THE CHRISTMAS SHIP

The Chicago Herald has started a movement to give the children of Europe some little pleasure at Christmas time. It says that the Christmas ship which is to bear gifts from the children of America to the orphan children of war-torn Europe offers a big opportunity for doing good and a bigger opportunity for receiving it. It will bless the little child who gives as well as the little one who receives.

What an opportunity it will provide to carry joy to thousands and thousands of homes that would otherwise be dark and cheerless a Christmas night—homes whose defender and sustainer lies dead on some distant field of battle.

What an opportunity to carry to all of Europe, in the most helpful way conceivable, the real sympathy which Americans, without distinction, feel for a continent in the grim clutch of war and want.

What an opportunity to raise amid the discordant clash of war a note of pure humanity, sweet and sane and strong—a note to which the nations must respond—a note to awake the better angels of their nature.

What an opportunity to lead the children of America, through a work of gentleness and love, to realize the great joy of giving, the beauty of self-sacrifice and the blessedness of peace.

What an opportunity to enlarge their sympathies till they take in half a world, to implant lessons of humanity that in future days shall stand like steel against war's crime and folly.

What an opportunity to impress on childhood the real meaning of the day that Christ was born, and with it the whole gospel of help for the unfortunate, care for the orphan and the widow, and that last, greatest commandment of all "that we love one another."

The Christmas ship is no idle fancy. It will be an accomplished fact. It will be ready in due season to carry to the war-swept lands and homes of Europe the offerings which the children of America make to the innocent victims of war's rage and madness.

Think for a moment that army of orphans—more pathetic than any beaten, shattered host. A scattered little army without defense, but with an appeal that goes straight to the heart. A pitiful little army on which war is moving as remorselessly as against the armies of the field.

Think what Christmas promises to be for most of them: of the widowed mother with full heart and empty hands; of the cheerless home and the childish hopes all blasted; of the vacant chair, and of the father and protector they will never see again.

LIBRARY NOTES

The passage of the Home Rule Bill has attracted comparatively little attention in the face of the European war, yet it is the end of many years of struggle. "Peg O' My Heart," by J. Hartley Manners, needs no introduction to play-goers or play-lovers, but the reading of it makes very vivid the hopes and desires and struggles of the Irish people. It makes a book of more than ordinary merit.

Mrs. Red Pepper, the sequel to Red Pepper Burns, published in the Ladies Home Journal serially under the title "The Country Doctor," needs very little comment. All who enjoyed Red Pepper Burns will want to read it.

Jeb Hutton, by James B. Connolly, is one of the best boys' stories that has come into the library for many months. Jeb, a Georgia boy, is brot to the notice of the government surveyors by a happy accident, and his career in the government service, dredging the mouth of one of the coast rivers, together with his friendship for the irrepressible Mr. Kelly, make a story that sounds so real it is hard to believe it didn't actually happen.

Pencil Sketching, by George W. Koch, published by the art department of the Prang Company, will be of practical assistance to would-be artists and sketchers, especially among the boys and girls.

Modern Dancing, by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle, will be of interest to those who are learning the various steps involved in the modern dances. It is fully illustrated.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

(By Special Correspondent)

Majority Leader Underwood is making strenuous efforts to arrange a recess for the House to begin about October 10. It is thought likely that, if the Senate winds up its business by the middle of October, an adjournment of both branches of Congress will be had in which event an extra session would be called for about November 11. Should the Senate not wind up its affairs, the House will take a recess for four or five weeks.

Because of the prominent part being played by the aviators in the European war in locating the enemy and giving the range to the artillery, the Secretary of the Navy is considering plans for enlarging that branch of the navy's equipment.

To demonstrate the safety of heavier than air flying machines, and what can be done with them, the well known aviator, Lincoln Beachey, gave an exhibition before the Pres., Members of the Cabinet and of Congress. Besides performing such feats as looping-the-loop, he volplaned fully 1,000 feet with his machine upside-down, after which he righted the machine and landed with ease.

Secretary Redfield has appointed commercial attaches of the United States to Peru, London, Buenos Aires, Berlin, Peking, Rio and Paris. Seven additional posts will be filled later. The duties of these gentlemen will be to investigate manufacturing, industrial and trade conditions in the countries to which they are sent and report thereon. These reports will be made available through the Department of Commerce.

During the week ending September 26, seven foreign vessels with an aggregate of 23,716 tons were admitted to U. S. registry. Six of these ships were English and one German.

The American Embassy in Paris was severely shaken by a bomb dropped by a German aeroplane Sunday. The U. S. government will take no action in the matter.

It is announced by the Secretary of the Treasury that exports to European countries are rapidly becoming normal. On Monday 20,752 bales of cotton were exported. This is the largest amount exported in one day since the war began.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo has withdrawn $3,000,000 of the government money which was deposited in banks in various sections of the country to be used in moving crops. The Secretary announces that this action was taken because of the fact that the banks from which this money is withdrawn were hoarding the money instead of using it for the purpose intended. It is intended to place the money in other banks which will use it for moving crops.

Because of the need of certain dyes, chemical and pharmaceutical preparations and sugar beet seed in this country, a ship is to be sent to a port in Holland to which place Germany will send the needed articles. It is hoped in this way to supply our need in these materials.

It is said that Great Britain has held up a ship containing a cargo of copper shipped from the U. S. A resolution was passed by the Senate calling upon Secretary Bryan for the facts in the case.

A FACTORY ON THE FARM

A silo is a factory on the farm and therefore lends itself to co-operation of the commercial and agricultural interests. The farmer gets the profit of both producer and consumer.

We need more of these twin agencies of prosperity on the farms of North Dakota and business men cannot render a better service to their communities than in encouraging the building of silos. The silo is a great business educator. It arouses the spirit of enterprise, develops business ingenuity and awakens the joy of ownership.

A farmer can build a silo for two or three hundred dollars, and it will, under ordinary conditions, pay a dividend of 40 per cent where it is run to capacity.

F. O. B. Detroit
Passenger Touring Car and Roadster

THE AUTO MART

DISTRIBUTORS
Williston, N. Dak.

The Auto Mart says:

A lot of men we know, some you probably know, will soon be driving the new Hupmobile.

Every one of them is able to buy other cars.

But they don't want the others—they want the new Hupmobile.

Why are they walking—or driving their old meanwheels?

Because they recognize the extra value in the big, comfortable five-passenger Hup, in its refinements, in its conveniences and its really complete equipment.

Men know something about Hup goodness—enough to make them want it in preference to anything else on the market.

And they know the new Hup is fit to give them the complete satisfaction that has made the Hup famous hereabout.

We're proud to represent a car that has the high standing of the Hupmobile; proud of this beautiful, big, new model, which actually draws men to itself.

Come in and let us show you the new car's fine points.

Your winter driving will be made enjoyable by the finely-finished sedan or coupe top, which can be attached to touring car or roadster at especially alluring cost.
