THE RIALTO MANAGER

F. M. Nicodemus, manager of the Rialto theatre, is in town arranging for the opening of the new show house right after the first of the year. Mr. Nicodemus is a likable fellow, with an appreciation of the public's wants in the amusement line. Formerly a teacher in the Glendive high school and later manager of a mercantile establishment, the young man appears fully competent to anticipate the popular taste. He is a product of the Wisconsin University but has been in Glendive for the past five years. Married with one little girl, we believe they will prove welcome additions to the social life of the city.

Mr. Nicodemus has rented the J. C. Auer house.

The new manager says that he is here to please the people of Dickinson and believes that he has the material. A full booking of the Paramount, Metro, Fox and Selznick offerings has been made. In addition, he intends to produce vaudeville one night each week. For the present, he said, the music will be furnished by a pianist but as soon as possible, a first-class orchestra will be featured.

Mr. Lange, experienced operator from Minneapolis, will do the filming.

ENGLISH WOMAN IS PROUD OF WILSON—LOSES SON IN FRANCE

A letter has just been received by Mayor White from his sister in England. In it she tells of the strain under which all of the people in that vicinity are under. They live directly in the path of airplanes that occasionally are sent over the country from Germany to raid England. Her letter, dated November 27, says that they have had no raids in that vicinity for more than a month but they are greatly unnerved just the same.

Her family has contributed a son, Fred, to the cause of war. He fell in an engagement northeast of Verdennes and the war department is now trying to locate his burial place for the mother's sake. Two others of her family have distinguished themselves in the service. One son, George, has won the military cross for bravery in France and the other, a husband of her step-daughter, has been decorated with the Distinguished Conduct medal.

"America's coming into the war has made it better for us," she writes. "I admire President Wilson because he seems to be a man who thinks twice before he acts and I always picture him as an upright, honest man, and God knows we want clearheaded men as leaders in this terrible war."

An echo of the Lusitania disaster is sounded in her letter when she writes, "When we were at Broadstairs, we saw a boat that was washed up from the wreck of the Lusitania with several bodies in it. It was purchased by a resident of Broadstairs, who presented it to the council, and underneath were the words, 'Lest We Forget.'"

The letter had been opened by the censor. It is postmarked "Faversham."

GOVERNMENT LESSONS PENSION BURDEN BY SOLDIER INSURANCE

The act which provides for Government life insurance for soldiers and sailors has now been in operation a little more than a month. The Secretary of the Treasury announced on November 17th, that up to that date 64,168 applications under the new law had been received, representing insurance in the sum of $552,093,000. From four to six thousand applications are received each day at the Treasury Department, the amount of insurance applied for some times reaching a total of fifty million dollars in a single day.

The law provides that soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses in active service may obtain from the government life insurance in amounts not exceeding $10,000 at premium rates ranging from 65 cents a month at the age of 21 years to $1.20 a month at the age of 51 years, for each $1,000 of insurance.

One of the primary objects of this law is to lessen the tremendous burden of pensions which has followed as a consequence of all American wars.

It is evident that the administration of this new branch of Government work is big business in itself. But this is only one of many governmental activities incident to the war which are adding great numbers of clerks, stenographers, and other servants to Uncle Sam's payroll. Literally thousands of stenographers and type writers have been appointed in Washington during the past few months and thousands more are to be appointed as soon as they are available. The United States Civil Service commission is holding examinations for these positions weekly throughout the country. Secretaries of local boards of civil service examiners at the post offices in all cities are furnishing detailed information.

It has been a very unusual year. But business has been good and we want to thank you for your share of what we have enjoyed.

For those who have had troubles during the year we are sorry.

Many have sent their loved ones to war. All honor to them.

If you have enjoyed happiness and prosperity, we are very glad.

Here's hoping that all of us may have a happier and a more prosperous year in 1918.
