Lose on Pecans

A decrease of five or six cents per pound in the market price of pecans will cost the Miami Nut Company quite a bit of money. The company had a contract to supply a St. Louis firm with 40,000 pounds of the nuts, and they finished shipping this amount last week just as the sudden drop in price came. The company has bought a number of groves in Saline and Carroll counties at 10 cents to 12 1/2 cents, and a large part of these pecans have not yet been delivered. On all these the company will lose money. John Hamner spent from Sunday to Tuesday in St. Louis on business connected with the firm which had about $7000 invested in this years nut crop. It is claimed that on the whole deal the company will clear some money.

Ads! Ads! Ads!

Somewhere in Holy Writ the Book deprecates the idea of a man hiding his light under a bushel. The bushel of obscurity is bound to hang low over the place of the man who does not advertise. Advertising is the light of business. Do not hide your light under the fallacious idea that every cent spent in advertising is wasted. It is if you don't do it right, but the fact that all successful firms advertise ought to be a sufficient proof of the worth. Advertise and then make good on your ad. You will get the business.

Will Give Hams

Each visitor to the Missouri Farmers' Week at Columbia, Mo. January 13-17 will be given a ham. But it will not be the "ham what am" but a "ham what ain't." It will be a small canvas ham, imitating a big canvas ham but it will be free. If they were to distribute a little of the fragrant "Ham and" the attractive force of the offer would be greater than ever.

We Talk Ads

And you say, "Yes, because it is money in your pocket." Our plea is "guilty" on the first count but there is something else, it is money in YOUR POCKET. We're for ourselves, you and Keytesville. The money you pay us brings more money to you and the prosperity of both of us helps the town. Then, good articles sold at fair price helps your customers. There's where we all get in. That's why we talk ads.

Use of Slang

A teacher in the city schools in the course of literary study recently voiced that plaint against the use of slang, in newspapers. It is a bad habit, of course, judged from the standards of Macaulay or other users of model English. Yet, how few there are who delight in reading Macaulay? How small is the percentage in comparison to those who do not. Slang of the kind that can be printed in a newspaper is the dash of paprika that gives the flavor to many an article for reading. It is the short-hand system for some articles and goes as far toward abbreviating stilted forms as does shorthand in condensing matter in a court reporters notes in a case at law.

It is one method of a live, active mind to express an idea in the shortest method possible. To those slow of diction, satisfied with deliberate discourse, purists who regard highly the sacred purity of our "English" language (which, by the way owes its origin a little to the Saxon, more to Latin, some to Greek and a little to every other known language), the "pure" English will always remain sufficient. To those who make their mental notes in shorthand, slang will ever be available. It is a matter of temperament. Most people use a little slang, many use much, and very few, use none.

Will Collect Parcels

The farmer who lives on a rural mail route is going to have a convenience his cousins in the city will not have. When the parcels post is put in operation Jan. 1 the city man will have to carry or send his parcels to the postoffice or postoffice substation. The farmer will carry his parcels post package to the road in front of his home and give it to the rural mail carrier. The carrier will weigh it, determine the postage and carry it to the postoffice. The Parcels Post Law gives the farmer the best of it on the collection end, but the postoffice will deliver all parcels post matter in the city or on rural routes. However, the city man is benefited by the arrangement. It makes it convenient for the farmer to send real country sausage, fresh butter, eggs and other products direct to the consumer. The Postoffice Department has finished the parcels post maps that will be sent to all postoffices. The map divides the country into unit areas thirty miles square.

A Heavy Wind

A blizzard without the snow was a caller early in the morning Saturday. The wind came sweeping across the bottom land west of town and indulged in quite a few pranks. At the residence of Judge Tisdale, a porch swing was blown out into the road, fully fifty feet from where it originally stood. Chairs were blown off porches and the wind continued almost a gale up till afternoon of Saturday. The weather was colder, also presaging the coming of real winter.

Well Loaded - With Shells

The duck hunters nearly all returned last week bringing home with them a larger load of loaded shells than ducks. Ducks are either being exterminated by the present methods of hunting them, or they have selected some other route to the south, as their number this season compared with former years, is few. —Slater Rustler.

Boy Breaks Arm

Richard Latimer, eight years of age broke his arm above the elbow Friday, while wrestling with another boy at Pleasant Grove school near Miami. His mother was called and he was removed to his home.

Fred Sasse returned to Brunswick Saturday after enjoying a week at circuit court in Keytesville.

Rheumatism Neuralgia Sprains

Miss C. MARONEY, of 208 K. St., W. Washington, D. C., writes: "I suffered with rheumatism for five years and I have just got hold of your Liniment, and it has done me so much good. My knees do not pain and the swelling has gone."

Quiets the Nerves
Miss A. WEIDMAN, of 43 Thompson St., Maryville, Mo., writes: "The nerve in my leg was destroyed five years ago and left me with a jerking as night so that I could not sleep. A friend told me to try your Liniment and now I could not do without it. I find after its use I can sleep."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

"Is a good Liniment. I keep it on hand all the time. My daughter sprained her wrist and used your Liniment, and it has not hurt her since."

Back to the Farm

Geo. R. Reynolds, of Higbee, farmer, stock raiser and banker, in the newspaper office last week, talked very interestingly and sensibly about the reducing of the cost of living. He holds that there is little chance for much reduction until the tide is turned from the city back to the farm. That there must be more farmers before the supply can be made to equal the demand.

He is somewhat optimistic about this being accomplished in a reasonable time. Under present methods much of the drudgery and monotony of farm life is now being eliminated. Improved machinery, the telephone, daily papers and the automobile are putting those on the farm in about as close touch with the everyday world as if they lived in the city. He sees no chance for the reduction of the cost of meats, as the southwest that formerly produced thousands of cattle very cheaply cannot now do so, as the great pastures of that country are fast being turned into cultivated fields and the big ranges divided.

Mr. Reynolds is a successful man and all his remarks on the subject bear the mark of practicability, good judgment and a thorough acquaintance with the conditions on which he comments.

A Poor Writer

It is reported at one of the banks that a man who is said to be a notoriously poor writer had written a check. The payee of the check brought it in for deposit and looked it over. He looked at the signature of the maker and remarked: "I have forgotten who drew that check."

Don't waste your money buying strengthening plasters. Chamberlain's Liniment is cheaper and better. Dampen a piece of flannel with it and bind it over the affected parts and it will relieve the pain and soreness. For sale by all dealers.

The passenger train east, Sunday afternoon were crowded with the delegation going back to Columbia after meeting their Waterloo at Lawrence, in the Kansas-Missouri ball game. There were some dejected people there, as many of the boys had wagered their good money on the forlorn hope.

William Holt, of Marceline, was in the city Monday and made the Courier office a call. —From Elsewhere.

Raising Pipe Cobs

No, the above title is not a transposition. It means what it says. "Pipe cobs" for cob pipes. One hundred farmers in LaFayette county are raising about 70 carloads of pipe cobs. They sent last year thirty-seven carloads of these cobs to the pipe factory at Boonville. This year they expect to nearly double that number. The manufacturer figures on a pipe and a half to each cob and it requires 120,000 cobs to make a carload. Figure it our yourself. The ear is mostly cob and yields about $12.50 in cobs to the acre, to say nothing of the corn which is shelled in a special sheller made to accommodate the over-grown cob.

New Prosecutor

Gov. Hadley appointed Roscoe Conkling to succeed his father as prosecuting attorney for Jackson county. The young man secured his preliminary schooling at Carrollton, graduating from the High School there, later going to the University of Columbia, where he graduated from the law school last spring.

A Timely Trip

A Hannibal man, A. R. Levering did a nice thing, when he died recently and left $75,000 to ten different institutions in Hannibal. Among the bequests were $35,000 to the Levering hospital and $20,000 to William Jewell College. He lived in Hannibal, saw what the town needed most and gave of his means to help the people get it. Some time there will be more men who will follow in Mr. Levering's footsteps.

The above is the New Dormitory being erected by the Chillicothe Business College of Chillicothe, Mo., which institution already occupies four large buildings and which has for some time enjoyed the distinction of occupying the largest plant in America devoted exclusively to business education. Its unusually large attendance this year made the above building a necessity. Many young men enter late in the fall when the heavy work upon the farms is finished and the management is thus endeavoring to get the new building ready for occupancy by December 1st, so as to accommodate these students. The new dormitory will contain twenty-four living rooms and will be strictly modern, supplied with furnace heat, bath, hot and cold water on each floor, in fact, all modern conveniences. All the furnishings will be new so the rooms will be among the most desirable to be found anywhere. This will make a splendid addition to the buildings owned by this large and popular college and is the best evidence which can be offered that the institution is growing rapidly.
