Wilson and The Labor Vote
By Henry F. Hollis,
U. S. Senator from New Hampshire

There can be no doubt that the labor vote in this campaign is very strong for Wilson. Union Labor in particular is favorable to him in accordance with its declared policy that "Labor helps those who help Labor." The list of helpful things done for Labor by President Wilson is impressive.

He began by placing in his Cabinet as Secretary of Labor a union man, William B. Wilson, a man of courage and intellect. No one has attacked the ability or the record of Secretary Wilson. He has proved his worthiness of the trust conferred upon him, and the judgment of the President has been vindicated. He is the first Labor Union man to sit at the Cabinet table.

The Wilson administration at the very outset passed an eight-hour bill for women and children in the District of Columbia. There was no determined opposition to this measure by Republicans in Congress. The question of the eight-hour day has been investigated for thirty years. Its merits were conceded. To claim at this late day should be investigated is political buncombe pure and simple. It is the obstructive tactics of the confirmed stand-patter.

Next followed the exemption of labor unions and farmers, associations from the operations of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. This was the Labor's "Charter of Freedom." It was accompanied by the abolition of ex parte injunctions, and the guarantee of jury trials in contempt cases.

Then came the "Seamen's Charter of Freedom." Sailors were the only men who could be arrested and restored by force to their jobs. This particular form of involuntary servitude was abolished by the Seamen's Act. The Wilson Administration stands pledged to its enforcement.

The child Labor bill, prohibiting the products of child labor in interstate commerce, had been pending in Congress for years. President Wilson insisted that it be passed before the last session closed. Here was the "Children's Charter of Freedom."

Then followed the Compensation Act for workmen killed or injured in Government employ, another act of justice too long delayed.

These conspicuous laws for labor were buttressed by many others of which Labor heartily approved, such as the income tax, the Alaska Railway bill, the inheritance tax, the government ownership of armor and nitrate plants, the Federal Reserve Act and the Rural Credits bill. Moreover the eight hour day was enforced in all government departments, and other conditions of labor were greatly improved.

END STOMACH TROUBLE,
GASES OR DYSPEPSIA

"Pape's Diaprepain" makes Sick, Sour, Gassy Stomachs surely feel fine in five minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of distension, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach-headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes. Put an end to stomach trouble forever by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diaprepain from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder. It's the quickest, surest stomach doctor in the world. It's wonderful!

The climax was the Adamson bill for the eight-hour day on railroads, not on the ground of expediency, but because President Wilson thought it was right.

It is a very striking fact that all these things helpful to Labor were put in force through the Federal Government, not through State Governments. How can they be defended under the traditional Democratic doctrine?

To begin with it is the first and basic principle of the Democratic party to protect the great mass of the people from the aggression of a powerful few. It is the belief of the Democratic party that those who gain undue power, financial or otherwise, will use it for their own benefit to the great disadvantage of all the rest. It has been our experience that the powerful few have received their most faithful service from the managers of the Republican party.

But while the first and basic principle of the Democratic party has not changed since its beginning the method of carrying that principle into effect has changed greatly. At the beginning of our Government the fear that struck deepest into the heart of the average man was the fear of the military dictator. The Democratic party was impelled therefore to oppose a strong Federal government, for fear the people would lose their liberties.

And so it came about that the first policy of the Democrat was to oppose a centralized form of government, and stand strongly for States' Rights. This continued to be their policy down to the recent times.

But meanwhile a financial giant had developed infinitely more powerful than any military despot. Combinations of capital, directed by gigantic captains of industry, advised and defended by the keenest lawyer, attained a power that was stealing the rights and happiness of the people more effectively than any Caesar or Napoleon.

These financial and industrial giants found it to their interest to work thru the strong Federal control that had developed under Republican Administrations. They obtained the passage of laws that made their plunderings and encroachments secure. It was useless to oppose them by State action, for they were more powerful than the states. It is cowardly to abstain from foregoing a strong Federal weapon for fear the common enemy might pluck it away from the people and use it against them.

And so the Democratic Party, still true to its basic principle of protecting the many from the aggressions of the few has been forced to change its policy, its method of carrying its basic principle into effect. In certain cases, therefore, it has abandoned the doctrine of States' Rights and use the strong arm of the Federal Government to achieve its purposes. Other matters, with which the States could successfully cope, it has left to the action of the state and local authorities.

Our Republican friends are aghast at this change of front. They tell us how differently old-time Democrats behaved. They are suddenly much concerned for the sacredness of State Rights. In fact the traditional policies of the two parties have been largely interchanged.

But our friends the Progressives are very much attracted to efficiency and humanity of modern Democracy. They see their platform of 1912 very largely translated into legislative and administrative action.

And best of all, Labor men feel that at last found a real friend, a President who understands them, who wants to help them and who does better by them than he or his party promised.

They realize that if the President is defeated, it will be because he has stood by them in their hopes and aspirations. They know full well that if he is defeated, no other President will dare to champion their cause. And laboring men, understanding these things, will surely help President Wilson, because his defeat would be their defeat, his victory will be theirs.

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED

Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has invaded the whole system.
To arrest rheumatism it is quite as important to improve your general health as to purify your blood, and the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is nature's great blood-maker, while its medicinal nourishment strengthens the organs to expel the impurities and rebuild your strength.
Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not find other relief. Refuse the alcoholic substitutes.

Health for Sick Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Been Woman's Most Reliable Medicine - Here is More Proof.

To women who are suffering from some form of woman's special ills, and have a constant fear of breaking down, the three following letters ought to bring hope:—

North Crandon, Wis.—"When I was 16 years old I got married and at 18 years I gave birth to twins and it left me with very poor health. I could not walk across the floor without having to sit down to rest and it was hard for me to keep about and do my work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had a displacement and ulcers, and would have to have an operation. This frightened me so much that I did not know what to do. Having heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would give it a trial and it made me as well as ever. I cannot say enough in favor of the Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. MAYME ASBACH, North Crandon, Wis.

Lawton, Okla.—"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I seemed to be good for nothing. I tired easily and had headaches much of the time and was irregular. I took it again before my little child was born and it did me a wonderful amount of good at that time. I never fail to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to ailing women because it has done so much for me."—Mrs. A. L. McCasland, 509 Have St., Lawton, Okla.

From a Grateful Massachusetts Woman.

Roxbury, Mass.—"I was suffering from inflammation and was examined by a physician who found that my trouble was caused by a displacement. My symptoms were bearing down pains, backache, and sluggish liver. I tried several kinds of medicine; then I was asked to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has cured me and I am pleased to be in my usual good health by using it and highly recommend it."—Mrs. B. M. Ossoon, 1 Haynes Park, Roxbury, Mass.

High compliments should be showered on those who worked the roads for two or three miles east of Brunswick. It was an artistic job which would reflect more credit on Nick Wright, the man who looks after the Salus-Salisbury road, and keep them in such fine condition, had he been at the head of the work on the section first mentioned.
