James Campbell, the richest man in Missouri died at his summer home in the East Saturday and was brought to his home in St. Louis for burial. His death resulted from an operation for Carbuncle. He left his wife and one child Lois. His wealth is said to be at least fifty million dollars, all of which he left as an endowment for the St. Louis Medical College and hospital after 21 years, his wife to have part of the income and his daughter as much of the income as her mother chooses to give her.

The endowment will make the greatest medical college on the western hemisphere.

Situation in Mexico

Trouble in Mexican affairs is on the increase. Heurta is still acting and Villa and Carranza are disagreeing. It is reported that the rebel army is revolting against Carranza and that revolution in Constitutionlist camp is on. The situation appears to be the gravest the United States has been confronted with. Prospects for armed intervention are almost conclusive.

A new concrete walk is being laid in front of the Hill building occupied by J. M. Halley. "Exponents of Sex War"

Coln. Henry Watterson has come around on President Wilson's side since studying the policy and achievements of the administration. He sees in Mr. Wilson our party's candidate for the Presidency in 1916, and predicts that Roosevelt will be his opponent. The Coln. is not so sure of the result of the way the president has handled the Mexican question, but thinks it will work out better than many expect it to, but as a result of luck rather than judgement.

In regard to the woman suffrage movement, the editor of the Courier Journal has this to say: "These women—these suffragists. They do not represent womanhood. They are furries in their war for the vote. The suffrage movement is positively nothing more nor less than a sex war. It is an attempt to destroy a man made world, a man made civilization, and man made laws; an effort to tear down all that man has set up—mans God, mans Bible, mans everything, not because there is anything wrong with them but because they would set up, instead, "womans rights." They have disturbed the peace of the only place in the world where there is real rest; the only place where there is any refuge from the interminable jarring and warring of the world—but now, damn 'em they are seeking to destroy it."

The Federation of Woman's Clubs has endorsed the suffrage movement to the extent of giving it the moral support of the federation only, but even that has brot a storm of protest from numbers of state organizations and prominent members of the organization. Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, president of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage says that the convention at Chicago which tentatively endorsed the movement ignored the protests of 100,000 women who are members of 21 associations opposed to suffrage. Mrs. Dodge telegraphed the convention as follows: "We hereby express our hopes that no action on the question of woman suffrage will be taken by the General Federation of Womens Clubs. The magnificent work done by the women's clubs all over the country is of far more importance than the entry of women into politics. The harmony that has so far existed and out solidarity as women working together for the common good, would be jeopardized, as many thousand women would be antagonized by such action." The women opponents of woman suffrage are being heard from and they will persist in their opposition to what they believe will destroy, not only many homes but the church, as well as the estimation in which all women desire to be held by good, chivalrous men.

Who Pays May Buy

The Courier has advertising space to sell to those persons who will pay for it and are conducting a legal business. The Courier does the advertising. Those who wish to buy those things advertised may do so if they can arrange with the merchants advertising. The Courier maintains no censorship over what its readers buy. That is their business. Our advertising space is too valuable to give away but it is for sale to all who have the price conduct a legal business. Carpers may carp and howlers may howl but the man who maintains that a newspaper necessarily stands for an idea or sentiment or even wares advertised in its columns by persons buying and paying for space are so sadly lacking in the logical faculty that to attempt to show them the error would be a waste of time. A newspaper man who does not know this much of the advertising game is short on knowledge of his business.

Just now hundreds of young men with families are seeking jobs in the country. Every farmer who wants to solve his help problem should write at once to either of the above public servants. First class help can be furnished promptly.

Organizing Homemakers' Clubs

Miss Bab Bell of the office of the Secretary of the Board of Agriculture is organizing Homemakers' Clubs throughout the state. Her time is now being rapidly engaged for months ahead. During the early summer she will demonstrate home canning, a part of the activities of rural home life that especially needs encouraging in these days of the high cost of living. The Missouri farm home with a can of strawberries for every week in the year will hardly fear the wolf.

Predicts Two Parties

Samuel G. Blythe, political seer, is touring the west for "dope" on the political situation to be placed in writing for the Saturday Evening Post. Blythe sometimes makes some bad guesses but in the main he is an astute and philosophic observer. He says that the present political unrest will finally resolve itself into two parties, progressive and conservative. The old parties will be broken to fragments and the fragments will join together with their like parts and make a pair of parties aligned on economic lines rather than sectional or political.
