The new addition which will be opened after the lot sale August 24 will be an extension of a boulevard as pretty as can be boasted of by any town of more than double the size of Brunswick. The new division has been laid out to the very best advantage, each and every lot being desirably located, and the conformity of the whole number to the main street on the north, the railroad on the south and the new streets, not only present a unique appearance to the city's extension, but renders each lot one on which any style of dwelling will appear to advantage. There is great similarity between this addition to our town and one of the prettiest residence districts off Euclid avenue in Cleveland. Wait until a few bungalows are built here and then admire the perspective and appreciate the location.
