

ALMOST every housewife owns some very fine laces, linens, draperies, etc., which she uses only on "state" occasions.

But no matter how carefully they are handled and put away, they generally need freshening up when they are taken from the attic trunk and almost always before they are returned to it. Yet one hesitates to wash such exquisite articles.

Use Ivory Soap and you need have no fear of washing any of them as often as necessary. It is so pure and mild that it will injure nothing that water itself will not harm. Its quality is in keeping with the choicest fabrics. That is why it washes them so safely and so beautifully.

An "Hurried Dress Parade" by two globe trotters, at which Mr. John Bruegger's side proved themselves the most rapid eaters and clear throated whistlers; having gained the reward of a glass of water. Many other forms of amusements mingled with social discourse made the evening one continuous jovial good time. Luncheon was served by the ladies of Mrs. Harris's Bible school class.

The annual sale and supper of the ladies aid last Friday exceeded expectations. The commodious basement made it easy to handle the large crowd and to display the many useful articles offered for sale. The hospital committee banquetted in supper room.

The Christmas exercises of the church and Sunday School will be held December 20th. Christmas sermon in the morning and a service in which both church and Bible school will join at 7:30 in the evening. Giving rather than receiving, is the method adopted in accordance with the "White Gifts for the King." This method of observing Christmas in the bible school was so satisfactory last year that it is now considered the established custom.

The pastor will be glad to be advised of any families anywhere in Williston or in adjacent territory who will not likely have the usual amount of Christmas cheer.

Parents are requested to remember the special service Sunday evening under the auspices of the boys' club, the Knights of St. Paul.

The pastor expects to be able to attend the Christmas exercises held at the out-stations where he has held services during the summer. An effort will be made to arrange them so as not to conflict.

Blowing Out The Boy's Brains

An article in a recent Outlook entitled "Blowing Out The Boy's Brains" by one of the men at the head of the Boy Scout Movement, must make every mother or father or teacher who reads it do some pretty serious thinking. It is concerned with what boys are reading, and the instances it gives in which the boy's imagination is "blown out" by the impossible stuff put out in series on the market today, written just to sell, with absolutely no merit save that they are "thrillers." Well, one wouldn't feed one's stock on such unhealthy food and expect to produce good results.

And the pity of it is that there are just as many interesting, wholesome stories to be had for the money that goes for the poor ones. How are you going to know the trash from the healthy ones? Well, ask your dealer in books, when you are choosing the boy's Christmas present, for a book backed up by the Boy Scout Movement. Not the so-called "Boy Scout series," but a number of good stories like "The Call of the Wild" and "The Horseman of the Plains" put up in a special Boy Scout binding and selling for only fifty cents. They are for sale at one store in the city, and doubtless others will order them if they are asked for soon enough.

OUR SCRAP BASKET

The Mule

The mule, he is a funny sight, He's made of ears and dynamite, His heels are full of bricks and springs, Tornadoes, battering rams, and things.

He's fat as any poisoned pup; It's jest his meanness swells him up; He's always scheming 'round to do The things you most don't want him to.

The mule, he lives on anything; He's got a lovely voice to sing, And when he lets it loose at noon, It sounds like buzz saws out of tune.

He stands around with sleepy eye And looks as if he'd like to die, But when there's any dying done, It ain't the mule, I'll bet a bun. Some folks don't treat mules with respect.

They say they ain't got intellect; That may be so, but if you've got To go to heaven on the spot, And want a way that doesn't fail, Just pull the tassel on his tail, The mule, he tends to his own biz; He don't look loaded, but he is—Ex.

Goats

The goat is a frisky little bunch of animated ignorance that was meant to be a sheep, when something went wrong. Goats do not smell quite so bad as polecats or so sweet as a flower garden. They will eat tin cans and scrap iron, but are especially fond of clothes that have been left out over night. Some goats are as bad as men and women to butt in where they are not wanted.

Kitchen Kinks

When washing saucepans be sure to lay them in front of the fire for five or ten minutes so that they may dry thoroughly inside, and thus prevent deteriorating through getting rusty.

After use, all pudding cloths and jelly bags should be washed in very hot water, and when they have been well rinsed hung up to dry where they are exposed to a good draft.

If bacon is soaked in water for a few minutes before frying it will prevent the fat from running.

Will Produce a Hero

Military experts tell us that modern conditions have made war anonymous; that we need not look for the skyrocket rise out of the present battling armies of a new genius comparable with a Marlborough, a Napoleon, a Grant, a Sheridan, or a Lee.

With due respect, we do not believe it for a minute. The one thing that can not be kept down is human personality. It will appear. It is bound to. Otherwise the philosophy of history would have to be discarded.

The never-failing supply of vital young blood that insures the continuity of human progress will produce a hero for the present conflict, just as it has always produced leaders in periods of great stress and excitement.

If you think you ought to be able to buy it for a certain price, see if the store's "ads" throw any light on the matter.

METHODIST SALE

Citizens are asked to watch out for the sale which is to be given next by the ladies of the Methodist church. More definite announcements will be made later.

Who says Cut down the high cost of living? THE PUBLIC

The new cash system we have adopted is working out nicely. The public has begun to see where the high cost of living must come to a stop. The person who trades with us on the 30-day cash system will receive the same price, as the person who pays the cash as we consider 30 days as cash. We are still giving 30-day credit under the new cash system. But we are going to enforce our 30-day accounts, paid when due. In case a person cannot pay his 30 day account when due, arrangement can be made by giving a note. All arrangements for credit must be made at the office. Accounts are sent out on the 1st and 10th of every month, and if your account is not paid by the 16th you will be refused credit until your account is paid. And on the 15th if your account is not paid it is then turned over to our attorney for collection. We are determined to cut down the high cost of living, and to do this we must cut out the long line of credit.
