big reaction in favor of the girl who can enjoy life to the full, yet keep her respect for good English.

Sponging. Some girls have the notion that the world owes them a good time, and they snatch pleasure at the expense of their friends with no thought of return. The girl who is always out of change, who proposes gayeties for which others pay, who accepts favors and is churlish about favoring is worse than bad form; she is almost disonest.

Fibbing. Truth is right, likewise well bred. The girl whose word is worthless, who wriggles out of every uncomfortable situation, who tells you one thing and her next confidant another, is bad style.

Is the World Growing Better

Many things go to prove that it is. The way thousands are trying to help others is proof. Among them is Mrs. W. W. Gould, of Pittsfield, N. H. Finding good health by taking Electric Bitters, she now advises other sufferers, everywhere, to take them. "For years I suffered with stomach and kidney trouble," she writes. "Every medicine I used failed till I took Electric Bitters. But this great remedy helped me wonderfully." They'll help any woman. They're the best tonic and finest liver and kidney remedy that's made. Try them. You'll see, 50c at all druggists.
