THE UNIVERSITY QUARTERLY JOURNAL FOR JANUARY

The January number of the Quarterly Journal of the University of North Dakota is just from the press. The number is devoted to the main to strictly literary subjects, though it is not confined entirely to this field. The contents, briefly described, are as follows:

Professor Squires, head of the Department of English, contributes an interesting article of literary criticism dealing with Coleridge's well-known poem, "Christabel." The poem is one that has aroused much conjecture among students of literature as to its hidden significance.

A fine literary production, in the serious form of a serious poem entitled, "The Great Refusal," is contributed by Professor Gottfried, head of the department of Greek. The theme is based on the Scriptural incident of the rich young man who was told by the master to sell his possessions in order to become a disciple, but who could not bring himself to make so great a sacrifice. Dr. Henry R. Brush, Professor of the Romance Languages, contributes a scholarly discussion of the "Cortegiano," ("The Courtier"), an Italian classic that voiced the sixteenth century ideal of a gentleman.

An article that every reader will find interesting is the one of "The Theater as a Power," written by William Faversham, the well-known actor. Mr. Faversham wrote this article to be read as an address on the occasion of his visit to the University in September.

The concluding article is on "The Nature of Moral Behavior," and is written by Dr. John T. Todd, of the department of Psychology. The article presents a searching psychological analysis of the nature and development of moral qualities.

To the student who wishes guidance in the matter of his serious reading, the book reviews will be of particular interest. Each review is by some one especially well qualified by knowledge and experience to judge the book he deals with.

The last few pages of the magazine are devoted to the University Notes, in which topics of direct interest to University life, and to the educational world in general, are editorially discussed.

OPENS OFFICE

N. B. Ludowese, who for the past three years has filled the position of city auditor, resigned last week and has opened up an abstract office in the telephone building.

In addition to the abstract business Mr. Ludowese has contracted for the output of the Black Diamond coal mine and will have charge of the selling of this coal during the life of his contract.

FOURTH ANNUAL PARTY

The Bishop's Committee of the Episcopal Church will give their fourth annual party in the new armory building, corner Main and Fourth Sts., next Friday evening, January 16th, commencing at 8:00 o'clock. Onstad's orchestra has been engaged for the occasion and the usual extra fine time is promised.

The big piano contest is proving a great subscription getter.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

The quartet choir of the Congregational church, assisted by Mrs. Shaw and Mr. Currie, will give a musical program next Sunday evening. The plan also includes a violin obligato by Mr. Onstad if he has returned to the city by that time. The object of these occasional musical evenings is to gather up what the choir has been giving for the past few months into one rounded program, and to use the offering taken at this service in buying more music. The service begins at 7:30, and the following program is planned:

1. Prelude.....Mrs. G. A. Volby
2. Hymn.....
3. The Lord's Prayer and Response.
4. Consider and Hear Me. Pfleger
5. Miss Baldwin and quartet
6. Beneath the Cross of Jesus.....Berwald
7. Responsive reading.
8. Spirit of God.....Humason
9. Mrs. Todd and quartet
10. Even Me.....Warren
11. Mr. Cunningham and quartet
12. Hymn.....
13. Solo (selected).....Mrs. E. S. Shaw
14. Jerusalem and Golden.....Marston
15. Miss Baldwin and quartet
16. I Will Give you Rest.....West
17. Offertory.....Mrs. Volby
18. Duet: Love Divine, all Love Excelling.....Stainer
19. Mr. Currie and Mrs. Todd
20. Hymn.....
21. Lo it is I.....Faure-Shelley
22. God so Loved the World. Stainer
23. Benediction.

WINDISH-PRATT WEDDING

A very simple, but yet an impressive wedding took place at the Methodist parsonage Monday evening, January 12, when William E. Windisch of Buford, N. D., was united in marriage to Miss Juanita W. Pratt of Mondak, Mont. Rev. E. Lewis Wall performed the ceremony, using the single ring service. The bride was richly attired in white cassimere, while the groom wore the conventional black. The Executive Committee of the Ladies Aid Society happened to be holding a business meeting at the parsonage at this time, so Mrs. Wall invited the newly weds and also the Executive Committee to the dining room where a most delectable oyster stew was served them. Mr. and Mrs. Windisch will reside at Mondak where the groom is in the mercantile business.

STREET SPRINKLER OUT

We had to have the street sprinkler out today sprinkling the streets on account of the dust. One of our gentle zephers came out of the west and disturbed the quantities of fine dust lying around, making it uncomfortable. The sprinkler was ordered out and Main street sprinkled which helped a great deal.

MILLER DECLARES RELEASE IS O. K.

The proper lawful papers are issued for his arrest by the authorities of this state and $500 any time the higher court in this state orders Remington to the penitentiary to serve out the balance of his time as it is claimed should be done.

Mr. Hellstrom contends that when the board of pardons set aside the verdict of the court for life sentence and substituted a thirty-year term that the good time allowance would date back from the original date of sentence and that he violated no law or custom in giving Remington his freedom.
