Reuben Anglin, a small colored boy, was terribly wounded several days ago at Gainesville by the explosion of a dynamite cap which he had in his hand. The mother, who heard the explosion, rushed into the house and on seeing her wounded son fainted and in a few moments was dead.

SOMEBODY.

Somebody's courting somebody, Somebody or other tonight; Somebody's whispering to somebody, Somebody's listening to somebody, Under this clear moonlight.

Near the bright river's flow, Sunning so still and slow, Talking so soft and low, She sits with somebody.

Under the maple tree Deep though the shadow be, Plain enough they can see, Bright eyes has somebody.

Two sitting side by side, Float with the ebbing tide, "Thus dearest, may we glide Through life," says somebody.

Somewhere, somebody, Makes love to somebody, Tonight.

The Smith-Kennedy Wedding.

Thursday night, September 14, 1905, the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Smith was the scene of a beautiful wedding, where Mr. Robt. I. Kennedy was married to Miss Emma Smith.

The wedding was witnessed by about forty friends of the contracting parties.

The house was charmingly decorated with pink and white roses, palms and ferns.

Promptly at 8:30 Mrs. Halton started to play Mendelssohn's wedding march, and the bridal party descended the stairs in the following order: Rev. Townsend, of the Methodist church, who performed the ceremony, came first; then came little Miss Emma Gene Smith, a niece of the bride, who was unusually pretty in a white organdie gown; following her, the bridesmaids came carrying white satin ribbons which made a path for the bride and groom to pass through. The maids were Miss Lutie Smith and Miss Nina Kennedy, and both were becomingly gowned in white.

The bride wore an exquisite gown of white liberty satin with lace trimmings, and carried brides' roses.

After the impressive service which made Miss Smith and Mr. Kennedy man and wife, a dainty and delicious luncheon of two courses was served in the dining room. Frappe was also served by Miss Agnes Turner from a cozy little bower on the front porch.

Miss Smith is a charming young woman and is well known throughout the state, having resided in Anthony, Ocala, Orlando and Sarasota, and has many friends who will wish her lifelong happiness.

Mr. Kennedy formerly resided in Winter Haven, but is now agent for the Seaboard Air Line at Sarasota. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy left Friday morning for Asheville, N. C., where they will spend two weeks with Mrs. Kennedy's sister, Mrs. Wm. Ross.

They were the recipients of numerous wedding presents, which consisted of silver, cut glass, china and linen.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy are building a house in Sarasota, and until it is completed will reside with Mr. H. S. Smith.—Sarasota Times.

Abcesses.

Abcesses with few exceptions, are indicative of consumption or debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss. writes Aug. 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise to Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abcess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I went to J. F. Lord's drug store (who is now in Denver, Colo.) He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world. For sale by all druggists."

One farmer in this county made and sold 3,650 pounds of butter in the twelve months ending July 1. Is there any excuse for a farmer to be poor in Marion county? This butter was sold at 30 and 35 cents a pound. Still many thousands of pounds are shipped to Ocala yearly from distant states.

To grow strong. Unless we get good meat we may as well let it alone. There is no strength in tough meat—instead of giving it takes strength to digest it. It pays to be careful in buying meat—be sure to get the best—tender and choice. Pay a little more if need be and put something in your stomach which will put flesh on your bones and strong blood in your veins.
