Miss Alma Stone of Kansas City who visited at the home of Mrs. Fidler at Salisbury, arrived here Tuesday evening for a visit with her cousin, Oswald Fidler and wife.

The auditing experts from the state auditor's office have criticized the bookkeeping of the State University. They claim the funds are not kept separated and that the system is defective.

Lee Varner, aged 17, a white boy, was killed by a negro mob at Clarksville, Tenn., for assaulting a 12-year-old negro girl. An uncle of the girl admitted killing Varner. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

The east has always dominated the west in congress until in the past few years, and why? Simply because when an able congressman was elected from any of the districts there, they kept him serving so long as he could get to the house and back, unless they promoted him to the senate.

Our Boss Taylor, A. V. Simon returned Monday from a trip to the National Capitol and other eastern cities, looking like he had enjoyed life immensely during his absence. He says this is the hottest spot he has found this summer, but he wasn't looking for any where there was nothing in the way of fans or—something, to cool off with.

Rush Vincent is navigating in a big new automobile.

Miss Madge Taylor returned from Columbia Tuesday.

Simp Emerson left for St. Louis Thursday, much improved on chicken and fish diet.

One of the strangest effects of politics is the exemplification of the old axiom that politics make strange bed-fellows. The present election has shown some queer combinations here.

Is there a man in this county who will vote to take away from Chariton the honor, the benefits and the reputation it has gained by having one of the ablest representatives in congress? If so, why?

By the way, why was old man Clark cited to appear before the Circuit Court and show why his parole should not be revoked? Perhaps candidate John D. Taylor could give the best explanation. Ask him.

With the prospect of a war involving Austria and Serbia and another involving England and the two factions of Irish Dublin and Belfast, gives the European horizon a murky outline.

It is said that if Jno. D. Taylor should be elected to the state senate he will run for either Attorney General of the state or congress. Why underestimate him—a chance for the Presidency will be open then.

Was not lawyer Hatch, Silver Dick Bland, or Champ Clark worthy of the long time they were allowed to remain congressmen from their districts? Is the bloody 9th. talking of turning Champ Clark out for a new man notwithstanding he allows his disappointment to rise above the surface at times?

John D. Taylor offered his services to the wets in the matter of the local option election contest. They did not see fit to employ him. He declared his intention of being on one side or the other, and was, but did he get any where near the fee from the drys he asked of the wets? Or even as much as it is reported he said the drys paid him.

There have many reports of tall corn in this State and Kansas. One field near Chillicothe has stocks fourteen feet high. There is some pretty tall corn in this vicinity, one of the best fields being that opposite Judge Taylor's residence on the street car line to the depot. This corn was planted by Judge Taylor on ground that had lain fallow for a few years and is producing the best of this year.

Shannon Wayland has been nursing six badly injured teeth. The teeth were loosened when he was hit in the mouth with a baseball Sunday during the Miami-Carrollton game. Wayland was unable to close his mouth or eat anything until Monday evening when a dentist worked on them and pushed them back far enough that he could get his incisors together.

These excellent men, that is to say, Rothwell, Alexander, Hale, Mansur, Hall and Bodine were elected to congress from this district. How long was either permitted to hold the office, and what did either of them accomplish for the district?

They All Sleep Out

Open air sleeping is proving to be a decided custom here. All over town there are to be seen cots in yards, on porches and at least one case, a couple sleep on the roof of the porch. In one yard Wednesday were three cots, one a double one making sleeping quarters for four persons. Two of these were in the front yard but they were deserted before the reporter arrived on the scene. This is a mighty good habit and will result in better health for all involved.

Remove Bridge and Fill

The old bridge just east of the main course of the Chariton river has been removed. The removal of the bridge has been followed by the filling in of the old water course underneath the bridge to a level with the remainder of the road this gives a solid roadway across what used to be a pretty ramshackle bridge. There is another old bridge out there that is in bad shape.

Card of Thanks

To those who have been so kind to lend their assistance to me in my own untiring effort to secure the valuable prizes offered by H. M. Sigloch which I must confess I feel proud to be the possessor of, I hereby extend thanks to each and all who have manifested concern in my behalf.

Louella Eatherton.

At Six O'Clock Dinner

Mrs. M. S. Venable entertained the following guests at six o'clock dinner Saturday: Mrs. J. G. Smith, Mrs. L. M. Hatch, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neale, Miss Elizabeth White of Keytesville and Mr. F. K. Venable of St. Louis.—Renick Enterprise.

John D. Taylor may felicitate himself upon the possession of faculties in which a pennyroyal taurus is his equal and a peach orchard swine far his superior, but there are other eminent characteristics desired in a state senator of which he is not possessed.
