July past has been distastefully healthy—so say the doctors. It is an indisputable fact as well as an agreeable fact that Cairo is the healthiest place in the world. Observation and figures prove it.

Our dispatches, on the first page, announce the sale, at St. Louis on Tuesday, 17th inst., of the personal property of the Iron Mountain railroad, by a government official, who seizes the same for debt.

The most popular shoe shop in town is on 20th street opposite the court house hotel, where Wm. Ehlers manufactures boots and shoes for his customers, warranted to be of the best French calf, kip or morocco, and where the proprietors give entire satisfaction. Call on him and you will know how it goes. 2t

Chas. H. Evans, Washington avenue between Eighth and Ninth streets, has on hand a splendid stock of family groceries of all kinds, which he is selling at the lowest prices. He is determined to be not undersold, and challenges comparison of the quality of his goods with any house in the city.

A gentleman, living in Cairo, has the hardihood to inquire, "Why people complain of the howling of dogs and the jargon of cow-bells at midnight, for he's never disturbed by them." Probably not, and wouldn't be if a columbed was worked all night under his bed-room window. Sleep that is utter oblivion to sound is a rarity possessed only by a select and favored few of nature.

There is in this city a sho black aged twelve years, who left Nashville when only six years old, at the death of his parents. He has "paddled his own canoe" ever since, taking in all cities between Maine and Missouri. He is very bright, says he sleeps and eats when and where he can, does not steal, and would like to work somewhere, and have, at the same time, an opportunity of going to school. Where are our philanthropists?

William Alba's barber shop is growing in public favor every day. It is neatly fitted up, and can boast of the most skillful workmen in the city. The proprietor has had many years' experience in his business and is recognized as one of the most expert shavers in Southern Illinois, while young Alba is a master in his profession. Citizens and strangers who wish a painless shave, a luxurious shampooing, or their hair cut in the latest style should patronize Alba. His shop is on Commercial avenue next door to Hannon's news depot.

Some heavy guns are, we understand shortly to be discharged on the "Infidel Tract Question." Both sides are preparing for the fray. In the controversy it is intended to embrace that period of time known before Adam down to and beyond the approaching millennium, although what such a controversy has to do with the distribution of innocent matter—we care not what its source is—not perfectly clear. But let them rip. Give them fair play and a clear field. Go in on your Christian and anti-Christian muscles, gentlemen. No harm can result from it. Truth is unshakable, and as America's greatest son once remarked, "error ceases to be dangerous while truth is left free to combat it." Go in.

Mr. Vincent left the city yesterday, intending to make a tour through the country, making arrangements for the sale of tickets of his gift enterprise, the drawing of which will take place soon, as the tickets are nearly all sold. We can assure our friends who may be favorably called from Mr. Vincent's that they may place full confidence in the representations set forth in his circular with respect to the fine property to be drawn and the manner in which the enterprise will be conducted. We are so well satisfied of this that we have taken a number of shares, but will be content to draw the capital price, leaving the others among the tickets still unsold, that no person need hesitate to purchase one or more.

SORRY.

A NEGRO IMAGINES HIS SOUL IN A DOG'S BODY.

HE GORGED HIMSELF WITH FEAT AND GOES STARK MAD.—BAYS LIKE A HOUND AND YELPS LIKE A CUR.—A WOMAN AT THE BOTTOM OF IT—A STRANGE ILLUSTRATION.

There are three persons, colored, of course, directly concerned in this matter. William Stovall, black, ugly and ignorant, is the hero; Martha Stovall, orange-hued, fresh-looking, living in the middle of the twenties, sharp as a razor, and addicted to liquor and loose virtues, is the heroine; Samuel Johnston, a fancy buck; a load dressed of winning ways; a practiced colored female heart-smasher, is the interloper who has invaded the bliss of the Stovall mansion, "tricked" the head of it, transformed him into a frothing dog, possessing and giving utterance to all the yelps and growls, barks and bays, moans and groans known to dogology, and who has set by the ears all the colored population and a portion of the white, living in Cairo and the adjacent country into which the news has penetrated.

THE STORY is a remarkable one, as told by Mrs. Stovall herself, and well illustrates the duplicity and cunning of the "smart" nigger on the one hand, and the mental caliber, fear and superstition of the common darkey on the other. It is proper to preface Mrs. Stovall's statement with the remark that the main incidents narrated by her are absolutely true, as hundreds of persons, who testify who have visited the quarters of Stovall during his strange sickness; and if there still should be doubts entertained by any one, we advise that one to at once visit Stovall while in his present condition.

MRS. STOVALL SAYS she has been living with Stovall, as his wife for two years; that he has been uniformly kind to her; has worked for and supported her, but could never bear to see her talk, walk with, or even look at a man of her race, no matter what might be his age or condition. Upon one occasion, while conversing with the reverend Mr. Bradley, whom she describes as a pure and good old man, Stovall came up and became so exasperated that she was obliged to run away to save herself from his wrath. Immediately afterward he went to bed and threatened to kill himself, unless she would swear to never speak or look at "that man" again. Promising that she would not, he arose from his bed, and was soon himself again.

ABOUT FOUR WEEKS AGO, Stovall left the city, to work in the country, saying that he would be absent for a couple of months at least. Stovall's back had scarcely been turned upon his home when the fascinating Johnson entered and took complete possession, at the request of the false Mrs. S. This condition of affairs lasted until the unexpected RETURN OF STOVALL, on Saturday last. Being acquainted with the turn matters had taken, he armed himself drunkly, and threatened the fair with the most vengeance. Johnson and Mrs. S., learning of this, discreetly suppressed their visit, and all the portable articles of value and similitude were taken by Stovall, by the time time stole away. Stovall, by the time time stole away, by the time time stole away, by the time time stole away.

THAT HE HAD BEEN "TRICKED," that Johnson, not satisfied with exercising his weird powers over the partner of his bosom, was, at that moment, working on him; that "he felt it in his bones"; and that, worst of all, he knew and felt his soul was gradually leaving him and entering the body of a dog. This idea, once formed, seemed to take complete possession of him, and no persuasion could shake his faith in it. The powers of certain negroes, by the aid of evil spirits, to perform astounding miracles and work absurd charmas, is a religious belief with fully nine-tenths of the more ignorant among them, and we have been informed by members of our police force, that on the persons of those whom they arrest are frequently found amulets, with which, they claim, they can resist the powers of the "charmers," as they call them.

STOVALL'S ANTIDOTE was as agreeable as it was ingenious. He sent by some friends for a large quantity of fruit, embracing watermelons, apples, peaches, pears, grapes, etc., and these he prepared, by cutting and mixing up, making what might be properly called a fruit "hash." Over the dish he sprinkled a powder, where or from whence obtained is not known. With this dish, thus prepared, HE GORGED HIMSELF, notwithstanding the warning of those of his friends who were in his quarters. He paid no attention whatever to their remonstrances, and declined to notice their presence by word or look. About two hours afterward, he rolled out on the floor AS COLD AS A CORPSE, and became alarmed and rushed out for Dr. Woods, a part of whose office building, on Fourth street and Washington avenue, Stovall had occupied for a long time. The doctor, being informed of what had happened, immediately administered emetics and purgatives, with little hope that the "tricked" Stovall could be saved. In a few hours, however, he began to show symptoms of life, and is now physically all right; but up to Wednesday last, when we saw him, he was STILL BAYING.

He oaths at the mouth of his Martha, and although she brought and is present at his bedside, he does not recognize her; and she is to be with her so, word. His mind is evidently on Johnson, whom, in his delirium, he constantly threatens with extermination. The most peculiar feature of his madness is his utter inability to speak. He is unable to utter a word, but he is able to bark and bay like a cur, while his moaning cannot be distinguished from a crying dog, so perfect is the imitation of the sound. All efforts at cure have, as far, been only partially successful, and every day of his sickness, negroes have flocked in from all parts to see him.

ONE OLD NEGRO, especially, avowed that he never did believe in such things before, but now he gave it up. He had seen it with his own eyes, and could say no more. The most intense excitement prevails in our Africa, and many of the more timid, fearing they might "catch it," decline to visit him.

NOTICE.—Mr. Hochstedel is prepared to pay at once all claims against him, and desires those who are indebted to him to come up and settle. aug-1w.

FOR SALE OR RENT.—The Hotel Garni, situated on Commercial Avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets, Cairo, Ill. Failing health of the owner requires him to make this change. The house is doing a paying business, is large and commodious, built of brick and well arranged. For particulars, address Henry Harris, Cairo, Ill., or apply on the premises. Jy26d2.

WE would call the attention of our country friends who want to get good pictures to call on J. J. Thomas, who has a very pleasant gallery on Commercial Avenue for their accommodation, and is really the best artist we have had in Cairo for a long time. 1f
