Mr. E. L. Dodson, clerk of the snag-boats J. J. Albert, writes that the work of removing the wreck in the bend above this city will soon have been accomplished. Some portions of the Blackhawk still remain, but a few more torpedoes will destroy it. There is at present 8 feet of water on the wreck. Last week the Albert pulled three snags weighing nearly six tons; removed portions of six sunken fat-boats, and on the wreck of the Blackhawk found two axes for gun carriages, having about 100 lbs of brass attached; a fine 1,275 lb anchor, minus the stock; 40 feet of 1 1/2 and 75 feet of one-half inch chains. During her work she has exploded seven torpedoes of 25 lbs each, and 34 of 12 1/2 lbs each.
