A BEAUTIFUL EASTER WEDDING

In a bower of lovely asparagus ferns last night, Miss Harriet Jane Dye became the wife of Mr. Isaac Verne Stevens.

The scene was a very attractive one as the bridal party stood in the chancel, the lights from the many candles shedding a softened glow over the pretty bride and her attendants.

A beautiful sentiment was attached to the candles used at this wedding, as they were the old-fashioned tallow candles, and were made many, many years ago by the bride's great aunt, Mrs. Harriet Badger, for whom Miss Dye was named.

An exquisite arrangement of feathery asparagus ferns was used around the altar, chancel and in the spaces over the windows and doors, and the cozy little Grace church seemed a veritable garden spot. Easter lilies were also used most attractively on the altar, and a screen of ferns was hung before the organ.

Before the wedding party arrived a large number of society people had braved the inclement weather and assembled to witness these nuptials, and were pleasantly interested in the event so soon to happen.

The interval of waiting was filled in with a beautiful organ program, softly rendered by Miss Byrd Wartmann. The Lohengrin wedding march was the signal for the bride's coming.

The ushers entered first and took their seats, Mr. E. J. Crook with Miss Edith Taylor of Glendale, Ohio, and Mr. O. B. Howse with Miss Mary Walker of Danville, Va., who are house guests at the Weathers home.

The groomsmen, Messrs. G. H. Ford and Stephen Jewett, then entered, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Mahd Taylor of Glendale, Ohio, and Miss Miriam Pasteur. They were gowned alike, wearing the daintiest of white and pale green mousseline gowns, beautifully inset with lace and with pale green chiffon satin trimmings. They carried white prayer books.

The handsome maid of honor Miss Esther Weathers, the bride's first cousin, who has been as her own sister, entered alone. Stunningly gowned in a white figured net over taffeta, made princess, and with the sheerest and softest accessories, she looked every inch a young queen and was greatly admired. The finishing touch to her costume was given by the dainty prayer book she so gracefully carried.

The bride entered on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Brantley A. Weathers, who gave her away. Beautifully gowned in white messaline satin, fashioned in the Empire Princess style, with a graceful train, the bride was lovely with happiness, her beautiful character ennobling the pretty face. The bodice of the gown was made with a yoke of Duchess and rose point lace, which was brought from Europe by one of the bride's intimate friends. Extending from the yoke to the bottom of the skirt was a panel daintily finished with hand embroidery. She wore a tulle veil prettily arranged against her beautiful curly hair, and carried a white prayer book, which was used by Rector Harrison in the service.

At the chancel the wedding party were met by the groom and his best man, his brother, Mr. Henry Stevens, of Lakeland, and the officiating clergyman, Rev. G. H. Harrison of Grace church, who read the Episcopal service most impressively.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the Mendelssohn wedding march brought the happy young people down from the altar, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens being followed by the best man with Miss Weathers, Mr. Ford with Miss Taylor and Mr. Jewett with Miss Pasteur. They were followed by the ushers, the two families, the reception guests and lastly the interested spectators, Miss Wartmann playing until the house was empty.

The bridal party, relatives and intimate friends were driven immediately to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weathers, where an informal reception was held.

In the parlor Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Weathers and Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Stevens received the guests. This room was charmingly arranged with a profusion of white oleanders and palms, the color scheme of green and white being used all over the house, as well as the church.

In the dining room the table was exceedingly attractive. In the center was a pyramid cake, a most delicious concoction, made by the bride herself. Cut glass and silver dishes, filled with salad, wafers, olives, green and white mints, and candles shaded with white and green, and sprays of asparagus ferns completed the table appointments. Vases of Easter lilies decorated the mantel and sideboard, and from the latter the punch was served.

The supper was served buffet style, the bridesmaids serving the salad, etc. The loaves were frozen in green and white, and with them was served delightful cake.

After receiving the congratulations and good wishes of those present, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens left on the night train for Shawnee, Oklahoma, where they will reside. En route to that city they will stop at several important points, and will be at home after the first of June at 630 N. Bell street.

The bride's going away gown was a modish three-piece suit of brown striped voile, with touches of pale green hand embroidery on the jacket and waist. Brown hat, gloves, shoes, parasol and bag completed this very becoming costume.

The presents were very handsome, the bride and groom being exceedingly popular with a large circle of friends. The beautiful gifts will be an ever-present reminder of the good wishes accompanying them.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens are both to be congratulated, for they are an exceedingly well-mated couple, both belonging to families who have been socially prominent for years, and both occupying a pleasant position in society, and in the regard of their friends.

In business life Mr. Stevens is very highly thought of. He was reared in this city, but for seven years has made Shawnee his home, and he has a very fine business there, and will introduce his bride to a large number of charming friends and acquaintances.

The marriage of Miss Dye and Mr. Stevens was a very happy culmination to the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Stevens.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were present as well as a number of other relatives. The aged grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Neal Ferguson, of Oldtown, had made every preparation to be present at this happy time, but owing to illness was obliged to deprive her granddaughter of her presence, which fact was a matter of very deep regret to the entire family.

"In a Breath of Air"

Health Comes From Knowing How and What to Breathe

Both health and disease come "in a breath of air."

Dust laden with the germs of consumption of other disease is inhaled on every street, but disease does not develop unless the germs find conditions suitable for growth.

In the catarrhal condition there is an ideal culture medium for these germs, as the weakened tissues are like a hotbed where the germs thrive and multiply until dangerously active.

If you have catarrh, use the easiest, simplest and quickest cure, the direct method of Hyomei, whose wonderful medicated air destroys germs and makes catarrh and germ infection impossible.

You do not risk a cent in testing Hyomei's healing virtues, for with every $1 outfit the Postoffice Drugstore gives a guarantee to refund the money if it fails to cure.

A CORRECTION

To the Ocala Banner.

In making out the list of contributions to the Confederate monument it was forgotten to mention the faithful work of Mrs. W. L. Ditto, who suggested the idea of making a silk quilt and selling or raffling it for the cause. The idea was enthusiastically adopted by the Daughters, and Mrs. Ditto superintended the work and beautifully completed the quilt, selling many chances for it in Jacksonville, and the net proceeds, through her generous efforts, amounted to nearly forty dollars. The Chapter regretted very much that she could not be present at the unveiling.

Among the early contributors not mentioned was Mr. Carter, father of Mrs. W. D. Graham, whose name, being enrolled on the book lost in the fire, was unintentionally omitted. If the names of others have been omitted, please notify us.

Yours truly,
MRS. FANNIE R. GARY.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the committee on ice water and lemonade on the day of our Confederate monument unveiling, wish to thank the Teapot Grocery for a liberal supply of lemons and sugar, the ice factories for generous donations of ice and the Marion Hardware store for the loan of buckets, tubs, etc., in which the lemonade and ice water were made.

Respectfully,
MRS. E. P. MOODY,
MRS. WILL GRAHAM,
MRS. E. L. CARNEY.

MR. J. N. TILLER HAS HIS ANKLE CRUSHED

Mr. J. N. Tiller, a prominent and well known turpentine operator, living at Martin, was in a serious runaway Monday. He and young Mr. Wishart, his brother-in-law, were driving a Texas horse attached to a buggy, when the animal became frightened at some object and became unmanageable. Mr. Tiller jumped from the vehicle and had one of his ankles crushed. The bone was broken so badly that it protruded through the flesh and stuck in the ground. Word was sent to Ocala as quickly as possible, and Dr. Dan Morgan Smith and Dr. W. H. Powers responded to the call and set the broken limb.

We do not know whether Mr. Wishart was injured in the runaway or not, but presume he was not, as the phone message only mentioned the injury to Mr. Tiller, who will be laid up for some weeks.

MR. DITTO BUYS THE BENJAMIN PROPERTY

Mr. Frank Ditto has just consummated a deal whereby he becomes the owner of the Benjamin property on Oklawaha avenue (not including the residence occupied by Mr. Thagard and family).

This is one of the handsomest and most valuable properties in the city, and Mr. Ditto expects to put a number of improvements on it and place it on the market for sale for building lots.

The Woodmar Sand and Stone Co. will immediately put down cement sidewalks in front of the property and we shall very soon expect to see some pretty homes erected on the same.

ANOTHER JAIL DELIVERY

Four prisoners escaped from the county jail Monday afternoon just about the time of the heavy downpour of rain. The prisoners took the jailer unawares, coming up on him from the back and overpowering him, took his pistol away from him, and in the scuffle the jailer was badly choked. They then made their escape. Phone messages were sent up to the city summoning the police, but up to a late hour last night the prisoners were still at large. This is the second escape within the month. The prisoner that escaped before was caught the next day.

Makes Life Miserable

Troubles That Keep Half the Ocala Doctors Busy

Half of the prescriptions the Ocala doctors write are for troubles that result directly from a weakened stomach. Strengthen the stomach muscles and increase the secretion of gastric juices with Miona, and you will find that common affliction—indigestion, with its headaches, dizziness, depression of spirits, spots before the eyes, nervousness, sleeplessness and general debility—has been overcome.

If Miona did not have an unusually curative effect in stomach disorders, it could not be sold on the guarantee given by the Postoffice Drugstore to refund the money unless it does all that is claimed for it. They give an absolute, unqualified guarantee with every 50-cent box of Miona that the money will be refunded unless the medicine cures. You certainly can afford to get Miona from the moon this plan.
